THIS AND THAT (Continued from Page 1) River; first for national defense, second for food control, and third for the maintenance of navigation.

Damming Dams Speaking of damming, of course one of the greatest "dams" erected against the progress of the nation is the dam of the TVA.

Dam Statistics The Tennessee River isn't a beautiful flow of water; like a Mississippi, it was muddy. But there are some tremendous concrete glomerations of steel and concrete.

substance: "No, thanks, I want to be buried here, on my own grounds, among the common people, the friends of my life."

Mammoth Cave Mammoth Cave, in Kentucky, was our next stop. It is in southwestern Kentucky. We arrived there just in time to take the 10 o'clock trip through the cave.

Visit It, Some Day We stayed overnight in the delightful Mammoth Cave Hotel, a fine, comfortable, and well-kept structure and service.

Lincoln's Birthplace Hodgenville is only about 45 miles from Cave City, and who wouldn't drive 45 miles to view the birthplace of the exact log cabin, in which Lincoln uttered his first baby cry?
