BACK FENCING

By A MAN ABOUT TOWN

▲ Folks, Spring must be near at hand. Each day now, we hear of local travelers who have returned home to enjoy the balmy breezes of early Spring. The Chas. Shain is back after an interesting and enjoyable trip to California. Mr. Shain reported that the stories circulated regarding the floods in sunny California are in the main, quite true. Homes, roads and bridges were torn away from their moorings and things were in quite a mess. He informed us that they had been able to go to the places they wished to visit, but often were obliged to take "round-about routes" to get there. And, believe it or not, they were RAINED IN for one entire day while in California.

▲ Mr. and Mrs. Alfred LaBelle have also been cavorting around the country. They chose as their itinerary the southern states and spent a very enjoyable two weeks down where the folks take their own sweet time, and don't care what anyone thinks about it. They combined business and pleasure and visited the South's outstanding Gift Shops, hoping to get some new ideas and perhaps some unusual merchandise for their shop here in Birmingham. They seemed a bit disappointed on that score however, as about all the roadside shops were devoted to antiques, rather than unusual things in the modern manner. Al marvels at the ingenuity of the southerners in their ability to CREATE genuine antiques. He also reported the food to be good... and quite reasonably priced.

▲ We were amused the other day to see Harold Corson, our serious minded City Treasurer, strolling down W. Maple, basking in a warm sun, without overcoat or topcoat, but with his fur cap perched snugly atop his head. He evidently is not taking too much for granted these March days.

▲ Our attention was called to a sign which was given a prominent place in the window of one of our local food stores the other day. It depicted a colorful array of fish and above the illustration was the caption, "Fresh Caught." The oddity of the sign was the color of the lobsters pictured. Lobsters, as you perhaps know, are given when taken from their native waters—BUT—turn a bright red after being cooked. The "Fresh Caught" lobsters in the picture were a beautiful shade of red. Some folks are just TOO observing. We must confess that we had not noticed the irregularity.

▲ Church groups who happened to pass Shire's Market last Sunday, were greeted to an unusual scene out in front of the store. We were curious too, so found out that the Jam Handy outfit, from Detroit, was using the exterior and interior of the Shire store as a background for a series of commercial photographs which they were taking for an advertising promotion for one of their clients. It's rather a compliment to our local store to have Detroit photographers come out here to obtain suitable backgrounds for their "shopping" commercials. They should have used Sam in the pictures... don't you think?

▲ Mrs. Tom Navin does not do things in a small way. While most of us are looking about these days for our "first robin," she steps out and sees TWO of them at one shot. That's the way she seems to do things in general though, we believe. When contacted the other day to serve on the Community House Roll Call, which comes up for the first week in April, she not only agreed to act as captain for the business district, but also offered to "go out and get the money" for the downtown merchants. What a break that Major got when he enlisted HER help!

▲ Claud Streb, product of the local school system, always was pretty handy with his pen. While attending Michigan State he delighted his friends back home by creating unusual cartoons on the envelopes of the letters which he sent to them. They were very humorous and usually showed a mail carrier in the act of delivering the letter to $10 and $0 after having been given special instructions by the sender. Now Claud has sold the idea to the Eaton Stationery people, and on their "Very-Very" line of stationery, Streb's cartoons appear on the envelopes. Local folks who know Mr. Streb will be interested to see the "brain-child" of the artist—and they are on display at local stores handling the Eaton line of stationery.

▲ We finally had the pleasure of attending a dinner meeting which was so planned and carried out that those in attendance were able to get up from their places at the tables without the usual aches and pains which accompany such action at the conclusion of most affairs which combine a dinner and a program. We refer to the recent Boy Scout-Parent Dinner which was held at the Community House last Monday. We wish to congratulate George B. Finch and A. F. Plant on their fine job of program planning, and Toastmaster Charlie Kinnison for the manner in which he kept things moving on schedule. The tickets stated that the time would be from 6:20 'til 9:20... and the party was on its way out at exactly 9:25. That's something!

▲ We think there are a lot of folks who should give themselves a good swift kick. We are referring to that large number of people who DO NOT PAY THEIR NEWSBOY... on time—or even at all. We have been told by local newsboys that they had been forced to give up their paper routes because their customers would not pay them for the papers which had been delivered. That's a tough break for these young business men just starting out. Here's a true story which we gathered the other evening which prompted these rather "hard boiled" words... At the Boy Scout-Parent Dinner the other evening, we noticed a little fellow sitting over at a nearby table. He was all alone, neither his Mother nor his Father being with him. The fact that he was seated at a table all by himself attracted our attention, so we called him over and asked him to sit in the vacant chair next to ours. After "kidding" the little fellow for a few minutes, we asked him why his parents were not with him. He told us that his Father was out of work and could not afford to buy the tickets for the mother and himself. The boy then told us this, "I went over my route twice to try to collect enough money from those who owed me, so that I could buy a ticket for my Mother and Dad, but I could collect only enough to pay for my own ticket. So, I had to come alone. I wanted them to come AWFULLY bad." We ask you, "What would have been your reaction if a freckled faced little fellow of twelve told you such a story?"

▲ We'll close, hoping that some of you folks who do NOT pay your newsboys will have read these few lines above... and that you will BE FAIR to the chaps who deliver your newspapers through rain or shine, and who must pay for your papers whether you do or not.
