VISITORS TO AUTO SHOW FIND MANY CHANGES IN STYLE

Visitors to the Detroit Automobile Show, open all this week and closing Saturday night, will find Convention Hall filled with a glittering array of 1938 automobiles that show many style changes and improved safety features. The new cars are surrounded by black and yellow draperies and luxuriant carpets that provide a fitting setting. The "Crusade for Jobs" label is used throughout the decorative scheme.

If the visitor enters on the Cass Avenue side of the Hall he will see the new Hudsons to his right followed by the Dodge, Plymouth, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Cadillac and La Salle displays. On his left as he goes toward Woodward are the Graham, Pontiac, Packard, Buick, Overland, Studebaker and Chrysler exhibits in that order. Should he enter from the Woodward side he will find the Nash-Lafayette group to his right followed by the new offerings of Lincoln, Lincoln Zephyr, Plymouth and Federal trucks. On his left are the De Soto, Ford, Mercury, Hupmobile, Willys, Chevrolet, Dodge and Ford trucks in that order.

The doors of Convention Hall are open daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. but are not open on Sunday, Nov. 15.

The new models show that manufacturers and designers have followed the distinct trend to catwalk grills. Thousands of early visitors have already remarked that the new front end treatments are the keynote of the '38 models. The grills, placed in the front fender, aprons, or catwalks, in combination with other changes in hood design, have created outstanding effects in the new cars.

NEW U. S. RULING OF INTEREST TO MANY EMPLOYERS

Employers of labor will be interested in an announcement of the U. S. Treasury Department, relating to the filing of certain returns required under the Social Security Act. The new ruling is that employers are not required to file the special informational return under Title VIII of the Social Security Act for employees who are 65th birthday anniversary occurs on or before January 2, 1937, or for any employee who dies after September 30, 1936, or whose 65th birthday anniversary occurs on or after October 2, 1936. The Pontiac social security office, which Walter B. Redman is manager, will give further information concerning this announcement, upon request.

The total amount of payments this authorized was $126,652. Since January 1, 1937, a total of 26,589 persons have had claims for money payments of this type certified in this region. The total amount of these payments has been $1,130,200, according to Mr. Redman.

Helps To Address Town Hall Audience

William Lyon Phelps, nationally popular book critic, educator, and author, will address the Detroit Town Hall audience in the Fisher Theatre Wednesday morning, Nov. 25, at 11 o'clock, speaking on "Contemporary Books."

Professor emeritus of Yale University, who for 32 years was Lamson professor of English literature, Dr. Phelps has thousands of followers in Michigan. He has spent his summers in Michigan's Thumb for more than 10 years, preaching at Huron City. His Sunday afternoon sermons, drawing people from all over the state, proved so popular that it was necessary to enlarge the church twice to its present seating capacity of 1,000.

NEW BOOK WITH DETROIT SETTING NOW AT LIBRARY

A bit of local color should make one new library book, whose background is laid in Detroit, interesting to Birmingham readers. Besides this novel with a setting close to home, biography and humor are included in the week's selection of new books at the Baldwin Public Library.

F. O. B. Detroit, by Wiswell Smither is the title of the novel with a background laid in the city where automobiles are made and men amaze by mammoth automatic machines. "F. O. B. Detroit" is not, however, another proletarian novel, but a first and last a moving story of two men and a girl, their loves and hates, their ambition and dreams, set against the pounding factory background where the assembly line runs as swift and inexorable as fate.

Two other fiction books are now at the library shelves. Black Is My True Love's Hair by Elizabeth Madox Roberts is a tragicomic story of the Kentucky countryside. Its simplicity, its quiet humor, its sympathetic understanding of what life means, even in the most desperate circumstances, take the story through currents alternately deep and shallow. The charming account of the love's life of a girl, the power, the emotional intensity and the overhanging threat of tragedy. There is also beautiful word shading in every line.

The story of Henrietta De Porte, All This And Heaven Too, is an alluring one. It has a basis of truth although the novel about her by Rachel Field belongs to the realm of fiction. There was a real Henrietta De Porte and many of her real-life friends, including Fanny Kemble, are mentioned in the book. The plot moves from the nobility to the duties of a governess, and from the domestic mysteries of Pralain gardens in Paris to the quiet of New England. The charming account of the love's life of a girl, the power, the emotional intensity and the overhanging threat of tragedy. There is also beautiful word shading in every line.

The first authorized biography of the great pianist and composer, with the publication of The Paderewski Memoirs by Ignace Jan Paderewski. The story of the life of the great musician, who by a strange turn of fate, became prime minister of his native land during his rebirth as a result of the World War. There is no indication given of the number of volumes that will be needed to complete the story, merely a note which reads "later memoirs in preparation."

The complete story of Maximilian, Emperor of Austria, and the fantastic, ill-starred empire of Napoleon III founded during the 19th century in Mexico are related in The Phantom Crown by Bertha Harding. The biography tells of a brilliant whirl of love, youthful ambition, political intrigue, majestic insanity and violent death.

Geraldine Farrar's autobiography is entitled Sweet Compulsion and tells the story of a girl who thrilled two continents with her lovely song; the story of the pretty little girl from Medford, Mass., who started singing at the age of three years old and became the brightest star of the golden age of opera. There is no need to draw upon the imagination for color or romance in a book about Miss Farrar for the two walked hand in hand with her.

Daily Except Sundays by Ed Streeter, with illustrations by Guyas Wilcox proved will provide library readers with humor this week. "Not everyone," says the author, "can be a comedian. It calls for highly-developed special qualities—endurance, resourcefulness, decision and cunning, tempered with a dash of ruthlessness. Hannibal, Livestrong and Carrie Nation give you an idea of the types I mean," writes Mr. Streeter. So the author gives an hilarious summary of his adventures, memories and decisions in the 216,000 miles he has traveled in seven years of commuting—adventures which he feels make Halliburton and Marco Polo look like a couple of periwinkles.

Bow and Arrow Earn a Shave

DEER HUNTERS TREK QUARRY IN NORTHERN WOODS

LANSING, Nov. 16.—Most of the approximately 16,000 deer hunters, who are expected to attempt to get their buck this month are in the woods, participating in the opening of the 1938 season. Dates for this year's season, Nov. 15 to Nov. 30, inclusive, are the same as for 1937.

Although last year's number of licensed deer hunters, 157,099, is expected to be exceeded this year, and although there are believed to be more deer in Michigan now than ever before, game investigators and conservation officers are not ready to predict a larger kill of bucks than in 1937. Such factors as weather conditions and the proficiency of the hunters play a large part in the season, regardless of the amount of game. Last year's kill of bucks totaled about 40,000.

Michigan's deer herd is estimated at more than a million animals. The area favorable to deer in the summer includes about 34,500 square miles. The winter range is only about 1,285 square miles.

ORCHESTRA PLANS PROGRAM FOR THANKSGIVING

Offering a well-balanced program of old and new music, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will play the third subscription concert of its current silver jubilee season Thursday night (Thanksgiving), Nov. 24, in Orchestra Hall.

Franco Ghione has selected the following program: Schumann, Overture to "Manfred," Op. 155; Beethoven, Seventh Symphony, in A Major, Op. 92; Barbara Griegman, Toccata (first performance in America); Moussorgsky, Pictures at an Exhibition, pianoforte pieces arranged for orchestra by Maurice Ravel. Although the orchestra has played Leo Funtek's orchestration of this work, Ravel's handling of it, lengthier and naturally more direct, will be heard for the first time at these concerts. The Toccata was written in 1937 and given its world premier last April under Ghione's baton at the Augustus in Rome. It is a seven-minute work employing modern instrumentation; possesses a sharp sense of dynamics, excellent thematic relief and a fine development. The composition is brought to close with noble effect, the entire orchestra building up to a smashing climax. The performance here will be its second anywhere.

Pictures at an Exposition, written in 1874, and inspired by a posthumous exhibition of drawings and water colors by Moussorgsky's intimate friend, Victor Hartmann, is made up of 10 sections as well as an Introduction, each a direct effort on the part of the composer to depict a work in the showing.

Since 1911, as staff writer for magazines, newspapers and syndicates he has visited all but 5 countries of both hemispheres. During the World War, Mr. Wells served in the American Navy; he holds a commission as Lieutenant in the Chinese Republican Army; he is commissioned as a Major in
