NON-PARTISAN STATE NEWS LETTER

LANSING—Michigan's "man of the hour" is Frank M. Dickinson. The new governor of the state took the oath of office at 8:20 a. m. Friday, March 27, under circumstances that were strangely similar to those under which Calvin Coolidge, tight-lipped, one-time Vermont, assumed officially the obligations as President of the United States sixteen years ago.

The scene of both ceremonies was a farmhouse. Simplicity prevailed in the new executive's degree. "I am humbled by this new responsibility," the new executive declared. And being governor was not going to make any difference in his creed of being, he said, he would continue to teach his Sunday school class, health permitting, he would continue to decline invitations to dine at the White House on Sunday, which he and his wife always observed as the Sabbath, not a holiday.

The marks were typical of the man's personal sobriety which is supported by a life-time of clean living.

Serenity in Morality
To matters of public morality, Dickinson will be stern and unyielding. As vice president of the National Anti-Saloon League and a prominent layman of the Methodist Episcopal church, he will continue his uncompromising work with organizations which have long been fighting for the State Senate, Dickinson warned that America may invite the same fate that befell Prohibition if it tolerates corruption and immorality.

The schism entering from every angle on our own state," he said, "are uttering vociferous demands that we purge our state of these corrupting influences. We have our four, four, four, and four."

Such as he favors, however, Dickinson's public life is not likely to be a record of scandal. In fact, it is almost inconceivable that he would ever have arrived in 1939 if he had possessed the same executive prowess.

Economy to be Emphasized
A man who has always lived simply, Governor Dickinson exemplifies the watchword of economy which Fitzgerald carried to the capital city.

"It was noticeable that in the first legislative session, after the tragic loss of the party's leader, the House of Representatives voted almost unanimously to curtail the spending of the four tourist associations, reducing their appropriation from $25,000 to $3,000 a year. At the same time the Senate sliced more than a million dollars from appropriations there, cutting out their colleges in a staunch stand for economy."

Again Michigan's "Coolidge" will be well expected to live closely to the economy line.

Home pressure groups, no matter what their interests are, will be treated alike by the governor. His whole life has been predicated on economy which will hold in all his official action.

Liquor Control
Although the new governor has the liquor business legalized as it is, yet he will probably take a realistic viewpoint on the course of wisdom for 1939.

The state treasury now receives on an average of eight million dollars revenue for the state's part in controlling the sale of liquor. In a year when an administration is struggling to overcome a big deficit and to balance the budget, thus putting its financial house in order, the loss of eight millions would be a major blow.

The new governor is known to look with disfavor on the state's participation in the liquor business, even if nominally for the purpose of control. While he may not trade morality for money, it is believed that the pressing demand for economy will be given temporary preference at this time.

The governor took great delight in CHICAGO at the HOTEL DIAMOND IN CLARK STREET IN THE CENTER OF THE LOOP.

Film Folk

George Raft and James Cagney will again be teamed in a story. The title is "Invisible Stripes." The two were together in "Each Dawn I Die." Also Sheridan will play the feminine lead in the story which was written by Warden Lawler.

Jane Bryan is to play the part of Betty Davis's daughter in "The Old Maid."

The cast for "Young Mr. Lincoln" is almost filled. Henry Fonda will make two pictures a year in England after she finishes her part as Anne Wilkes in Hollywood.

Metro is reported to have bought the Group Theatre play, "Gente People," for $75,000.

Floora Robson sailed last week for her native England after completing her work in "Withering Heights." This was Miss Robson's first trip to Hollywood.

Eric Elton will replace Herbert Marshall in "North of Singapore." Mr. Marshall was killed several weeks ago in an automobile accident.

Dorothy Lamour, Don Ameche and Edgar Bergen recently went to New York for a series of personal appearances. They were met at the station by a noisy crowd of about 5,000 admirers.

Anne Shirley is to have the lead in "Anne of Green Gables." The studio has taken an option on the rest of the Montgomery books. The idea of making a series.

A perfect deluge of spy stories is being screened by the studios. The recent Nazi spy trial in New York is probably the reason for this sudden interest in espionage plots by the screen moguls.

Ina Claire and Joan Crawford are both scheduled for important parts in "The Women." Norma Shearer and Paulette Goddard are also probabilities.

Arthur Treacher is to play the first, created the character in "Maiden Voyage." He is cast as an eccentric Englishman, Lord.

Clauette Colbert gets $10,000 a week for her film, "It's a Wonderful World," but it only lasts 3 weeks.

The income tax collector, and some of the movie stars differ on what are business and personal matters.

For instance, Madge Evans contended that a $450,000 joint operation and a $7,000,000 joint cost should be charged up to business expenses but the Government thought otherwise.
