

THREE ARE ADDED TO SCHOOL STAFF FOR COMING YEAR

Three new teachers have been added to the teaching force of the Birmingham Public School this year. Miss Nina Kitta, a graduate of the University of Oregon has taken charge of girls' athletics at Baldwin High School. Miss Kitta has taken the place vacated by Miss Miriam Brown, who left Birmingham to accept a position as director of women's physical education work at Kalamazoo College.

Victor Ulrich, who recently held a position as teacher of vocal music at Dickinson, N. D., and who also acted as critic teacher at Dickinson State Teachers' College, is in charge of vocal music in the secondary schools, the position formerly held by Miss Edith Riech, who is now employed in the music department of the Pontiac school.

Miss Harriet Watson, who has been engaged to teach in the primary grades of the Adams school, is a graduate of Wayne University. She has taught school in China and more recently in Sanborn, Ia.

What Your City Commission Is Doing

Bills were approved in the amount of $37,710.14. An agreement was reached on a method of allocating of assets and liabilities between Troy Township and the City of Birmingham.

A recommendation of the City Manager that excavating equipment be rented in connection with W. P. A. labor in the construction of the trunk line sewer to the new sewage disposal plant was approved.

Fashion Tips

Inexpensive rayon and cotton fabrics in soft colors have almost replaced silk and satin damask for drapery and upholstery. The colors are beautiful and restful to the eye. They are such that no lining is required.

Some of the newest hand-knitted suits have a man tailored look. They feature shallow collars and belts about five inches wide.

A new note on some of the knitted dresses and suits is given by the eye. Belts or scarves can be made of this flattering material.

Gold watches on chains around the neck, worn as they were by ladies in the nineteenth century, are being seen with tailored suits in Paris. The chain is long and the watch is kept in a pocket of the blouse or jacket.

Star Dust

Thriller in Remaking Puppets in Preview Courageous Martha! By Virginia Vale

If you remember "Dawn Patrol" as it was first made, be sure to go to the new version that is being whipped up by Warner Brothers. There'll be the same excellent story, but we're promised that it will be twice as thrilling—if that's possible—because of improved methods of picture making.

A flying field has been laid out, the Marine sector has been duplicated, a British cast has been collected, and a picture of the Royal Flying Corps—Errol Flynn, David Niven, Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains, Barry Fitzgerald, Patric Knowles, among others. Ten planes of the war period have been purchased, equipped with modern engines and two types of machine guns; they'll be crashed or burned during the making of the picture.

I'm hoping that there'll be one certain improvement, and that's in the story. If you remember the original, with Dick Barthelme and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., it ended on a Bartheleme flying over enemy country, doing practically as much damage as an entire army might have. It was preposterous, and came very near spoiling a fine picture.

It's interesting, this time of year, to see what programs the big sponsors have lined up. Here's a sample

Indoors... Outdoors... Wash-day... Birthday... family history is being made. NOT long ago a young friend of mine married. He is a camera fan, like the rest of us, and he told me...

My family history is going to be kept in pictures. I plan to take at least one new picture book every week—many more whenever possible. Whenever we do anything—move to a new home—go on a weekend trip—plant flowers—celebrate a birthday or an anniversary—add a new member—whatever it is, the story will be told in pictures.

These are not an idea for all of us. In every family, things happen each day that we would like to remember. We buy new furniture, decorate our homes with plants and flowers, put new screens on the back porch, lake vacation trips. Children are born, grow up, change year by year. We change, too. And each day-by-day picture-history of all our everyday activities, as well as occasional and so-called special events, greatly enrich our memories in later years.

Each family picture-book becomes more treasured as the years roll by.

It is a household ritual, and abide in it. "A picture a day keeps the family history up to date. And a complete picture-book each year keeps it permanently." John van Gulder.
