

Dinner At Park Reunites Baldwin Graduates of 1921

Thirty-four members of the class of 1921 of Baldwin High school held a reunion dinner at Springdale Park on Saturday. Dinner was served in the clubhouse, after which a series of events was held and prizes were awarded. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Park H. Smith, Clifford Hunt, LeRoy Weier and Victor L. Peck.

Clyde Peabody was named chairman of next year's reunion. Mrs. Jessie W. Whitmer was elected secretary-treasurer, but turned the office over to Mrs. Isabelle Curry Stites.

The class will and prophecy were read and Mrs. Whitmer read an original poem about the class. A tribute of a minute's silence was observed in memory of four class members who have died—Harry Brooks, Margaret Bell, Martha Kurth and Warren Hanne. A message was received from Mrs. Marcel Mauduit, formerly Catherine Floyd, of Paris, France, and read to the assemblage.

Among those receiving prizes were Mrs. Leonard McKinley, for having the grayest hair; LeRoy Weier, for having the least hair; and Mrs. Lucille Campbell Stock, man of Grand Lodge, for having travelled the farthest to attend. Mrs. Whitmer tied with two others for having the most children, three, but she won the award through a draw.

Miss Coe Hardy, a former Baldwin teacher and one of the 1921 class advisors, was among the guests.

Screenarios

By C. F. Smith

HARRY M. WARNER, president of Warner Bros., has been awarded the Gold Cross of Malta, highest honor which the Veterans of Foreign Wars can give, for "distinguished patriotic services during a perilous period."

WILLIAM L. WILSON, California Department commander, made the award at memorial services in the Hollywood Bowl.

Warner was given the decoration, Wilson said. "In recognition of his nationwide motion picture and radio campaign against un-American activities and his efforts to promote a greater appreciation of the blessings of American citizenship."

While Warner has received popular reaction to his two-reel productions dealing with American history, one of his current feature productions has been dealt a death-blow by the American showing public. It is "The Birth of a Nation," the picture smelted too much of propaganda. But in spite of this element, movie patrons missed the picture, paralleled many times this year. It is a shame when too few fine pictures are made these days.

That when one does come along it has to be made the goat of propaganda.

LESLIE FENTON'S contract as director has been renewed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He has just finished "Stronger Than Desire" for MGM, starring Virginia Bruce and Walter Pidgeon. Fenton's wife, Ann Dvorak, also is in the picture. He has been an up-and-down career. "Boys Town" brought him back to public notice after his great performance as the killer-brother of Mickey Rooney.

We shall always remember this remark about Lionel Barrymore made several years ago by a syndicated writer: "Everytime I see him in a picture I wish he would go back to directing, and everytime I see a picture he has directed I wish he would go back to acting." Well, Lionel went back to acting, all right; all he did shortly after was the Academy Award for his role in "A Free Soul."

HENRY HULL is another who had a discouraging movie career. As Jester Lester in the Broadway success "Tobacco Road," he carved a very peculiar niche for himself as an actor. So peculiar indeed that Universal signed him to a picture, followed one another in rapid succession. But he got nowhere and soon he was back on Broadway in the same play that made him famous. Now, again, he is under contract to a Hollywood studio, this time with MGM. His part as the kindly and helpful pawnbroker friend of Father Flannagan (Spencer Tracy) in "Boys Town" flashed him back to the front line of character actors.

CHARLES R. ROGERS was made president of Universal when Carl Laemmle, Sr., stepped down. Rogers was there when Deanna Durbin was signed and probably had no small part in that triumph. Yet within a year or so he was asked to leave. Why, we don't know. At any rate, he had a contract calling for $250,000, iron-clad and all wrapped up in cellophane. So they paid him off. Nice work if you can get it. Well, what did Charles Rogers do? He turned producer and now is engaged in getting Bing Crosby's latest, "The Star Maker," ready for picture screens.

That picture, incidentally, will be world premiered in New York city, although at one time Detroit was mentioned as a possibility.

Undoubtedly there are other Fentons, Barrymores, Rogerses, Hulls, and Spencers. You can't count on the old saying, "Here today, gone tomorrow," holding true. There's always the day after tomorrow.

Summer Stripes

Styled in harlequin mode, this bandbag will make any costume a festive one. Made of satiny calf, purse is colored with wide bands of lemon yellow, watermelon green, and raspberry—each offset with frosty white.

Anne Is Happy at High Degree

Mrs. Charles E. Asper will depart on Saturday for Grand Haven, to spend the summer months at "Beachwood," her summer cottage. She will be accompanied by her niece, Miss Ruth Asper, who will spend the summer with her.

Guests of Mrs. Harry D. Wise at luncheon and bridge on Tuesday afternoon included Mrs. Les C. Aliman and from Detroit, Mrs. W. B. Schmidt and Mrs. John Kinsel. Mr. Wise and his sons, Harry D. Jr. and Robert, will return to their home on Williamsburg road on Monday, following a week's fishing trip. While away, they were guests at Fireside Inn, on Grand Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark B. Harris and Mr. Harris' mother, Mrs. Mary McCutcheon, returned on Saturday to their home on Hawthorn drive, following a fortnight's motor trip to Boston. They were accompanied on the journey by Mrs. Earl Newkirk of Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Ellerby and their daughter, Miss Jane, will leave Saturday from their home on Ridgeland avenue, for a month of varied activities. Miss Ellerby will motor with her parents part of the way to Houston, Tex., and continue there by train, to spend a month as the house guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellerby. The H. T. Ellerby's will continue on by motor, for a trip through Denver, Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks, Banff and Lake Louise.

Mrs. Richard Ellerby and Miss Ellerby will motor back to Birmingham in a month, and the former will make an extended visit here and in Detroit. She will be joined later by her husband.

Mrs. John R. MacManus was hostess at a large tea on Friday afternoon in her home on Guilford road, in Bloomfield Hills. Her guests, all of whom assisted in the Poppy Day charity sale on Saturday, included Mrs. Walter O. Briggs, Jr., Mrs. Frederick M. Hammond, Mrs. Theodore F. MacManus, Mrs. Kathleen Gillan, Mrs. Carl J. Danaher, Mrs. M. Carl Hight, Miss Betty Hart, Miss Anne Nichols, Mrs. George Whitteley, Mrs. Perry A. Vaughn, Mrs. Robert C. Leland, Mrs. D. M.
