We hope that historians will record among human achievements that of the modern woman who is able to keep upon her head items of adornment that seem to provide very little in gadgets with which to keep her perches.
Quite a rumup was raised recently by friends of U. S. Army mules in Texas. Eight of the mules, old and decrepit, were sentenced to be shot, a custom followed by the Army for 162 years. The mules even got into Congress. But the mules were sent to their eternal reward without being pensioned for life. The friends did more kicking than the mules.

Ernest W. Seaholm
Ernest W. Seaholm, candidate for election to the Birmingham school board, is an 11-year resident of Kennesaw road and an automotive engineer.
His ability in his profession is best illustrated by the fact that he is the oldest chief automotive division engineer in General Motors from the standpoint of continuous service, having directed the design and development of Cadillac and LaSalle passenger cars since 1921.
He is the father of four children, and then entered the Michigan National bank, and an active member of the First Presbyterian church of Birmingham.
Mr. Seaholm was born in Lidköping, Sweden, on December 27, 1887. He came to the United States with his family at the age of two. Later he attended primary and high schools in Hartford, Conn. and then entered the Mechanics' Arts High school of Springfield in 1905. This institution was one of the first technical high schools in the country.
After graduation, Mr. Seaholm worked as draftsman and designer for H. L. Sprague, mechanical engineer of Springfield, Mass., and later for the Lamb Knitting company of Chicopee Falls, Mass.
From 1910 to 1913, he was chief draftsman and designer for the Parker Transmission and Appliance company, and in 1914 entered the employ of the Cadillac Motor Car division as draftsman and designer.
Except for the year 1916-17, when he was chief engineer for the Parker Rust Proof company, Mr. Seaholm has remained at Cadillac as designer, junior engineer and chief engineer. During the war, he was associated with the committee in charge of the development and test of the Liberty Motor.
Mr. Seaholm was married in 1915 to Miss Alice Swanson of Detroit. Their children are Thomas G., Gretchen, Natalie, 15, and Robert, 17.

follow a "pay-as-you-go" policy and pay future dividends when cash is available from liquidation or whether I shall file an application for a loan for the purpose of paying another dividend in the immediate future or whether an application for a termination loan will be made.
"If it is decided to continue the liquidation of assets of this trust in an orderly manner, it is anticipated that at least another year will be required. There are very few matters of a complicated nature remaining and under fairly normal business conditions, the liquidation of the remaining assets should be completed within that time.
"In any event, it appears that another dividend distribution cannot be made until about August or September. The examination of the assets for the purpose of a loan and the details of preparing a dividend distribution will require from at least 60 to 90 days."

Barry Play to Be 4th Presentation In Drama Festival
The fourth play of the 1939 Ann Arbor Dramatic season opens on Tuesday evening, June 4, at 8:30 o'clock at the Lydia Mendelsohn theater. It is Philip Barry's play called "Here Come the Cloves."
The play tells the story of Clancy, a stagehand who is trying to find some divine law and order in this troubled universe so that he can re-assure himself about all the perplexing questions of right and wrong, good and evil, that he finds on all sides. In his search for such a plan he meets a strange assortment of vaudevilleans. "The Cloves" in the play are an illusionist (Philip Barry), a ventriloquist and his assistant played by Charles Dexter, his unhappy wife, played by Hathaway Kall, a famous dwarf (Jerry Austin), a hooper and his wife, Emmett Rogers and Patricia Knight, and a press agent (Stuart Ostrowsky) and other people of the theatre who congregate nightly in a theatre restaurant presided over by Miss Speedy (Ralph Brinker). Clancy, the star part, will be played by James Bell, one of the several stars who have been seen in "Tobacco Road" during its long New York run.
"Here Come the Cloves" is a dramatization of the playwritten by the author novel, "War in Heaven." The play has been directed by Agnes Morgan and the stage setting designed by Emeline Clark Roche.
The week of June 13 will see the final production of this dramatic season.

ELECTION
principal's office until noon Saturday.
A total registration of 976 was recorded early Wednesday morning. Due to the present population of the Birmingham school district, which is in excess of 10,000, under Michigan law, it is eligible to become a district of the third class. If this change were effected three principal differences resulting would be, a permanent instead of a five-man board of education, regular publication of the board minutes, and permanent registration.
Active interest and discussion for and against the proposed change in classification make it an outstanding election issue.

COMMISSION
justified in making a general increase at this time, Mr. Eghert said.
The budget allows an appropriation of $206,946.00 for operating expenses, and $58,191.48 for the debt service requirement. It provides for a contingent fund of $18,887.20.
Estimated Revenue
The estimated income includes miscellaneous general revenue of $40,400, and $265,424.68, to be raised by tax levy. Together, the two give a total estimated income of $305,824.68, which balances with the total appropriation.
The city has experienced a substantial reduction in debt service during the past year, Mr. Eghert explained. "We have saved approximately $50,000 on the principal and approximately $35,000 in interest, making a total debt payment of $85,000 during the past fiscal year."
The increase in miscellaneous revenue from last year's figure of $33,600, is due to the fact that all income was credited directly to income accounts and that all expense is charged to expense items.
There is an increase of $3,634.70 in the total levy of $265,424.68, for the year 1939-40, over the total levy of the current year, which is $261,789.98.
Distribution of Funds
The total appropriation of $305,824.68 is distributed over general administrative expense, administrative departments, police and public works departments. The total appropriation for general administrative expense for the coming fiscal year is $30,230.00, less than that of a year ago, which was $30,230.00.
The administrative department, which includes the city manager, police department, police and health departments, the city auditor, justice of the peace and building inspection department, provides $38,000 for salaries, $1,300 for equipment and $3,810 for operating expense.
The fire department, under the budget just adopted, is allotted $28,574, less than the 1938-39 appropriation of $29,725.
Public Works Higher
Snow removal and the maintenance of streets and sidewalks have brought the total city appropriation for the public works department up to $58,545, which exceeds the 1938-39 appropriation of $51,525 by $7,020.
The total tax levy of $265,424.68 is the aggregate of the general fund tax of $174,746, the interest and sinking fund tax of $58,181.48, the library fund tax of $13,500 and the contingent fund tax of $18,887.20.
The budget was unanimously approved by the commission. Although the hearing had been previously advertised, no local property owners attended the hearing is announced to give them an opportunity to make suggestions or raise any objections they might have to a budget as proposed.
