MILDRED SMITH SPEAKS VOWS AT QUIET RITES

At a quiet service in the parsonage of the First Methodist church, another of Birmingham's spring brides spoke her vows, on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. She is the former Mildred Smith, daughter of Mrs. Lulu E. Smith of Ann street and Harry Smith of Pontiac. The bridegroom is Donald Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cummings of Chestnut street.

The Rev. John Edward Martin performed the ceremony, which was witnessed only by members of the immediate families. The bridal pair was unattended.

The bride wore a pale blue afternoon frock for the occasion, fashioned on simple lines. She wore a hat of navy blue straw, and her accessories were navy also. With this she wore a con-sage arrangement of forget-me-nots and valley lilies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smith chose a tan satin frock of street length and brown accessories. Mrs. Cummings wore a brown crepe frock accented in green, and matching accessories.

A wedding breakfast at Devon Gables followed the nuptials. Spring flowers were used on the bride's table, which was centered by a large wedding cake. The cake was placed on a white mirror, banked with smilax.

After the breakfast, the young couple left on a short trip. They have taken an apartment on Chestnut street, where they will be at home after the first of next week.

Among those who entertained for the bride before her marriage are Lillian Masters and Betty Carnahan, who were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former, on Ann street. More affairs are planned for the near future.

Mrs. Warren S. Booth is sojourning in Chicago at present. She will return to her home on Quarton road near the first of April.

DISCUSSION AND SUPPER ENGAGE YOUNG PEOPLE

Not content with being original in purpose and programs, the group of young people which meets weekly at the Community House gave a new twist to the ancient custom of box socials at the Friday night gathering. The boxes were not auctioned off, but arranged at two tables. Having augmented the treasury for the future activities of the group, each man sat to the right of the box he favored.

Then the girls took their seats in front of their own boxes, and the informal supper was off to a flying start. In keeping with the cooperative spirit of the group, no one gave away the identity of her box and everyone helped in the clearing up and cup washing which followed.

After supper there was ping-pong for the racketeers, and card games for those who wished, as well as dancing. Music was afforded by the radio which Connie Brinkler loaned for the evening.

But the most popular event of the evening proved to be a forum discussion on international affairs, with Erlin Andrews officiating as chairman.

Tomorrow night, same time, same place, same crowd and a lot of new people in the schedule for the next meeting of the group. It will probably be called the Tri-angulum and will be held in any case, any young person, married or single, who wants to make friends, is welcome to attend the sessions.
