Eccentric Contest Unearths Quartette Of Ireland's True Sons And Daughters

Beginners—here they are! It's in introducing the true wearers of the green we are, real sons and daughters of old Erin. You can find them any day at the Eccentric of fers, where anything can happen and usually does. And when were they discovered? Why on the day of days, of course—St. Patrick's Day, March 17. Only perhaps the smiling quartette wouldn't have been quite so patriotic, if the Eccentric hadn't held a contest, to determine just who were the wisest Irish roots of them all.

The two "winners," in the center, are Josephine Kean and Chester Miligan Shrimplin. A mate of a colleague, Josephine never-the-less, packed more green about her small person on Friday, than you'd find in a field of shamrocks. She crossed the performance by rendering all her statesmanlike green with envy. And since no one who boasts a middle name like Miligan would miss a contest of any kind, Chester Miligan Shrimplin easily walked off with top honors in the men's division. (If you look closely, you can see if green how the—all of an inch long it was.)

Queen Kean for should it be "the Keen Queen," and King Shrimplin are holding bouquets of cakes, which they handed to their loyal subjects at the Eccentric with royal generosity, at the close of the contest. Shure and they were good cakes, too, shamrocks, with green frosting.

Every king and queen should have a court, and so the winners got their petticoats taken too. Even if the smiling young lady had worn some other dress besides the grass-green frock which she chose for the occasion, she would have been a strong competitor, because of her name. This lady and gentleman, is Miss Nellie Hurley Minifie.

The horrible excuse from Lady's conduct comes as Arthur A. Wagoner, a respectable advertising manager in every-day life. But far, far back on his family tree, there must have been a branch of a boy named O'Wagoner, from the spirit which he entered into the contest. Hunter's green was his choice, and I will say one thing for him to really unmasked the girl's cut of neck, to complete his ensemble.

Barnum P. T. A. Elects Officers And Plans Party

The Barnum Parent Teacher Association will usher in the spring with a full program, under the direction of the newly-elected officers: Mrs. Norma A. Fortier of Pierce street heads the organization for the coming year the elections revealed, and others who will serve with her include the following: Mrs. Howard D. Cull, vice-president; B. Allen Aikens Jr., father vice-president; A. E. Ebersole, teacher vice-president; Mrs. Louis Brumberger, secretary; Mrs. Elsie Hays, treasurer; Miss Ella Cross, historian, and as delegates, Mrs. Russell H. Johnson and Mrs. Carl Bronson.

Their business at the annual meeting include the election of Mrs. Porter as delegate to the state convention of P. T. A., to be held at South Side, Marie, May 24. It was announced that the membership campaign had closed for the year with 135 members.

Mrs. Wilbur U. Johnstone is serving as general chairman of the year's social and dancing party, scheduled for the evening of Wednesday, March 29, at which parents and teachers will be entertained. To assist her with the event, Mrs. Johnstone has enlisted the aid of Mr. Aikens, as master of ceremonies, and the refreshment committee, Mrs. Arthur Gillespie, Mrs. Dominic Caputa, Mrs. Grant K. Springstead, Mrs. Bronson and Mrs. Rice.

Modern and old-fashioned dancing will be held in the auditorium if the school. There will also be refreshments for cards, champagne and other table games.

PFEIFFER QUIZ

HOW MANY OF THESE QUESTIONS CAN YOU ANSWER?

- What country in the world has the largest population?
- When did the wrist watch originate?
- How many cigarettes are smoked in the United States annually?
- Upon which memorial are most wreaths placed?
- How many movie extras are there in Hollywood?
- When and by whom was the North Pole discovered?
- Is Latin or Greek the older language?

Look for the correct answers to these questions in the Pfeiffer-Quiz appearing in this paper next Thursday. SUGGESTED QUESTIONS ARE SOLICITED.

You may be puzzled about the correct answers to some of these questions, but you will never have any doubts about the quality of PFEIFFER'S BEER.

Answers to last week's quiz: (1) He is paid once a month by check; (2) 108 miles; (3) A space of 250 cu. ft.; (4) It is possible to produce high pressure steam hot enough to set a fire; (5) Aluminum; (6) A man who never makes the same mistake once; (7) Missouri and Tennessee.

The well earned reputation of Pfeiffer dates back to 1889. Only hops, malt and other materials of the finest quality are used in brewing this uniform and outstanding product.
