

FERRDALE—Earl Frazier, 75 Massachusetts avenue, Highland Park, was bound to Circuit Court under $500 bond after examination Thursday in Ferrdale Municipal Court on a charge of felonious assault. He furnished bond. Frazier was charged with having struck William Rhames, 251 East Oakridge avenue, Ferrdale, superintendent of a PWA project, over the head with a piece of lumber some time ago. Rhames suffered a skull fracture but is recovering.

In Doubt
Lawyer (handing client $100)—Here is the balance of your award of $500, after deducting my fee. Why do you frown? Aren't you satisfied?
Client—I was just wondering who got hit by the car, you or I.

Freshman Stars of 1938 Defy Old Sophomore Jinx

BY IRVING DEK
THE old second-year jinx isn't getting in many lies this year as the freshman stars of last year continue with their rollicking pace.

Joe Gordon... better than him.

Last season many observers were pretty sure that Joe Gordon of the Yankees was destined to become the greatest second sacker of all time. Now they're positive.

Pitchers continue to find him a tough nut to pitch to, and defensively he covers more territory than any second baseman in the American League.

Big Buck McCormick, Cincinnati's right-handed first baseman, made an auspicious start last year, but he's his hitting which continues to keep the critics talking.

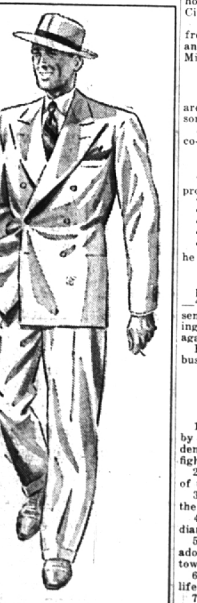

But in his second year in the big-time, they're touting the Redleg star as the outstanding first base candidate in the All-Star game.

McCormick is a graceful fielder, but it's his hitting which continues to keep the critics talking. He's waging a battle for the home run and runs driven in championships of the senior loop.

JOHNNY VANDER MEER of the Milwaukee graduate has come along fast after Oscar Witt, who pitched the hot corner himself for the Tigers a good many years back.

Get Back At Him
Mrs. Gray—And did you enjoy your camping trip, my dear?
Mrs. Young—Immensely. It was the first chance I had to complain of my husband's cooking.

Apologies to Mark Twain

'Men Can Take It' Says Elizabeth Hawes of Hats

By Lindo Moore

After today the Little Women need no longer hang her heads when Friend Husband sounds off with that classic line, "Do you call that a HAT?" Instead she may fasten a gimlet eye on his own attire and make a few well chosen remarks, all quoted from Elizabeth Hawes' new book, Men Can Take It. Miss Hawes claims to be no reformer, but she is an exceedingly determined lady who feels strongly that men's clothes are all wrong and that something should be done about it. It is possible, she says, for men to wear clothing that is light weight, colorful, non-irritating and comfortable. Then, she wonders, why does the Lord of Creation, strolling out with the July mercury at 80, wear woolen trousers, a woolen coat, nice stiff-soled, leather shoes five pounds each, a closely woven shirt, a tie around his neck and a stiff straw hat? His lady trots along beside him wearing a chiffon dress and open work sandals. What especially infuriates Miss Hawes about this contrast is that she feels that the ladies, having set the seal of their approval on the present costume will not allow that poor down-trodden male to change, even if he should feel so inclined. So she is about the business of staging a clothes revolution. It will be quite a fight, too. Whether or not Hawes is correct in her book is entertaining, witty and well worth the reading by either man or woman.

Black and White

Contrasting black and white fashions, like that worn by Actress Patricia Morrison, are smart for summer. Skirt is of black wool. White crepe blouse is styled with long bishop sleeves, high tied neckline.

Historic Hoaxes
By Elmo Scott Watson

Flight Over the Atlantic
NEARLY three-quarters of a century before Charles A. Lindbergh thrilled the world by flying across the Atlantic, that feat was accomplished—in the imagination of an American newspaper.

Service Entrance, by Kyra Gortina. The memoirs of a woman who, with her husband, an exile from the Russian Empire, fled from Russia during the Revolution. Faced with starvation in the United States, they elected to use the knowledge gained from running a small Russian home, to obtain positions as cook and butler. They succeeded in their endeavor. The life is described with wit and charm.

Book of Miracles, by Ben Liecht. A collection of novelettes. The stories are of a tender and touching nature, and are described with wit and charm.

So You're Going to Buy a Boat, by H. Callahan. A detailed guide for the man who wants to own a boat. It answers innumerable questions: Can you tell how the boat will perform by looking at her lines? Will she behave in a seaway, or about in a calm? Is she safe? Can you judge her structure? Has she had proper care? These and a hundred more are discussed in detail.

Nebraska Coast, by Clyde Brown. The story of the MacDouglas who mined their hopes on the future of the steam wagon. The latter ended as a pile of rusting junk by the side of the road, but at that time the MacDouglas found themselves numbered among the successful pioneers of the Western empire, not so much through their own efforts, as through chance.

Romance of the National Parks, by Harlean James. The story of some of the large national parks of the country, from the days when Blackfeet, Crow and Shoshone Indians roamed what is now Montana and Idaho to the present day when there are some 7,000,000 acres of land devoted to the playtime of a nation. Illustrated with excellent photographs of the magnificent scenery to be found in the parks.

All in the Day's Work, by Ida M. Tarbell. The life story of one of the great Old Ladies of literary history, told by herself. Her life makes a success story, but it is told in a modest, unassuming, sincere and straightforward way that is truly delightful.
