

Louise Cobb Will Become Bride of Jack E. Birthrong Early Next Winter

SATURDAY CLUB OPENS SEASON, GUIDED BY AAUW

The Saturday Club, arts and crafts project for children in grades 2A-5B, opened its 1939 season of ten weeks on Saturday, with registration of 225 members at the Community House. The Club is under the direction of the Birmingham Branch of the American Association of University Women, which founded the project four years ago, and the Community House.

According to Mrs. Ephraim R. Gombberg, general chairman, registration in the various activity groups is as follows: drawing, 17; clay work, 18; folk dancing, 20; dramatics, 22; puppetry, 16; sewing and knitting, 37; wood working, 52; metal working, 27.

Sergeant Raymond Sullivan of the Detroit Police Department, whose services as a speaker were secured through J. P. Hackett, chief of Birmingham police, was featured in the auditorium period. He related stories of traffic mishaps, with safety morals, illustrating each anecdote with deft line sketches. In conclusion he recited with his young audience, instructions to look for a policeman when lost or in trouble of any kind and "always to wave to your friend, the policeman."

The auditorium feature this week will be a story by the Club director, Theodore "Casar" Gierkowski, a humorous tale of his famous flight around the world, 25 years ago. Mr. Gierkowski, at the last meeting, announced the division of groups effective from on, Children from Adams, Perez and Holy Name schools will come at 1:30 p. m., and leave at three o'clock. Those from Barham, Quanton and outlying schools will come at 2:30 p. m. and leave at four, he said.

Franklin PTA Will Stage Barn Dance

Members of the Franklin Parent Teacher Association will recall a popular form of entertainment which they sponsored last winter, when they are hostesses at a barn dance on the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 24. The affair will be held at the Town Hall.

Miss Richard S. Orchard is general chairman of the dance. Mr. William B. Hoy will assist her, as head of the refreshment committee, and further aid will be furnished by Mrs. R. Douglas Sewell, who is in charge of ticket sales.

Attendance will be limited to 100 persons. Mrs. Orchard said, in order to insure plenty of room for the square dances. Inexpensive dancers will be guided by a caller, whose voice will rise above the old-fashioned music of accordion and violin.

Feminine members of the Bloomfield Open Hunt club are looking forward to the ladies' rides and bridge-luncheons, which will be a regular Tuesday feature at the club. At present, the weekly program includes a formal ride on Thursday evening, followed by dinner, children's ride Saturday morning, and the usual Sunday morning ride.

TRIO TO ATTEND CONFERENCE OF 'WAR CURE' GROUP

Birmingham will be represented by a delegation of three prominent matrons at the 14th annual convention on the Cause and Cure of War, which will convene in Washington Jan. 21, through Jan. 25. Leaving Friday to attend the affair will be Mrs. John K. Ormond, Mrs. Charles J. Shain and Mrs. W. A. P. Smith. Miss Fran- geline Purcell, formerly of Birmingham and now living in Detroit, will accompany them. More than 700 delegates are expected.

Miss Josephine Schain, chairman of the organization's national committee, will open the conference. She will be followed by James G. MacDonald, who will represent important events during 1938.

To Address Banquet
Mrs. C. M. Roosevelt, Mrs. Clark Chapman Catt, honorary chairman of the national committee, and Lady Dorothy Layton, noted British peace leader, will address the meeting following a banquet Monday evening. A highlight of the convention will be a panel discussion to express varying views on foreign policy, presented by Major George Fielding Elliot of the Military Intelligence Reserve, United States Army; Clark Eichelberger, director of the League of Nations Association, and Devere Allen, editor of Nonfrontier News Service.
