SIMPLICITY MARKS QUIET WEDDING OF FALL BRIDE

Miss Janet Bowen White, daughter of Mrs. Kirby B. White of White street and the late Mr. White, became the bride of Edgar Durfee Hoyt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert B. Hoyt of Grosse Pointe, at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The Rev. Warner L. Forsyth read the service, which was performed in front of the fire-place in the living room of the White home. Masses of hydrangeas in tall standards and tall taper candles formed a background for the wedding party.

The traditional wedding garments used in her family formed the bride's costume. She wore her mother's wedding gown, with a full skirt of creamy lace and a full skirt, falling in a short train, of matching lace and heavy silk. Additional lace adorned the full sleeves of her white dress. On a street, a life-long friend of the bride family, contributed her collection of a fall length one of white illusion, caught at the head by a coronet of real white blossoms. For the occasion, The handkerchief which had been carried by the bride's grandmother, mother, sister and sister-in-law, completed her costume.

Miss Hester Giles White, her sister's maid of honor, wore a white dress of sea green net, over tulle. Absolute plainness distinguished the frock, which was fashioned on bouffant lines with a square neckline and shirring at the sides to fit the bodice. She wore a matching coronet and carried a bouquet of white blossoms.

A small reception was held at the White home following the wedding. Afterwards, the bridal party departed for a short trip. For traveling, Mrs. Hoyt chose a sheer wool frock of teal blue, ornamented with a heavy silver chain. Her small felt hat and other accessories were of duabonnet. On their return, the couple will be at home in Ann Arbor.

A number of out-of-town guests were present at the wedding. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. George Purves Armstrong and their daughter, Miss Alice, of Youngtown, who were the house guests during their stay of Mrs. William M. Purves of Old Salem, N. C. and Mrs. Lyman White and their small son, Kirby, and Mrs. Frank Duffield of Southport, N. C. Dr. Charles Noye Hoyt and Allen Noble Hoyt of Chicago and Haywood N. Hoyt of Tucson, Ariz.
