NON-PARTISAN STATE NEWS LETTER

LANSING, Jan. 12—Like a tight-wire artist crossing an abyss, Governor Frank Fitzgerald proposes in his first message to the legislature to accomplish a remarkable balancing feat.

He would vote out a treasury deficit of staggering proportions and eventually balance the budget by reducing payrolls $8,000,000 to $8,500,000 in 60 to 90 days, eliminating expensive duplication in state accounting, tightening collection of the state sales tax, and otherwise by "living within our income."

At the same time the Governor would increase the amount of state aid to public schools from $41,000,000 which they actually received in 1938) to $45,000,000 for each of the next two years; liberalize state old age pensions "at the most rapid possible pace so beneficiaries will have a total monthly income of not less than $30"; and step up the state tourist promotion fund from $150,000 to $200,000.

Governor Fitzgerald has chartered a course of fiscal sound government that will meet widespread approval.

Sympathy for Under-dog

The previous administration, following the pattern set by President Roosevelt in his New Deal, had espoused consistently the cause of the "forgotten man," the so-called "under-dog."

In fact, Governor Murphy in his zeal to advance the welfare of the worker targeted the Michigan Democratic party as a "labor party."

Edward Fry, writing as state chairman to county leaders, put it: "For too long a time we have been considered a labor party . . . We have featured our labor support too strenuously." Fry pointed out a 1938 loss of 30,000 votes in Wayne county.

Hence it is interesting to examine the Fitzgerald message in the light of the previous administration. We cannot find evidence that the new administration will be reactionary. The hungry are to be fed. The aged are to receive considerate attention. Education is not to be neglected. Civil service is not to be "undermined." Conservation needs are to be carefully safeguarded.

Liquor Control

The controversial issue of liquor control—as long as a demand for liquor exists, controversy is inevitable—is injected into the 1939 program by the Governor with an emphasis on greater revenue earnings by the state.

Governor Fitzgerald would take the state out of the retail business whereby the state maintains community liquor stores for sale of liquor purchased by the state at wholesale in large quantities.

Retail merchants would take over the selling. The state would act as "a clearing warehouse, a tax collecting agency and an enforcing arm."

"I believe that with proper adjustments, greater revenues could be derived if state liquor stores were abolished," he points out. "Hundreds of thousands of dollars could be saved in decreased payrolls, rent, maintenance and so forth."

This policy has the endorsement, it is understood, of Lieutenant Governor Lauren Dickinson of Charlotte, a long-time dry.

State Tourist Business

Following a cue given by many tourist-minded states, Fitzgerald favors the retention of the state tourist bureau which was created by the last legislature with $50,000 state funds.

Coordination of tourist promotion work so that a central advertising campaign is carried on for Michigan as a whole would be continued by the Governor with $100,000 at his bidding, instead of $50,000.

However, half of the additional $50,000 would be utilized to promote the sale of Michigan agricultural products on a matching of state aid basis. The success of Maine, Washington, Oregon, and Idaho in promotion of their agricultural products through advertising is well known. Fitzgerald endorses this growers' movement with an offer to match their funds up to $25,000.

Notice to Strike

The highlight of the governor's labor relations plan, as outlined in considerable detail in his message, is a ten days' notice by labor of strike action.

Strike orders would be filed with a non-partisan state board. In ten days' time the orders would become effective.

But in the meanwhile, while both sides were "cooling off," the board would strive by mediation alone to settle the differences involved. Picketing privileges would be limited to workers of the plant. Sit-down strikes would be made illegal. Wild-cat strikes in defiance of state law would automatically subject employees to liability of loss of their jobs.

On labor's side are these new restrictions imposed upon the employer. "It would be incumbent upon employers to rehire, and not discriminate against, workers participating in a legal strike." In event of an "emergency situation" wherein wage reductions were to become effective at once, the board could order "any employer to restore conditions to their former level, pending the outcome of mediation." Workers would receive the same wages, work the same number of hours, etc. during the 10 days' interim between declaration of a strike and the actual walk-out.

While company unions would be prohibited, the door would be left open for formation by employees of "a bona-fide independent union."

Public Opinion

Employing only voluntary mediation to effect labor peace, the governor's plan, if enacted by the legislature, would lean heavily upon public opinion as its enforcement arm. Accordingly, a free press is highly important to the success of the proposed labor relations plan in Michigan. Additional responsibilities would be imposed on newspapers, both dailies and weeklies.

HILL AUDITORIUM

Home of Michigan's famous Choral Union and May Festival concerts, which have made Ann Arbor one of the leading musical centers of the Midwest, Hill Auditorium has entertained the most brilliant of America's and Europe's musical artists.

The Auditorium, dedicated in 1913, was the gift of the late Regent Arthur Hill, of Saginaw, who received a degree in Engineering from the University of Michigan in 1865. In addition to its use for concert purposes, the 5,000 seat auditorium has been used for various other education, scientific and religious lectures and gatherings.

Embodying "a triumph in the science of acoustics" the red brick, ivy covered building is constructed so that even a whisper from the stage can be heard in the farthest corner.

A few of the artists appearing at Hill Auditorium during the 1938-39 Choral Union Concert Series are Lawrence Tibbett, Kirsten Flagstad, Yehudi Menuhin, Jose Iturbi, and the Budapest University Chorus.

Y.M.C.A. LEAGUE OPENS WITH FOUR LOCAL CONTESTS

In the opening contests of the Y. M. C. A. city basketball league last Thursday, DeMolay defeated Peck's 44-4, Sherman's Market defeated Birmingham Recreation 17-16, and Milk's defeated Cranbrook Hillbillies 42-27.

In the first game Peck's seemed unable to stop Fear and Streb as they scored 30 of the DeMolay total of 44.

The second contest of the evening between Sherman's Market and Birmingham Recreation proved to be the most interesting contest of the evening. Although Sherman's led 7-4 at the end of the first quarter, and 12-8 at the half, the Recreation team came back and tied the score at 14-14 at the end of the third quarter. With one minute to go Chandler was fouled while shooting. He missed the first throw but made the second one. This proved to be the winning point as Recreation was unable to score in the time left. Chandler was high point man, scoring 12 of Sherman's 17 points.

In the final contest of the evening Milk's defeated the Cranbrook Hillbillies through superior passing and basket shooting. McBride, Gleye, and Hunt each scored ten points for Milk's. Friery was high man for the Hillbillies, with seven points.

Tonight Sherman's will meet Cranbrook at seven o'clock, Peck's and Recreation at eight o'clock, and DeMolay and Milk's at nine o'clock. These games are played in the Baldwin high school gymnasium.

LAMBS TO TELL OF THREE-YEAR TRIP IN SMALL CANOE

Dan and Ginger Lamb, hero and heroine of 1938's best selling adventure book "Enchanted Vagabonds," will show their new motion pictures and speak on "From San Diego to Panama in a 16-Foot Canoe" on the World Adventure Series platform at the Detroit Institute of Arts at 3:30 next Sunday afternoon, Jan. 15.

For their dangerous 16,000-mile, three-year voyage the Lambs designed a special 16-foot canoe, the "Vagabunda," which weighed only 150 pounds. This sturdy little craft was seaworthy enough to let them sail outside the breaker line and each night land through the surf. Their entire duffel—sails, paddles, food, cameras, pistols and clothing—weighed just 140 pounds. During their voyage the Lambs were wrecked many times, spilled end for end in the crashing surf, attacked by crocodiles and by hostile savages, caught in a bayou forest fire. Finally, three years after they started, theirs became the smallest craft ever to pass through the Panama Canal.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings, Jan. 16 and 17, the Series presents the final two of four lectures on "Psychic Phenomena" by the New York dramatist and philosopher, Dr. Louis K. Anspacher.

TEMPLETON TO BE HEARD AS SOLOIST WITH ORCHESTRA

Alec Templeton, brilliant young English pianist who has been blind since childhood, will be presented as soloist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Victor Kolar conducting, at the two concerts of Saturday, Jan. 21, in Orchestra Hall. Templeton will appear at both the Young People's program at 10:45 a. m., and the popular-priced concert at 8:30 p. m.

Acclaimed a "true genius" in England, Templeton was born of Scottish parents in Cardiff, South Wales. He won the British Broadcasting Corporation prize for composition at the age of 13, was awarded the Royal Academy of Music L. R. A. M. (Performer's diploma) and continued his studies at the Royal College of Music. The London Daily Express sponsored a contest which he won over a field of more than 5,000 entrants drawn from the entire United Kingdom. The next few years were spent concertizing throughout Europe.

Templeton has chosen to play Saturday night Rachmaninoff's Second Concerto in C Minor, his largest local assignment to date. The work will be used to close the program in order to permit Templeton as much time as is needed to entertain the expected capacity audience with his art of improvisation.

Kolar will lead the orchestra in Gluck's tuneful overture, "Iphigenia in Aulis," Gliere's Symphonic Poem, "The Sirens," Haydn's Serenade and a first performance at these concerts of "Espanbarlem," a picture in music of New York's Harlem by the American organist William J. Reddick.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, January 30th, at 8 o'clock P. M., a public hearing will be held in the Commission Room of the Municipal Building, in the City of Birmingham, on the following proposed amendments to Ordinance Number 221, known as the Zoning Ordinance, and at which time suggestions or objections from any person interested will be heard.

"An Ordinance to Amend Ordinance No. 221 of the City of Birmingham, by the Amending of Sub-section (f) of Section 601, to Provide for Accessory Uses Permitted in Single Family Residence District.

"The City of Birmingham Ordains:

"That Sub-section (f) of Section 601 of Ordinance Number 221 of the City of Birmingham be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"(f) Accessory uses customary or incidental to any of the above uses. Any building accessory to a main building and designed for occupancy by an accessory use shall be located not less than 75 feet from any street line. On a corner lot such accessory building may be constructed within not less than 15 feet from the street line on the side street frontage. An accessory use shall not include a building or use not located on the same lot with the building or use to which it is accessory.

A private garage to be deemed an accessory use shall not provide storage space for more than one motor vehicle for each 2,000 square feet of ground area of the lot. Such private garage may have living quarters for servants or members of the family. Provided all requirements of a single residence for yard spaces are fulfilled.

The term accessory use shall not include the conducting of a retail business, but shall include only the use of a portion of the building by an occupant of such building for the conducting of his or her trade, profession or occupation. Such accessory use shall not occupy more than 25 per cent of the floor area of any one floor.

No accessory use shall be permitted which by the emission of odor, smoke, dust or noise or which in any other way is objectionable or detrimental to the amenity of the neighborhood.

"This ordinance shall take effect immediately after the passage and upon publication thereof."

"An Ordinance to Amend Ordinance No. 221 of the City of Birmingham by the Addition Thereto of Certain Sections Which Shall Provide for the Regulation of the Construction of Fences, and to Specify the Type of such Construction in the Various Districts.

"The City of Birmingham Ordains:

"That Ordinance No. 221 of the City of Birmingham be, and the same is hereby amended by the addition thereto of a Section to be known as Section 601, sub-section (g), a section to be known as Section 1101, sub-section (a), and a section to be known as Section 1101, sub-section (e), which said sections so added shall be as follows:

"Section 601.

"(g) Fences shall not be erected in this district of a greater height than 3 feet for solid fences, 4 feet for fences having not less than 50% of the vertical projection of the entire fence open and 6 feet for fences having not less than 75% of the vertical projection of the entire fence open. Fences located between the building line and the street line shall not be constructed to a greater height than 3 feet. Barbed wire shall not be permitted on fences in this district.

"Section 1101.

"(a) On fences erected on or between properties in this district, there shall be no barbed wire used along the portion of such fence along a highway or public or private right of way unless such barbed wire shall be placed at a height not less than 6 feet above the ground level. Fences in this district shall not extend beyond the building line as established by Section 1003 of this Ordinance.

"Section 1101.

FENCES

"(e) On fences erected on or between properties in this district, there shall be no barbed wire used along the portion of such fence along a highway or public or private right of way, unless such barbed wire shall be placed at a height not less than 6 feet above the ground level. This ordinance shall take effect immediately after the passage and upon publication thereof."

IRENE E. HANLEY,
City Clerk.
