RED GETS HIS A Letter On His Sweater

By Bill Averill Eleven year old Red Beals will soon be sporting a miniature Baldwin High School athletic letter on his sweater.

This was decided Wednesday morning when the Athletic Board of Control met to determine who should be awarded letters in basketball.

However, the Board agreed that because Red has been the mascot of the high school football team since 1930 and has done outstanding work as a cheerleader.

For eight of his eleven years, Red has worn an ardent fan of Maroon and White football teams and has followed their progress enthusiastically.

During the basketball game this season, Red has been working in the capacity of a cheerleader for the first time.

History Is Brief Louis XVI was the first man to wear high wooden heels on his shoes.
