Coming Fall Activities Being Planned By Bloomfield Hills Garden Association

Although summer is not yet on the wane, activities for the coming fall season have already begun in at least one club. Extensive plans for the season have been planned by members and officers of the Bloomfield Hills branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden association.

Arrangements are already under advisement for the annual flower show which will be held in September at the Community House. In addition to their own show many members of the Bloomfield Hills branch of the association are making plans to attend shows which will be given by sister members of the association.

Members of the Hills branch have been invited to attend the first flower show of the Roseville-East Detroit branch which is being held from three until nine o'clock on Saturday.

Another show which will prove of considerable interest to flower enthusiasts is the annual all ornamental horticultural field day which will be held at Michigan State College on Wednesday, Sept. 6, from ten to five o'clock. This day is designed to bring to Michigan home gardeners the latest information on diseases and insect control, cultural details and garden planning and to give garden lovers an opportunity to see all of the new varieties of plants in the trial grounds, including annuals, perennials, dahlias and glads.

The special field day will also provide an opportunity for garden club members throughout the state to see the great collection of trees, shrubs and plants of all kinds used throughout the campus of the college, and especially in the Boarfield garden. Then, too, a tour will be conducted through the forestry department's nursery.

An invitation has also been extended to members of the Hills branch to attend the flower show which is scheduled to be held Sept. 8 from three to ten o'clock in the Royal Oak High School.
