to the estimate given by the Cague of Nations Armament, Yearhook. In 1937, military expenditures of the nations were estimated at $11,500,000,000.

Most of this money is being expended by seven powers, the United States, Great Britain Germany, France, Italy, Japan, and the Soviet Chion.

It requires very little imagination to reach the conclusion that these wast expenditures are being made in the belief that war is imminent. The only reason why governments assume the burden of such expenses is because they believe war is probable.

The total membership of the $184,10 churches in the United States is estimated at $4,156,295 cm. The contribute taxes in the United States is estimated at $4,156,295 cm. Fix we writes ... stand at a significant point in time. The dawn of a new age of thought is flushing the sky; the old order fades; the old faith, eventres of much glorlous work, now dies the natural death of all faiths that have strengthened the feet and lined the hearts of much glorlous work, now dies the natural death of all faiths that have strengthened the feet and lined the hearts of men through their appointed centuries. Reason is crowned, and the trumpets of her ministers, Seiene and Justice, proclaim her, In these high moments of change, let the lampbearers cling, close to their socret torches; cherish the flame against storm and tempest, and keep clear their ancient alfar-fires, even though they cannot keep them fright. Then the gratumborn those who shall follow to expand their genins in conditions of culture, tolerance, and knowledge we know note may say, eyen of this, our time, that despite false teaching, false triumphs and false taste, there, were yet those who strove for the immemorial grandeur of their calling; who prandered to no temptation from without or from within; who followed none of the great world-lyingts, used their gift as a stepping-stone to no meaner life; but clear-eyed and patient, neither clated nor cast down, still lifted the lamp as high as their powers allowed, still pursued art singly for her own immortal sake.
