

BALDWIN HI-LIGHTS

By Ann Nonimus
Well, you can't say I've never told you anything, anyhow. Everything I said and more came true on the junior's "Casino '38" Friday night. The best dance B. H. S. has ever put on and that's no foolin'! May Annin offer the biggest and best orchid ever given to Bob Myers, head man of the whole affair. . . And I do mean you, Bob! The decorations were very ultra ultra. . . Modernistic manner. You'd never recognize the gym dome just that outfit. . . The effect was colossal!

At a table for four I spied Mattie King, Tom Allen, Milgrom Conroy, and Harold Roy. . . At another were Patsy Kates and Bill Conroy. . . Everybody looked pleased as punch. Headwaiter Bill Holmes brought Margaret Gardner, cute in navy blue. George Gorman toted Shirley Busby and May Jean Gracy came with "Georgia" Bolton. . . Frank McCarthy were there along with sister Jean and Phil Pollock. . . Say, wasn't that a nifty outfit on the stage. Bartenders Vinton and Gay were kept busy as business was in a rush.

Don't prancing was dancing with Ted Snyder up by the orchestra. . . And Madeline Pease plus Don Mathews and Ester Farr and Harry Cornwall. Louise Cobb, in the best looking print get-up ever, with Duke Peters and Kobby Walton with Bob Etter. . . Ruth Navin and Bill Timm had "watchers look" by a candid camera hound. . . (You know those people that jump out from behind funny papers and out from under cabbage leaves.) Rex Oberbeck came through with Jeanne Cromwell, wearing a definitely (Dare) that word, it keeps sneaking up on me when I'm not looking.) smooth aqua suit. . . Standing at bay right and left including Lorne Robinson, George Rounds, Olie Olson (He's good-looking too!), Harry Huff, and Warren Hershey.

The floor show was elegant, no end. Master of ceremonies Dave Thompson, carried the matter off without a siver. . . Bill Cobb, harmonica player, dedicated the piece, "Night and Day," to absentee Dave McKinney. . . And Dave Anderson doing some extra swell toe work. . . While Betty Forsyth did some swing singing and Norman Lyle brought forth "The Barroom Floor" much to the hilarity of his audience. . . The orchestra followed up with a "jam session" that was pul-ently okey! . . . Especially that drummer man.

Miss Hascall, Mrs. Halladay, and Mr. Toothacker were having a word or three at one of the tables. . . Ed Purman and Jack Reynolds held down another. . . Dick Shepherd along with Betsy Rausse and Bill Pratt and Bill Pheasant with Josephine Fitzsimons all looked pretty happy about the whole thing.

An orchid to all the committees and all the committees for a very swell dance. . . It just goes to show you just what can be done! Love without love. ANNIE.

Floor Show And Swing Music Bring Touch Of Realism To Baldwin's 'Casino '38'

By Ruth Anderson
"Casino '38" in various colored lights flashing on and off at intervals was the beckoning sign to the younger generations of Birmingham to come to the aid of the party. And they certainly responded. The Casino (no less than the Baldwin High School gymnasium) was filled to capacity Friday night for the gala event.

Guests were ushered to their respective reserved tables by Headwaiter Bill "Coalminer" Holmes, assisted by Bill Cobb and Dick Wenzell. The tables, complete, with immaculate linens and most convincing menus, were along three sides of the room (just outside the white line). The walls and balcony were attractively draped in blue and gold while top-hats, canes, aces of Spades, a lucky seven dice, cocktail glasses, and musical notes were substituted on wall spaces and added to the reality of the situation.

"Charlie Charlton footprints" in white paint led thirst-stricken patrons up the stairs of the stage to the Casino Bar where "coke" and ginger ale were all the rage. The bar counter was decked in blue and gold corresponding with the platform just below the last while the bartenders, Art Miller, Bill Vinton, and Herb Moore, slick in white service jackets were fairly hounded by rush orders throughout the evening.
