LABOR DAY

LABOR DAY week-end is the last big outdoor holiday of summer. For most of us, it means a trip, a weekend camp, or other special jaunt—and plenty of pictures, to remind us of summer fun during the coming winter months.

Is your camera ready? And have you made your Labor Day plans with a view to picture chances? That's always a good idea when you're planning an excursion—keep the camera in mind, and select a tour route, or holiday spot, that you know to full picture opportunities.

The more fun and activity you can pack into the week-end, the more snapshots you'll have. Wherever something is going on, your camera should be ready for action. A roasting-rabbit picnic, an amusement-park tour, a fishing trip, a mountain hike—all these are chuck full of picture material if you just keep your eyes open and your camera ready.

On a picnic, picture your crowd setting the table and eating—don't wait until they get through. At the pool or the beach, picture them swimming and diving, or enjoying some other beach sport—not posed on shore.

Watch your exposures, and keep them "in step" with the prevailing light. Along shady streams, there is very little light, so you must use large lens opening and a slow shutter speed. But on the beach, or when

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Shoot holiday fun "on the wing." Don't let subjects pose—and you will get gay, lively snapshots.

I LABOR DAY week-end is the last big outdoor holiday of summer. For most of us, it means a trip, a weekend camp, or other special jaunt—and plenty of pictures, to remind us of summer fun during the coming winter months.

Is your camera ready? And have you made your Labor Day plans with a view to picture chances? That's always a good idea when you're planning an excursion—keep the camera in mind, and select a tour route, or holiday spot, that you know to full picture opportunities.

The more fun and activity you can pack into the week-end, the more snapshots you'll have. Wherever something is going on, your camera should be ready for action. A roasting-rabbit picnic, an amusement-park tour, a fishing trip, a mountain hike—all these are chuck full of picture material if you just keep your eyes open and your camera ready.

On a picnic, picture your crowd setting the table and eating—don't wait until they get through. At the pool or the beach, picture them swimming and diving, or enjoying some other beach sport—not posed on shore.

Watch your exposures, and keep them "in step" with the prevailing light. Along shady streams, there is very little light, so you must use large lens opening and a slow shutter speed. But on the beach, or when fishing offshore, light is bright and intense—and exposures of 1/50 second at 11:30, and sometimes even 1/25 are correct.

When in doubt about exposure, err on the "full" side. Correct exposure is best, but an overexposed film will usually yield a better print than an underexposed film. Good modern film, especially the "chrome" type, has enough latitude to take care of reasonable errors in judging exposure.

So, here's luck. It looks like a great week-end, and I hope you keep your camera as busy as mine will be!
