VACATION WILL LAST TEN DAYS AT CRANBROOK

Students and faculty members alike at Cranbrook school are indulging the spring wanderlust during the school's spring vacation, which will end on Sunday, April 3. Many of the travelers will visit their families in another city; others are taking their families with them on trips to all points of the compass, and some of the masters and students will travel together.

Cornelius Banta, John Cummings and George O'Brien will spend the recess in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Thompson and their family will go to New Berlin, N. Y. Another instructor who will be in the east is Robert Friery, who is motoring to Springfield, Mass. George W. Patch has also chosen Massachusetts, and will spend the vacation at Shelburne Falls. Several trips will be made to various parts of Illinois. David Fierke will journey to Chicago, and Robert Hall to Lake Forest. Buell Kenyon will stay in Evansville, and W. Boyce Ricketts will make a visit to Bloomington. Others who will spend the vacation in the middle west are Chester Hunt, whose choice is Cleveland, O., and Phyllis Curtis, who has chosen Milwaukee, Wis. Lloyd Waite will divide his time between Columbus, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.

Southern jaunts will occupy many of the travelers. Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hoey and their family will journey to Charleston, N. C. Charles Van Antwerp is spending the interval at Farmers, Ky., and Temple Locklear at Norfolk, Va. Walter J. Schultz will accompany John Reuss, a student, to New Orleans.

Hubert V. Davis will head the quartette of students which will travel to Elbow Beach, Bermuda. In the party also will be David Proctor, John Ublin, Hugh White and Robert Wise.

One of the most extended trips will be made by William and Mor-

ART SECTION OF WOMAN'S CLUB ARRANGES TALK

The art department of the Birmingham Women's Club will be in charge of the next general meeting of the organization, to be held at the Community House on Tuesday, April 5. Mrs. Harry Williams is chairman of the day.

Principal speaker of the afternoon will be William G. Tuynman of Cranbrook road. His subject is "Carl Milles and His Recent Works." Mr. Tuynman is an intimate friend of long standing of Mr. Milles. He has traveled through Europe with him, and has been present at the unveiling of many of his statues. Mrs. Tuynman is a Milles pupil.

The talk will make more familiar the work of one whom authorities consider the world's greatest living sculptor. It will be illustrated by large photographs of some of the more recent works.

BARN DANCERS FLOCK TO HALL FOR THIRD PARTY

The members of the Franklin Village Parent Teacher Association are really something there when they decided to sponsor their series of barn dances at the Franklin hall for the second, and even more fun than they found, which is saying a lot. And one of the nicest aspects of the whole project is the way the dances grow in popularity instead of dying a natural death through lack of attendance.

A crowd which fairly bulged the walls turned out for the most recent party, which was strictly an informal affair, with the guests wearing sport clothes and the official caller good-naturally rebuking those who didn't pay close enough attention when he explained the mysteries of the "ho back go" incidentally, in spite of all the expert advice, the best we can do is to say that the ho back go is part of "The Traversing Twist."

Mrs. Oliver Horn, who, with Mr. Horn, is a real enthusiast of the square dances, was one of the sensations of the evening. When the command was to "swing you gran paw paw," she completed the figure with nonchalant ease. She wore a dark grey swing skirt and matching blouse, with bright peasant scarves around her neck and tied over her hair.

In the same set were Mr. and Mrs. Rufus H. Jones, enthusiastically swinging the "even little doll." Mrs. Jones wore a turquoise blue suit, with a yellow sweater. Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. McRay were there also, enjoying everything, even the mistakes, tremendously. Mrs. McRay chose a white shirtwaist frock with black buttons down the front and matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. H. Wood, the latter in a slate blue frock with a full skirt, completed the set.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Orchard were interested spectators. Mrs. Orchard attended the party in an official capacity, as chairman of the ticket committee, and her various duties kept her too busy to do more than glance occasionally at the dancers.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Byers attended the affair with a party, the members of which outnumbered later to the Byers home on Wimpleton drive, for an informal supper. The guest list bore the name of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Johnstone, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Carse and Mr. and Mrs. John Graham of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Llewellyn, Mr. and Mrs. Burton M. Pheasant, Miss Amy Harrell and Herbert B. Hatch, Jr.

There were many familiar faces among the dancers, including those of Mrs. P. R. Schaffer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carleton Park, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Queller, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Scovell, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hoey, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon G. Converse, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Humphrey.

College Knowledge

By SOPHIE MORE

Mud, colds in the head, fashion shoes and silly grins on all the peeps continue to announce that spring is yet a few paces off. So hokey for life in general.

Faculty Wife
Did you know that Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hobbie were at Olvestown? John's an econ. prof no less, and just married Trade Bludd, of Boston and Worcester, Mass. Both of us attended Swarthmore, and... oh yes, they want all their Birmingham pals to come up for a spot of visiting practically at any moment.

Stout Fella
And NOW, see if you can guess the latest honor to be bestowed upon our own chief in the senior class at Michigan (Fred Cushing, silles). You can't guess, so we'll be telling he's been elected to the STUDENT SENATE. Election in this august body is by a proportional representation vote, open to the entire student body, but he's the smartie though?

Honors Man
Hamilton collich up Clinton way in N.Yawk, is palenty proud of our own Dick Allan. Especially he's proud he's brother in Theta Chi, which he was admitted of the first of this semester. ALSO he's a new member of Phi Kappa Phi, which is tons in honoraries for frosh. Selection is made each year by the out-going members on a basis of scholarship, leadership, character and extra-curricular activities, which sounds pretty darned swell. The Club is celebrating its tenth year at present, and is plenty high thought of by everyone who enrolls in it.

Speaking of Theta Chi, here's a pretty clever bit of advertising Max Hodge did for his brother. Of course all Beckham is proud of this former resident, for the smooth illustrations he's been putting in the Gargoyle at A. A. 50... what does he do but get commissioned to illustrate an automobile ad to be put in collich papers all over the country? It's a series of little drawings in comic strip style, showing a little man at a restaurant. The whole thing is cute, and the cutest thing is the Theta Chi emblem, which he just CASUALLY drew on the plates in every scene.

He's Home
SURPRISE! An account of what you gaw young things are doing wouldn't be complete without the lowdown on Logan Jones. At first we all thought we'd have to wait 'til summer to see him but that he got big-hearted and decided not ONLY to come back but to bring a guest! The guest is Howard Meyer (of Wolverine) and the lads will be here for quite a smart spell. Isn't that the nuts?

The Rate
To make you all plenty proud, the honors list contains all kinds of names this time. First-entrance there's Jean Rutherford. The gal is new social chairman for Kappa Alpha Theta at Ann Arbor, and believe you us, that's a palenty big job, managing the parties for such sions.

ALSO he has Betty Hill, who's not letting any time of hers be wasted either. She's just been elected registrar of Kappa Kappa Gamma (also at the Ann Arbor chapter) and great is the rejoicing thereat.

He's Pledged
The men aren't idle either, so you could notice it. Bob Zeiler has just been pledged to Phi Kappa Sigma at Michigan. If there's a savior who might not know all about such a well-known citizen, we add that Bob is at present a beginner in the college of medicine, and doing his usual good job of keeping every little thing under control.

She's Initiated
Those Phi Gals shore do git around... Witness the latest from Ohio University, concerning the grade of the sophomores in the college of commerce. In case you STILL haven't guessed, of course we refer to Helen Hohen. She's one of their newest members, and it's hard to tell who's happier over the whole affair, she or they or we.

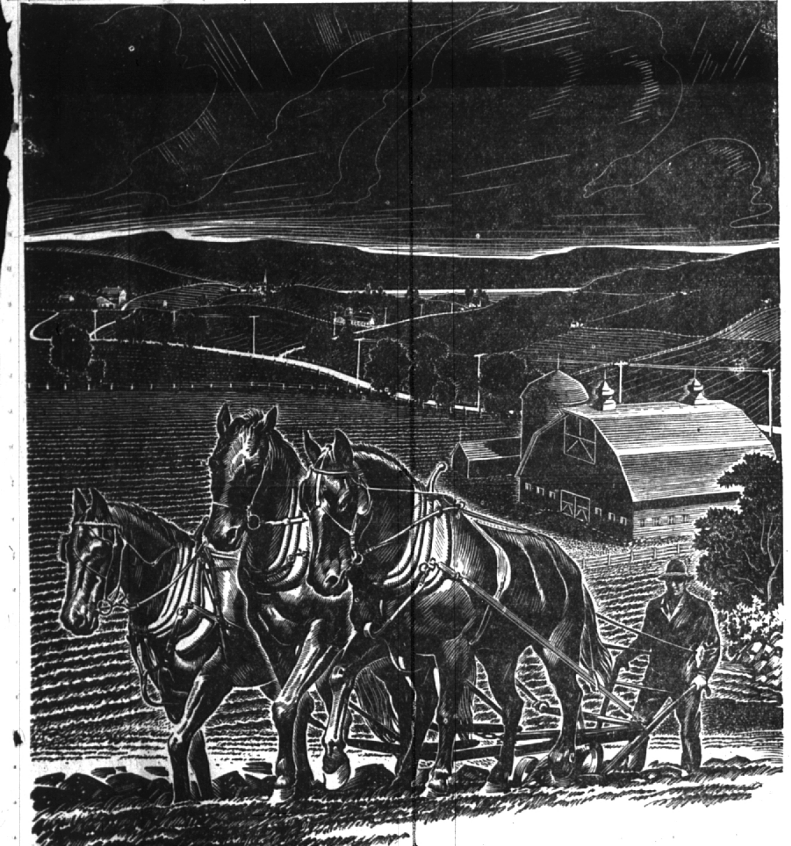

They're Topp
Lawton Rose Jr. (the boss) is having a peachy time at Antioch. Among other things, he's a member of the Fire Squad. It's all part of a new plan at campus. All the kids there donate their services to all sorts of things to benefit the whole town. And of course have a peck of fun doing it. Art, you know, is a Baldwin graduate, and is studying English and business administration at collich.

From Western Military Academy, we hear, most elegant news of Cadet Clarke Parden. He's making a strong bid for catcher's position on the school's verba verba tough baseball team. And although but a sophomore, we understand from the coach that the lad is showing plenty of the right spirit.

That's not all. "K'know how spring makes you feel musical!" Well, down at Greensboro, N. C., the Women's Coll go of the University really does things about it. The glee club and string choir joined forces Sunday for a perfectly immense concert Sunday, with mobs of audience. And among the selected warblers, whom do we find but our own Helen Forester?

You simply can't beat that gal Ellen Ford for doing things! Her latest escapade at Cornell is appointment to the costume department of the University Dramatic Club. And just in case you didn't know it, it takes plenty of STUFF to roam off on honor.

land along the Nile. Now, with these age-old elements, electric power is contributing to better farming. For thirty years rural areas have been served by The Detroit Edison Company. Since 1928 groups of farmers have been able to get Detroit Edison service without any charge for line extensions, provided there are more than a minimum number of farms per mile. In 1928 this figure was 10 per mile; in 1933 this was reduced to 7 1/2 per mile; and since 1935, 5 per mile.

Today, 27,157 farmers are served by 6,414 miles of Detroit Edison farm line; 87.8 per cent of the farmers in the older Detroit Edison territory are now connected to our lines. In the two years since we began serving the Thumb area, the farms there which we serve have trebled.

Farm electrification has been a reality in Detroit Edison territory for ten years.

THE GOOD EARTH...

Sun... Soil... Rain... and Electricity

Farm customers throughout the area served by the Detroit Edison Company are all at the same rate as city residences. This rate averages 3.47c per kilowatt-hour for farms and is recognized as one of the lowest average rates for electric service in the United States. This rate includes without extra charge lamp and fuse renewals, and minor repairs to appliances, as part of the same low rate. And the more you use the less it costs per unit.

Farm applications of electric power are almost unlimited: On farms served by us, electricity milks cows and cools the milk, separates cream, heats water for sterilizing dairy utensils used for other uses, grinds feed, pumps water to stock, provides running water for irrigation and for all farm uses, brings chicks into the world, warms them under the electric brooder, warms their drinking water and keeps it at the right temperature, provides light to stimulate egg production and plant growth, shells corn, grades fruit, washes vegetables, hoists hay, fills the silo, saws wood, heats soil in hotheds, sharpens tools and does many other chores. Electricity does these things better and more economically than they can be done otherwise.

One of our farm customers who keeps accurate records saved $363 last year by using $53.17 worth of electricity instead of doing his work by hand. Carefully detailed figures were published in THE MICHIGAN FARMER and included all items of interest and depreciation on equipment.
