

Young Set Will Invite Strangers To The First Of Informal Sunday Evenings

HILLS PAIR ARE WED AT HOME OF BRIDE'S PARENTS

The glow of dusty-pink Sally roses, illuminated by matching lights and at the edges of the short shirred sleeves with rose point lace. Tiny sprays of orange blossoms were pinned on the train. Her bouffant skirt, fashioned with a hooped hipline, bore garlands of the orange blossoms which extended around to the back, where a long train was set into the gown. Rose point lace was also used on the train. The bride carried a bouquet of orange blossoms held in place the long tulle veil, which extended behind her train. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and phloxes and orchids.

Wears Traditional Ring
Of unique interest is the brilliant turquoise ring worn by the bride during the ceremony. Belonging originally to her grandmother, it is also worn by her sister, Mrs. Edward Curtis Matthews at her wedding in October. By family tradition the ornamental supplies the "Something old and something blue" which, along with "something borrowed" and "something new," all brides must wear if they seek good fortune.

Bridesmaid Wear Blue
The four bridesmaids wore matching gowns similar to that of the honor maid, in a pale shade of blue. Forget-me-nots caught their caps, and they carried cascades of Sally roses. They were Rosemary Wilson, sister of the bride; Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson of Ann Arbor, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Rosalie Colton of Philadelphia, cousin of the bride and Miss Ruth Hargreaves, sister of the bridegroom.

Business Women To Precede Meeting With Dinner
Miss Lili Murgard and Mrs. Ruth Collins will be hostesses at dinner for the Birmingham Business Women's Club, to be served at the Mary Griffith room at the Community House at 6:30 this evening. The dinner will precede the regular business meeting of the organization.

Notice, Ladies!
Due to increased costs of labor and materials, The Eccentric finds it necessary to make this announcement: Beginning April 1, 1934, a revised subscription in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, or any other section within Oakland County, will be increased from $1 to $1.50; outside of Oakland County from $1.50 to $2. Several years ago, in the depth of the depression, The Eccentric reduced its rates from $2.10 outside of Oakland County, and from $2 within Oakland County. Subscribers in Oakland County who may desire to save 30 cents for the coming year may, even though their subscription does not expire for several months, renew same at the dollar rate by remitting the dollar before April 1. (This extension is for a period of one year only.) 45-50°

Community House Will Be Scene of First Gathering in Proposed Series

"How can people in their twenties meet others of their age unless they're in school? Why doesn't a town like Birmingham have a place where they can make new friends without being 'uplifted' or having to listen to speeches? What chance has a lone meadow," new home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson, was the scene of the nuptials. Mr. Hargreaves is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hargreaves, The Rev. W. Hamilton of nearby officiated at the ceremony.

CANDLES LIGHT ALTAR DURING WEDDING RITES

The soft glow of tapers in cathedral candles illuminated the altar before which Margaret Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson, of the Strand road, became the bride of Alton Haack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haack, of Southfield, Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. J. O. Nelson read the nuptial service at 4:30 o'clock at the First Baptist Church.
