SPEAKING OF BOOKS

Have You ? Read These ?

All This, and Heaven Too

By Rachel Field

THIS story, based on truth that is stronger than fiction, com-bines the drama of one of the most notorious murder cases is France with a period of Amer-ican history covering the New England of 1850 to 1875. It is, in fact, the story of Rachel Field's own great-aunt; for after winning her freedom, Henriett (the story's heroine) took refuge in America where she mar-ried the youngest of four fa-mous brothers, Henry M. Field, preacher, editor, and writer.-

Disputed Passage

By Lloyd C. Douglas

AUTHOR of "Green Light and "Magnificent Obsession," Lloyd C. Douglas has more than a million readers—because his stories have dramatic power, because he writes of problems which are alive, because he helps his readers see their own lives more clearly. And now people are saying that "Disputed Pas-As criticised in the Chicago Daily News, "Every word in this absorbing novel counts, shaded to an exact meaning by a writer not only brilliant, but also thorough. It's my guess it will be in demand ten years from now."—52.50.

Rebecca

By Daphne du Maurier

A ERILLIANT novel of an un forgettable woman, by the au-thor of "Jamaica Inn;" of which John Clair Minot said in the Boston Herald, "This is the sort of story that should keep many a reader awake all night. It is well worth the loss of sleep." Rebecca has the same urgency about its story, the same brilliantly created atmosphere of suspense, but it is a novel that is infinitely more moving, more deeply concerned with the inner workings of the minds of men and women,-$2,75.

Song of Years

By Bess Streeter Aldrich

author tells a tender love story which unfolds "against an authentic picture of family life in pioneer lowa during the dramatic years of the Civil War. Now in its third big printing.—$2.50.
