From the Women's Angle

Now that Hollywood has revived it, there is hope for the rest of the country. Hollywood has announced at long last...

Until this remarkable revelation, "Good Taste" was virtually a lost art. But Hollywood, digging around amid the ruins of a decadent civilization...

Soon, close-to-studio sources advise, the entire country will learn via Hollywood, just what constitutes "Good Taste."

Now that Hollywood has revived it, there is hope for the rest of the country. Hollywood has announced at long last...

It seems unbelievable that anything so gaudy as a flapper, and so noisy as a lounge could slip out of sight so completely...

When the Big Apple and Swing music descended upon us, the streets were filled with "Flaming youth."

This week was commemorated the second anniversary of the death of a young American who is considered by serious musicians to be the only one to have written anything memorable in the jazz idiom...

Gershwin was as typically a product of his age as Stephen Foster. Like Foster, died leaving musicians wondering whether he might have achieved a higher status...

Two years after his premature death his compositions are as widely played as they ever were. Today, two seasons ago, his serious works lead in the list of compositions by American composers...

Regardless of the merit attached by musicians to his major symphonic works, it must be admitted that he was a symbol of his age. He was a valid expression of the humanity in which he lived...

Whether, like Foster, his music was essentially for the multitude, or whether it was intended as a purely speculative, but regardless of the merit of his contributions to contemporary music...

'Dad' Stanton Observes 90th Birthday As Honor Guest At Two Celebrations

"Don't talk about your troubles if you want to live long and well," said Robert T. Stanton Wednesday, as he celebrated his 90th birthday...

McBrice's tea room with a huge birthday cake, which they baked and decorated, appropriately themselves. His speech of thanks was as graceful as the old saint, his winter home. And afterwards, he was heard to say that "The Charleston girls are all right too."

In the evening, Donald T. Stanton and Mrs. Stanton honored the Colonel at a dinner, given at his home. The guests, most of whom were defeated at crubage by the honors at his last birthday party...

Wednesday's luncheon, held at McBrice's tea room, was an inspiration of several of the Colonel's "girl friends." Some of the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, Frank Bladen and Phil Williams...

Mrs. Stanton presented her father-in-law with a new can of bright red shoes, followed by this week-end, and they didn't want to cramp his style.

Those in-between season dresses of black are being shown. They can be worn with a touch of bright color here and there, and jewelry is definitely smarter.

New evening prints are distinguished by their large flowers. One design, of white organza, has red and pink chrysanthemums which measure a foot across.

"What is the hardest job you have faced since your college days?" "Living them down."

Fashion Tips

Hats to match one's suit or frock are being shown again. For instance, a tweed suit has its stitched tweed hat and program jacket is worn with a program hat.

The hats all go upward. If they aren't up in the front they are worn off the face, they fit snugly down over the back of the head.

Porch Dance to Follow Dinner At Oakland Hills

Dancing on the Veranda will occupy members of Oakland Hills Country Club on Saturday evening, following dinner. Music will be provided by Jules Klein and his novel "stinging orchestra," Julie Annan, vocalist, will be featured. The dancing is open to members not taking dinner, as well.

In the event of bad weather, the affair will be held indoors, although extensive plans are being made to illuminate the scene with strings of gaily-colored lights, hung from the pillars of the club porch.

Among the summer visitors to Birmingham is Miss Emily Jeffrey Vaughan, of Durham, N. C., who is visiting Miss Shirley Smith and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch T. Smith of Hawthorne road, Miss Vaughan, who is being widely entertained, and Miss Smith are classmates at Duke university. In compliment to her guest, Miss Vaughan will have a large tea on Sunday afternoon. Miss Eleanor Wood and Miss Elizabeth Richey poured.

Mrs. and Mrs. M. S. Perry Williams, of Strawberry Hill, are spending the week cruising on the boat, "Harriet B." as guests of Mrs. Williams' father, Clarence B. Hayes, of Jackson.
