Winifred Hantoon Heidt Is Winner Of Fellowship From Metropolitan Opera

Recognition from the Metropolitan Opera Company came Sunday to Winifred Hantoon Heidt, a prominent in Detroit musical circles and a former resident of Birmingham, where she has also been identified with musical activities. Following her appearance over the "auditions of the air" program conducted by the Metropolitan, Mrs. Heidt was awarded a special fellowship and a provisional contract for the coming opera season in New York.

Sharing the fellowship with Mrs. Heidt, a mezzo-soprano, is Jean Merrill of Everett, Wash., soprano. Although neither of the contestants won one of the two Metropolitan contracts offered for broad-cast winners, their voices so impressed the jury that they were widened to include the fellowship. The fund is provided to enable them to study operatic repertoire in New York, the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mrs. Heidt and Miss Merrill will prepare at least one operatic recital this summer, with an eye towards debut during the coming season.

Anticipating Easter by several days, the Detroit Artists' Market entertained its members at tea on Wednesday in the Madison Music Galleries in Detroit. An interesting feature of the affair is that it marked the formal opening of an exhibition of waxwork, pottery, jewelry and metal work created by members of the organization.

Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills residents were prominently identified with the afternoon activities, both at the tea and in the exhibition. Mrs. Richard Hudson Wetherill served as chairman of hostesses for the afternoon. To assist her, she enlisted the aid of Mrs. Frank L. Brunkley, Mrs. Leonard J. Lewis, Mrs. Robert C. Traub and Miss Betty Kingensmith, all representing the Birmingham-Bloomfield contingent.

Among the exhibitors in the festive setting of the newly opened display are Mrs. Elrol Siainen and Miss Marianne Stencel, both of whom have gained widespread notice through their work at the Cranbrook Academy of Arts. Mrs. Saarnien, who lives on Cranbrook, has created most beautiful pieces of weaving, and intricate followers of the art as well. Miss Stencel is on the Academy faculty.

Another of the successful dancing and card parties being given for parents and teachers by the Parent-Teachers Association was held at the school on Wednesday evening. The affair was presided over by Mrs. W. J. Johnson, general manager of the school. It was held at the school, Mrs. Wilbur Johnson acted as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Louis Heck and a members' committee. Together, they arranged a program of music and old-fashioned dancing, as well as the table games.

Spacious dances and others of an old-fashioned nature over the occasion of much merriment from time to time during the evening. Among the dances which added to the evening's fun were a "broom dance," "Under the Sun," and to strike a more modern note, a ballroom dance. Miss Dena Brown and Mrs. Rokyzy were among those who played for the square dance. A modern music system, brought through the public address system, Mrs. Clarence Davines acted as master of ceremonies.

Attractive appointments distinguished the tables from which refreshments were served in buffet style. Mr. Arthur J. Gillespie served as chairman of the refreshment committee, assisted by Mrs. Dominic Caputi, Mrs. Karl Bronson, Mrs. Grant Springstead, Mrs. Raymond Rice and Mrs. Henry Johns.

Charles Turner, Gifted Violin Student, Wins Acceptance to Famous School

Although he is only 17 years old, Charles Turner, talented young violinist and pianist, and Mrs. Kenneth E. Turner of Oakland avenue, realized an ambition of more than 10 years' standing on Tuesday, March 28, when he was accepted as a student at the Curtis Institute of Philadelphia. Like the Julliard School in New York, musicians are admitted to the Curtis foundation only on auditions, played before nationally-known jurors. Once admitted, they receive four or more years of instruction, through the best available faculty, by the foundation.

Charles journeyed to Philadelphia for the audition, accompanied by his mother. Together, they tell an exciting story of the incident. "Each candidate is allowed to play for 10 minutes," the judges who evaluated the music, Mrs. Turner explained. "The judges who evaluated the music, Mrs. Turner explained. The judges who evaluated the music, Mrs. Turner explained."

Charles played Bruch's "Concerto in G Minor" and other violin candidates, he was accompanied by Mr. Zimbalist's own piano. After his audition, he returned to the waiting room. After more than an hour of suspense, he and the other successful candidates were notified that they had been accepted.

Charles will graduate in June from Baldwin High School. In the meantime, he will continue his studies at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia.
