

Planned Picnic Menus Offer Change From Hum-Drum Hot Weather Meals

There are not many of us who do not rejoice in an occasional picnic to escape from walls, however pleasant the indoor festivities may be, to go picnicking. Long to people took too much food on picnics; now they get variety in their picnic meals by planning picnics, each one different and simple.

Savory Chicken Stew
Cut a chicken of about 4 pounds into pieces and stew until tender. Remove the meat from the bones, breaking this meat up in pieces of uniform size. Now saute slices of onion and 1 seeded green pepper in 2 tablespoons of fat in your kettle. When they are soft add a medium sized can of tomatoes and 3 cloves of garlic minced. Season to taste with salt, a pinch of powdered cloves, a bay leaf and add a can of mushrooms, liquor and oil, and half of a No. 2 can of corn. Boil kernels are better. Next in your pieces of chicken. Heat thoroughly, add more seasoning if necessary. Then off to the picnic in your kettle. It reheats perfectly.

Sardine Sandwiches
Place on a slice of whole wheat bread, a lettuce leaf, cover with sardines, thin slices of tomatoes and a little mayonnaise.

Cucumber Circles
Lightly butter rounds of white bread, place a slice of crisp, cold cucumber on each and enclose in a border of mayonnaise, sprinkle with paprika.

Egg Salad
Cook eggs hard, cool and remove shells. Chop fine, adding salt, pepper, pimento, or pickle juice and enough mayonnaise or salad dressing to moisten.

Baked Bean Sandwich
Mash canned baked beans, season with chili sauce or tomato soup and enough mayonnaise to form a good spreading consistency. Place between slices of Boston bread.

Shortcake Sandwiches
Baking powder biscuit dough is fried thin and cut with large and small cutters. Two rounds are spread together with a little butter between them. Separate the biscuits and fill with creamed ham or asparagus tips and cheese.

Stuffed and Broiled Sandwiches
Slice and remove crusts from old bread, spread with butter prepared mustard. Put a slice pressed cornbeef between 2

Fashion Tips

Chamberlain and the Queen certainly started something with their umbrellas and parasols. Particularly since Queen Elizabeth's visit, the fashionable resorts have been infested with all kinds of parasols.

With slacks and shorts, umbrellas of striped cotton, very tailored are carried. But with other costumes one sees sunshades of silk and lace or linen, and some have ruffles and ribbon, too.

Despite the fact that tight skirts were supposed to come back this season, the new showings are partial to those which have plenty of fullness. Some are shirred around the hips and others have flared pelupus.
