

Relatives Honor James S. Dunham At Reunion On His Eighty-First Birthday

Relatives of James S. Dunham came from all over Michigan and from California on Sunday, to honor him on the 81st anniversary of his birthday at a family reunion. Mr. Dunham, who lives with Mrs. Dunham in their home on Watkins street, greeted nearly 30 of his relatives at a reception, at which Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Reid were hosts on Sunday, in their home on Frank street. Mrs. Reid is the former Mabel Dunham.

Mr. Dunham's Birmingham relatives who attended the reunion include Howard E. Reid and Barbara Reid, and Mr. Reid's mother, Mrs. Anna Reid. From Royal Oak came Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers (Dorothy Dunham) and their three children, Sally, Bob and Richard.

From Detroit came Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Matthews (Hazel Dunham) and Frank S. Matthews, Jr.; James M. Dunham, T. Z. Dunham and Joan M. Dunham.

Linley City visitors at the affair were Florence Dunham Folk, John Folk, Francis and Susanne Folk and Paul Field. A trio which travelled the greatest distance to attend the reunion included O. Lee Dunham, Ruth Dunham and Patie Dunham, all of California.

A number of other guests from this vicinity were present at Sunday's gathering, including Mrs. Eliza Schwarzerer, a grandmother. Other guests were Albert C. Dunham, a son of Mr. James Dunham; Lucy A. Dunham, Cathleen Dunham and Paul Taber, and Alice C. Dunham and Robert Burns.

Fashion Tips

American play clothes and Paris designs are decidedly different this season. The Americans are covering up a little bit more than they have done during the past few seasons, but Parisians are showing more than ever.

Take shorts, for instance. Our shorts for tennis and badminton look very much like skirts, but the French variety are tight and go almost to the knee, which is very naughty looking.

Slacks are beautifully tailored this season and favorite materials are gabardine, hopsack, silk, shantung and linen materials.

Be sure to include some long sleeves in your play wardrobe if you would be smart.

The silhouette for Fall is veering away from the full skirts, suggestive of little girls and is showing flat fronts with back and hip interest.

An amazing novelty which has nothing to do with gloves, is a pair of yellow cases for the bride's hope chest. One slip is embroidered with "Mr." and the other with "Mrs."

Cranbrook Academy of Art Is Center Of Exciting Affairs For Bloomfield Folk

Bloomfield Hills may justifiably claim to be a "different" community, if its residents contrast the present activities at the Cranbrook Academy of Art with the mid-summer lull prevailing in other centers. The early part of this week marked the opening of the Academy's summer session, and social interest at present is centering around the newcomers and affairs of their pleasure.

Taking advantage of the holiday spirit, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller chose Tuesday afternoon as the occasion for a tea. Thirty guests from all over the country, all enrolled in the Art Academy, shared honor with the faculty. The tea was held at the Miller's lovely home in Academy park. What with Mr. Miller's international prestige as a sculptor and the presence of other ranking members of the Academy staff, the affair became a mortification on the annual of the season's affairs.

Hold Reception On Wednesday evening, the Acad-emy's summer staff of ten joined forces to entertain the students with motion pictures, followed by an informal reception. To provide added enjoyment, a program was held in the courtyard of the Academy, the picture beauty of which is a highlight of the Cranbrook grounds.

Another inspiration for entertaining among members of the faculty, was the arrival of Mr. Charles Eames and her small daughter, Lucia, from St. Louis. Mr. Eames and her daughter, who will be a member of the faculty at the Academy this summer and through the coming year. They plan to enter Luma in Brook-side School Cranbrook, in the fall.

Faculty to Travel Traveling bulletins on the summer programs of the various faculty members, Eero Saarinen and his bride, the former Miss Lilian Swann of Sposset, Long Island, will depart over the coming weekend for an extended motor trip in Europe. They will visit Finland, and later tour through Europe to Italy, which they will also visit. In the fall they will return to Cranbrook to take up their permanent residence.

Zoltan Sepeshy, another noted faculty member, is also planning a jaunt to Europe, with Budapest
