LIVE and LEARN

Seven-year-old Ronny liked to read lying down and his mother was constantly warning him against such a practice.

One day, coming across him stretched out on the davenport with his book propped up on his chest, she stopped and reprimanded. "Ronny don't you know that God takes us from what we do not appreciate, and if you do not show more appreciation of your eye sight I'm afraid you won't have it some day."

Instantly, Ronny was on his feet. "Say! maybe that's what took me away out of my tool chest. You told me one day that I didn't appreciate my saw or I wouldn't misuse it and the next day it was gone."

A young backwoods couple were on their honeymoon which included the national capital.

They took pictures with their little box camera where ever they went and were walking round the White House taking pictures when they spied a policeman.

Running to him they inquired, "Could you tell us what this big white building is? We took some pictures of it and we'd like the name of it so we can write it under the picture when we paste it in our photograph album back home."

Eddie was a hospitable sort of fellow and so when he met up with a stranger on Deer Lake he invited him into his fishing shanty.

Shortly after entering the shanty they heard someone coming. Eddie turned to the stranger and whispered, "I have 42 bluegills here. If that is the game warden tell him half the fish are yours."

Eddie thought that a small favor to ask in return for his hospitality, but his companion didn't see it that way. Eddie was fined $10 and costs of $6.85.

The stranger was the conservation officer.
