

March 21 each year is the official date when Spring is ushered in. It is the day when the sun is cold on that date, or after winter summer arrives, we all know that March 21 is the day we see a King Winter, are in retreat; and that starts a kind of new hope and new climate, in folk who live in these climes.

SIXTY-FIRST YEAR—NO. 51

HITLER and THAT

By G. R. A.

On more than one occasion I have heard this remark: "Because Hitler's business method is so long as he has any of those old-fashioned hanging signs protruding from the store fronts, it certainly looks better." That is but one of the results of local ordinances that can aid in making this old town not only a bigger—but better to live in, eh?

Over in some European country plans are going to erect a monument to the man who invented limburger cheese. When they have completed it, why not suggest that Hitler be entombed in the base of this monument? Unless, of course, you want to consider the feelings of the cheese.

"Before investing, investigate" might well be applied by Congress, as it continues to appropriate funds for increasing the public debt.

Tuesday, March 21, was the first day of Spring in this city as their nesting place in the Arctic Circle, birds will wing their way up from the great grassy third year bunnies will lay Easter eggs, and Midway will come forth with some new and funny things for hats.

Republican leadership in Michigan, from now until the 1940 primary election over, will gravitate toward those who show the most energy and astute political knowledge. There are many groups that will want to gain control, since Governor Fitzgerald's decision to take over the Michigan State Bank is the McKay-Barnard-McKeighan follows will be very, very busy.

Southern Side-lights. Something of the dynamic personality of Louisiana's late Huey P. Long is shown in his building of a new Governor's mansion, which was completed on a basis that such a mansion already existed, a group of his opponents who are insisting that they be the date after he heard of his late assassination to serve him mobilized 300 men who, with a view to the subject of the junction's basis—and then they went right along and built a beautiful Governor's mansion located near the equally beautiful Capitol.

When Huey was shot in the center of the Capitol building which is in reality a monument to him, he was walking from one of his official headquarters to another. The revolver from his assassin showed only two bullets fired. It seemed when visiting the post-mortem revealed 32 bullets had been fired into Huey's body. Huey who told me: "We figure that the others must have come from Huey's bodyguard who were on the job as soon as the assassin started shooting. Two former members of Huey's bodyguard were in prison, too—no, that's not shooting, of course, but for other reasons."

Nature's Comforters. What though my plodding pen And all my lines seem poor, and pale? In this is my heart to say, And that illustrates all my day, And in the wood the tall pines form A audience steadfast and warm; And as my halting measures rise The breeze answers with their sighs; The birds make answer to my song Despite my hills are fit from being strong; And in the hills an echo free Repeats my measures after me!—John Kendrick Bangs, in "The Footfalls of Paradise."

Life in the Trailer. Nothing like a trailer these days. Just imagine how happy a couple can be on next to nothing. The trailer who borrowed a cup of sugar in Maine, borrowed a cup of flour in New Hampshire, milked a cow in Vermont and baked a cake in Massachusetts.

FILLING STATION HELD UP HERE. Two men, one about 25 and the other 20, were reported to have held up a filling station at Quarters and Woodward avenue, Monday at 12:30 p. m. Arthur R. Hawkins 212 Catalpa drive, Quarters, reported that the men parked their car facing the station and walked across Woodward to the 330 and 340 and a 32 automatic pistol, he said.

Boys Build Giant Airline In The Realm of Imagination

How far is 'round the world? As far as the imagination of youth can travel in one great sweep. That's pretty far, because imagination is an invincible force, when commanded by youth, it can perform the most impossible feats. It was the imagination of a group of Birmingham boys which is responsible for the founding of RTW, Inc. in a way you haven't heard about it. RTW, Inc. means Round the World Airlines. The base of operations is in Birmingham, but the fertile, imaginative minds of the "Board of Directors" of "RTWA." Here is the latest bulletin from the Board, as submitted by Thomas D. Allen, chairman of the executive committee.

The second meeting of Round the World Airlines, Inc., which existence was held March 14 at the home of Thomas Allen, chairman of the Board, as submitted by Thomas D. But before you decide to hop off on a world flight, you may be interested to know that Round the World Airlines does not exist, it may however be one of those future events casting its shadow upon the present. Right now it is a club of boys, ranging in age from ten or thereabouts to 12 or 13. The club is known as the Round the World Airlines, Inc. Its charter line that extends around the world. In imagination they follow the route of the airlines.
