PEACEFUL LIVING

There is nothing to compare with the comfortable feeling of security that one has while sitting in front of his own fireplace watching his own fire.

What a thrill one gets looking out of his own window viewing over an acre and one-half of his own, covered with large oak and maple trees!

Then there is the boathouse, below the tree shaded bluff, to which one can retire on a summer evening and enjoy the breeze from the lake.

And, of course, there is always the time when one can sit back and dream about the problems of the many generations who lived there before the house was remodeled and modernized.

You, too, can enjoy this peaceful living, let us show you how.

Writer Says Schools Need Vocational Counselor

Would Help Grads Get Right Start In Their Careers

(Editor's Note—Times change. That may sound obvious, but there are many people who don't believe it. For example, if Baldwin High School were to employ a full-time vocational guidance counselor, some would say, "that's another unneeded frill in the schools." Charles E. Lewis, 272 Hawthorne road, an attorney, and a member of Baldwin P.T.A., has written for The Eccentric his reasons for believing such a service would NOT be a frill.

By CHARLES E. LEWIS

In view of the unusual importance today of providing high school students with adequate vocational guidance and training, it is very gratifying to know that our school authorities are alert to the need for an effective counseling service in Baldwin High School.

A committee of the Baldwin Parent-Teachers Association has recently made a study of this subject which bears a special appeal to everyone interested in the adjustments required of the younger generation in our fast moving social and economic order.

Many Fields Overcrowded

It is a well recognized fact of course, that many fields of endeavor among the professions and business are becoming increasingly crowded. Some are so crowded that it is difficult to find a place for a new entrant.

It is therefore, of great importance that the young man or woman who is entering the workforce should be able to choose a field in which he or she can make a successful career.

For this reason, it is essential that the young man or woman should be given adequate vocational guidance and training.

Such guidance and training can be provided by a full-time vocational counselor in the high school.

Such a counselor would be able to help the student choose a field in which he or she can make a successful career.

Such a counselor would also be able to help the student choose a field in which he or she can make a successful career.

Stalin the Enigma Is the Subject Of New Biography

By Lindo Moore

To the world at large, Stalin has been something of an enigma. Certainly there has been a surprising dearth of material concerning a man, who, son of a peasant shoemaker in one of the most backward provinces of Tsarist Russia, remained practically unknown during the Revolution, the Civil War and the early struggles of the young Soviet state. Yet, at Lenin's death, it was this same unknown who rose with apparent suddenness to be the undisputed dictator of the sixth of the world.

Boris Souvarine, former member of the executive committee of the Communist party, now presents the first definitive biography of Stalin. His position in Russian affairs gave him first-hand knowledge of events during some of the most crucial years in the history of Russia and the world.

Stalin is not only a full-length and detailed account of the man's life, but is also a serious and well documented history of Bolshevism. The Best Plays, 1938-1939, edited by Burns Mantle, the unofficial recording angle of the contemporary stage again signals his devotion to the stage by publishing the best plays of the preceding year. Included are Abe Lincoln, Rocket to the Moon, The Little Foxes, Kiss the Boys Good-bye and others.

Recently added new novels included: Kitty Foyle, by Christopher Morley. The life and love of a modern girl, told by herself in the stream of consciousness style.

The Sea Tower, by Hugh Walpole. A young bride and groom, a pathologically jealous and dominating mother-in-law and a lonely estate in Cornwall, make the ingredients of this suspense laden novel.

Doctor Hudson's Secret Journal, by Lloyd Douglas. Since "Magnificent Obsession", readers have been asking for the complete journal of "Dr. Hudson". This new novel is the answer.

End of Beyond, by James B. Hendryx. Adventure and excitement provided by the efforts of a tenderfoot to find Black Gold in the wild north country.

Pillow Catches Fire From Lighted Candle

NEW HOME PERCHED ON HILL

A charming addition to the many attractive homes in the Birmingham suburban area has just been completed in the Willowgreen Hills development just south of Franklin Village. It will be opened Sunday for public inspection and on week days by appointment through local real estate brokers.

While this home is Early American in architectural style, it is a New American in plan and equipment and exemplifies the electrical standard of living. It was planned around that important center of the home—the kitchen, the layout of which was specially designed.

This all-electric kitchen comprises an electric range and refrigerator, combination electric dishwasher and sink unit, and metal wall and base cabinets. A unique feature of this woman's realm is a breakfast corner with a seat, in the angle of which a table can be placed. There is an electric ventilator and an electric clock.

The color scheme is blue featured in the linoleum floor with black border matching the black linoleum counter tops.

Architecturally the house closely follows the farm Colonial with entrance from a covered flagstone terrace and a large screened porch at the opposite end. There is a semi-attached two-car garage with a typical cupola on top. The exterior is of wide siding painted a gleaming white which is in harmonious contrast to the green shingled roof. Two dormer windows break the graceful lines of the roof of the main or central section of the house.

The house is located on an acre hilltop and through the group of four windows in the living room, in fact from all rooms, there are beautiful vistas of the surrounding countryside.
