

Friends of China
To Hear Discussion
By Radio Speaker

Russell Barnes of Randall Court, radio commentator for The Detroit News and authority on foreign affairs, will be the next speaker in a program series sponsored by the Birmingham Committee for Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression. Mr. Barnes will address members of the group and their friends at eight o'clock this evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John K. Ormond of Waddington road. His topic will be "The Present Conflict in the Far East."

This evening's program is the third in a series promoted by local friends of China, as part of a nation-wide drive to aid the victims of aggression. Other events have included a Chinese bazaar, a bridge party and two talks by Dr. Walter H. Judd, medical missionary who inspired the organizing of the local committee.

Arranging Mr. Barnes' appearance are Dr. and Mrs. Ormond, Mrs. L. M. Baker, Mrs. William D. Crim, Mrs. Charles J. Shain and Mrs. Robert F. Watt. Mrs. Ormond was appointed secretary and chairman of the Non-Participation committee at its recent organizational meeting.

Mr. Barnes is particularly well known for his current weekly broadcast over Radio Station W. W. in Detroit, during which he discusses political and economic affairs of international scope. He held for many years the position of Paris and European correspondent for The News and has, since his graduation from the University of Michigan, been a student of foreign affairs.

The committee will sponsor other events, including many prominent speakers, following Mr. Barnes' talk. All funds derived from such affairs will be turned over to Dr. Judd to aid his work as a medical missionary to China.

A letter has been received by Mrs. W. H. Knowles, 1985 West Lincoln road, from Dr. Judd, in regard to what use the check sent to him by the Birmingham Committee for the relief of suffering in China will be put.

Dr. Judd writes, "There are two main organizations that are handling this relief work. One is the Church Committee for China Relief which handles all sorts of relief problems for homes, destitute, orphans, refugees, etc. The other is the Medical Bureau for Medical Aid to China, sponsored largely by American physicians, which is concentrating on the problem of providing medicine, ambulances and equipment, and staffing hospitals with Chinese and western physicians and nurses to handle particularly the enormous number of wounded civilians and soldiers and also those suffering from epidemic diseases as a result of the disturbed conditions. For instance, the casualties from malaria due to the inability to get adequate supplies of quinine last year were almost as great as the military casualties. The committee is hoping to raise enough to buy five tons of quinine for use this year since the malarial season is now beginning."

"However," the letter continues, "because there have been some groups which desire to have a portion of their gifts used for the American Committee for Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression, which is working at the same problem, by trying to get the war stopped earlier, I am writing to ascertain more definitely how your committee desires to have the money used. If it is all to go for relief, I would suggest that it be divided equally between the two relief committees above mentioned. If it is desired to help with the prevention as well as cure, the sum might very well be divided into three parts with one part for the committee attempting to educate the American people as to its share in producing this great catastrophe of suffering."

A full calendar of events is being staged at Orchard Lake Country Club, ranging from sailing and golf early in the week to a dinner and dance on Saturday evening. Members and their children, as well as guests, are included in the activities.

Mrs. Hugh W. Hitchcock, chairman of junior girls' sailing, called the opening luncheon for Tuesday. The event followed a morning of races. Mrs. Hitchcock announced at that time that sailing lessons for beginners would be conducted regularly on "S" days.

Women golfers played blind bogie for their guest day on Wednesday. A bridge-luncheon for feminine members occupied the afternoon hours. The regular family night buffet dinner will be served this evening.

Velma and Her Melody Maids, an all-girl orchestra, will provide music for the Saturday affair. Among the first to reserve places are Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hopkins of Arlington drive, who will bring a party of eight. Harry Swan has also made a reservation for 20 places.

Social Briefs

Marilyn Gould and Marjorie Brenkert joined forces to entertain 16 members of the younger set at dinner, Saturday evening, followed by movies. Sharing honors at the affair, which was held at the Clifford B. Gould home on Buckingham road, were Jane Ray and Betty Ruth Middleton, the occasion being a surprise birthday party.

Others in attendance included Constance Coulter, Ruth Mary Potter, Phyllis Chapel, Carolyn Case, Kitty Keller, Bob Halsted, Dick Hopkins, Byron Ellis, Kirk George, Jack Steelman, Don Fisher, Norman James, Jr., Bill Hooper and Bill Kriedler.

Miss Jane Jones will arrive on Saturday, to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus B. Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned on Tuesday to their home on Buckingham road, after attending their daughter's graduation from Walnut Hills School at Natick, Mass., and that of their son, Logan, from Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.

Elmer L. Meeker of Wallace street and Randolph B. Meeker of Chapin street will depart on Saturday for Elmira, N. Y., where they will attend the two-week National Gliding and Soaring contest.

Mrs. Charles F. Dye has returned to her home on Lake Park drive, after a motor trip through Pennsylvania and the east. Her daughter, Miss Dorothy Ann Dye, departed Monday for a summer camp in Ute Park New Mexico, where she will sojourn for eight weeks.

The committee will sponsor other events, including many prominent speakers, following Mr. Barnes' talk. All funds derived from such affairs will be turned over to Dr. Judd to aid his work as a medical missionary to China.

Beth Ranney Adds
Two To Her List
Of Bridesmaids

The names of two more attendants have been added to the list of her bridesmaids by Miss Beth Ranney, who will wed Richard M. Coons on June 30, at St. James Episcopal Church. Miss Hermine McCormick, popular former resident of Birmingham, now visiting the bride-elect at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Ranney of Atkinson avenue, Detroit, has announced that she will defer her departure to her California home until after the wedding, in order to be a bridesmaid.

Miss Julie Preston, who is at present sojourning at Potowomac Inn, near Lake James, Ind., will return from the resort in time to join the wedding party also.

Other bridesmaids will include Miss Betty Coons, sister of the bridegroom-elect; Miss Joan Edmondson; Mrs. Joseph A. Braun Jr. and Mrs. Floyd O. Gustafson. Miss Mary Margaret Barnes of Detroit will be maid of honor.

Mr. Coons, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Coons of Greenwood avenue, has asked Joseph A. Braun Jr. to be best man, and ushers will be John Case, Harry V. Collins Jr., Floyd Gustafson, Frank N. Mosher, Jack Edmondson and Jack Coons.

Miss Lillian Vaughan will be next to entertain for the popular young couple. She has set Saturday evening as the date for her party, which will be held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Pine Lake Members
To Have Busy Day

All roads will lead to the club today for members of Pine Lake Country Club and their guests. The special events planned for Thursday will begin in the morning and continue until after dinner in the evening.

Miss Helen Hicks, ranking figure in women's golf, will play an exhibition match at ten o'clock this morning. Her opponents will be three of Pine Lake's leading feminine players, to be selected at random. At three o'clock this afternoon, Miss Hicks will give a demonstration of her most famous shots.

In the evening, the regular family night dinner will be served, followed by entertainment.

On Saturday evening, members of the younger set will be entertained at the second junior-dance. Charles Beiber and his orchestra will furnish music.
