SIXTY-FIRST YEAR—NO. 24

ENROLLMENT IN HILLS SCHOOL SHOWS INCREASE

Two hundred and twenty-six children enrolled and attended classes Monday at the school on Vaughan Road. This represents an increase of 25 over the previous year and an increase of 166 over the number in attendance eight years ago—the first year the present building was occupied. The senior class which enrolled 80 on Monday will be the largest twelfth grade group in the school's history. The class of 1938 consisting of nine students is the nearest approach to the present group of seniors. Growth has not been confined to the high school, however. The first grade has enrolled 18 which is the largest number ever to classify in that division. While total enrollments have increased, there are no classes of unusual size. In fact the largest grade in the school is the eighth grade whose total membership is only 27.

Masons To Confer Degrees Tonight

The second degree will be conferred on candidates at the regular meeting of the Birmingham lodge No. 14 of the F & A. M. to be held this evening at the Masonic Temple, according to Ernest E. Morrow, worshipful master. Included among the events being planned by the lodge for this month is the Past Masters' Night which will be held Sept. 29. The third degree of Masonic work will be conferred upon candidates Sept. 29.

FEDERAL THEATER TO OFFER NEW PLAY

The date the New York cast has played to more than 400,000 admissions. The Detroit company will be greatly augmented by a number of well known names in the theatre, as there are more than a hundred speaking parts and a dozen or more scenes.

Stimulating New Volumes At Library Will Provide A Bracing Pick-Me-Up

If you are looking for a mental pick-me-up, almost any one of the new books at the Public Library will be your solution. There is some fiction in the new lot but much more of the "specialized" work which claims the reader's interest nowadays. And even if you never know you had an interest in any of the topics treated by the new books, you are bound to be enthusiastic after you have begun to read them.

A volume of vital verse is "I'm a Stranger Here Myself," by Ogden Nash. Pungent in thought, picturesque in form, the collection could have been written only by this unique rhymster. The trouble with his poems is that you stop reading and strangers to quote your favorites and they insist on quoting theirs! His philosophy comes down on Mother's Day in the middle of the month, ants and centipedes, Monday, allergy, interoffice memoranda, Columbus and the common cold. And in so doing he raises the level of our humor to a new high.

"A Southerner Discovers the South" by Jonathan Daniels, is something new in reporting, written by a brilliant young Southern liberal editor of the Raleigh "News and Observer." He travelled from tobacco to tenant farmer; from T. V. A. to pellagra; from old ladies in empty big houses to crowded tenement families in Atlanta and Birmingham. He talked with leaders and suppliers and they told him solemn things—the truth, maybe. But he talked with hitchhikers, tenant farmers, hillbillies and planters, poets and bartenders and they told him the South and he put it in a book.

"Secret Life of a Secret Agent," by Henry W. Lanier, is the strange tale of a man whose work was melodrama. And all our adventurous pages are true! The front-page spy stories in all the newspapers, here and abroad, are but surface outcroppings of the unceasing struggle, active at this moment, and portrayed in this book. Beginning with the agent's unbelievable schooling, the story goes through to the outcome of various adventures.

"Maine Ballads," by Robert P. Triestram Coffin, brings the author down to the present day and to averring humans and happenings

Try These Ticklish Twisters On Your Tongue—Tahquamenon, Ogemaw, Gogebic

LANSING, Sept. 14.—Ten tantalizing twisters tangle tongues—tsk, tsk, tsk—of state's sapient scientists and carefully considered conservation calculations. Boiled down to the essence that means that quite a few names given to various lakes and conservation projects in Michigan are pretty puzzling pronunciation problems, especially for rapid radio reporters. Ten of the names most frequently misspelled are: Gogebic, name of a lake and a county in the upper peninsula. It is not Gogebic, but Gogebic, with all the g's hard and the accent on the second syllable. Ontonagon, frequently comes off, ONT'agon. There should be only a slight accent on the second syllable, both a's are short, the r is long and the o is short. Cusino, name of the state game refuge in Alger county, is pronounced as though it were spelled Koozino, with the accent on the first syllable and the short o. In Munising, the water-fowl refuge in Chippewa county, both u's are short and the o is short.

CHINA, GERMANY, ON PROGRAM FOR LECTURE SERIES

Up-to-the-minute motion picture accounts of what is happening in war-torn China and in Nazi Germany, a trip around the world in a 92-foot schooner, and motion picture journeys to Bermuda, Mexico and Rocky Mountain national parks are among the features of the Fall program of popular illustrated Sunday afternoon public lectures to begin at the Detroit Institute of Arts on October 9.

These motion picture expeditions are offered by the World Adventure Series, a non-profit enterprise presenting low-admission public lectures at cost. The ticket season begins this week. The Series announces, too, a special course of four lectures on "Psychic Phenomena" by Dr. Louis K. Anspacher, famous New York author, playwright and philosopher. Dr. Anspacher proposes to prove that the dead can be made communicated with the living.

Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, famous New York Zoo curator, Carver Wells, British explorer and author, and Julien Bryan, roving "March of Time" photographer, are among the celebrities who will speak and show their exclusive motion pictures. For his "Inside Nazi Germany" lecture, Julien Bryan motions to every corner of Germany, filming such highlights as the Krupp and other giant factories turning out substitutes for everything from wool to gasoline, the Hitler Youth, the Labor Camps, a million Nazis at the Party Congress at Nurnberg, the Jewish persecution, the complete Nazi war machine in a mighty tank battle, Adolf Hitler.

Harrison Forman, who filmed the Chinese battlefields this summer, will speak on "The Chinese Red Army on the march, the dynamiting of the dikes and the latest activities in all the war zones. A question and answer session follows each lecture. The complete motion picture program: October 9, "Captain Irving Johnson, "Around the World Again in the Schooner Yankee," October 16, Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, "Wild Animals and Their Ways," Oct. 23, Harrison Forman, "China Against Japan—the Far East Affair," Oct. 30, Joseph Tilton, "Into the Wilds of Malaya," Nov. 6, Dr. Colin Ross, "Around the World in Twenty Years," Nov. 13, Bettie Dyhrenfurth, "Himalaya—Throne of the Gods," Nov. 20, Fred Payne (Clatworthy), "Through Mexico
