

Town Hall—Fisher Theatre Irving Stone, who will speak on "The Writing Game" before the Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre next Wednesday, Nov. 22, at 11 a. m., is that rarity among literary luminaries, a novelist and biographer who is as dramatic and deeply moving on the lecture platform as he is on the printed page. His novel about Vincent Van Gogh, "Last for Life," which brought him to fame in 1934, has sold a quarter of a million copies, and sent five million Americans into the art galleries when the Van Gogh exhibition toured this country in 1935. Translated into twelve languages, "Last for Life" has been declared a modern classic.

THIS AND THAT

Wattresses wear the type in keeping with the soup or salad for the day—or if there were a choice of four or five such selections they could wear as many ornaments as necessary. (When they start simulating hash—boy! won't their husbands reveal a great mystery of life.)

God Gives Goodness
 A noted California meteorologist has predicted that the world will suffer the greatest drought in 17 centuries in the year 1946, just 27 years hence. He bases his prediction upon long scientific investigation of the effect of rainfall upon rocks in the earth. Can this drought be prevented? Can any catastrophe be prevented? Even a war? We believe so—but only when there is a more complete evidence of world morality than now exists. A good mankind is destined to inherit the gifts of an always good God, don't you think? But when a bad mankind exists like run-away children whose parents know not where they are, the bad things that come upon them are really not from the good God at all; they are the bad things that bad people make for themselves. Drought, or a war, we verily believe, would never exist where God's own image and likeness dwell.

Librarian Presents Five Year Report

In presenting a report of her five years' service to Birmingham in Masonic Temple at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, Miss Cooke, Miss Adeline Cooke, librarian, outlined the report of her work during the five years of her service to the library during the time which she served there.

Development of the service rightly includes, Miss Cooke's report shows, the program for children. The plan for the development of this phase of the work was four-fold: namely, (1) to supervise the branch in the Pierce School; (2) story hour on Saturday mornings; (3) summer camps; and (4) to supervise collection and specialized assistance for high school students. The most successful service to high school students in their reference work and collateral reading has been the book detection was made available for use in the library until 5:30, after which the book was checked out for overnight. Members of the library staff, however, found that on certain evenings the week the library was being monopolized by students and to the exclusion of adults so that it became necessary to limit the attendance to those who had permission slips signed by a teacher. This system has been unusually successful in past years but Miss Cooke told the board members that no permission slips have not been necessary. "Since it seems to be the trend of the times," Miss Cooke said Thursday evening, "to learn through the use of pictures, a definite effort to build up our aids to visual education."

Exhibit Case
 A museum exhibit case was added to the library equipment and was placed in a prominent place opposite the entrance. It is so as an aid to visual education 1,200 stereoscopic views were purchased which have been placed in an improved lighted stereoscope on a standard. Six additional manuals were also purchased to be loaned to schools or individuals. A larger part of this project, Miss Cooke's report points out, was building up the picture collection. Work along this line was begun early in 1937, and continuing for this year when the lack of funds necessitated the suspension of this activity. The building of the library relationship with outside agencies, Miss Cooke told board members that several clubs have used the auditorium and committee rooms for meetings during the past five year period. Continuing on the subject of outside relationships the librarian told of the advisory aid which the local library had extended to the Franklin Community Library. When extra children's books were needed by the Franklin Library last summer, the Baldwin Library loaned 50 books, with the privilege of exchange as they wanted, on the payment of $2 a month for three months.

Receive State Aid
 What Miss Cooke described as "the most exciting contact with outside agencies" was in connection with the law passed in Michigan State this year which provides the local share of the State funds amounted to $770.75. "The provision," the librarian pointed out, "which limited this State aid after 1940 to libraries having a budget of at least $6,000, led us to see what we could do to aid our smaller neighbors to organize into larger units which would be eligible for State help." "The most feasible solution," she continued, "seemed to be, to have county library in Oakland County and to this end we have promoted the idea as much as possible. It was carried in the formation of an independent committee of librarians and leaders in various parts of the county and by Fred D. Farrar of 511 Greenwood avenue."

Bill May Be Amended
 This State aid bill was repealed for two years, Miss Cooke reminded members of the library board, but will probably be amended and urged for passage again. The Michigan Library Association is giving State aid to the next year of dividing the State into seven districts to see whether the work can be carried on most effectively in smaller units, Miss Cooke said. "The meeting for this matter, let us see what we could do to aid our smaller neighbors to organize into larger units which would be eligible for State help."

Anti-Polio Society Elects New Officers

At a recent meeting of the Oakland County Chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Infantile Paralysis the following officers were elected: Chairman, Theodore Degenhardt, Ferndale; vice-chairman, Mrs. A. Sesterlin, Waterford and Pontiac treasurer, the Rev. J. C. Young, Royal Oak; secretary, Stuart Capron, Oxford. Executive board: (three years) Judge Arthur E. Mott, Pontiac; (one year) Judge Jule Boyd, Ferndale; Charles Seed, Rochester. All 1939 local chairmen are automatically members of the society.

YOUNG GENIUS

An all-Bethoven program, with YEHUDI Menuhin, violinist, "Concerto for Violin and Piano," soloist, will feature the concert of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in Masonic Temple at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 23, and 2:30 p. m. Friday, Nov. 24.

Maestro Franco Ghione, after an absence of two weeks from the podium, will return to conduct this pair of concerts, the program for which will be the same. Overture, "Leonore," No. 3, Op. 72; Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D Major, Op. 61 and the Fifth Symphony, in C Minor, Op. 67.

HUNTER

 At least one accident caused by the slippery condition was that of Roy E. Nehelebocher, 27, of Detroit, whose machine was damaged and tipped over on Hunter, opposite Landon street.

Tuesday, a high way workers spread a mixture of kerosene and sand on the concrete to counteract the coating, which will eventually wear off.

787 CROSSING'S DAILY
 Supt. Howard D. Crull has asked a signal light at Oakland avenue and Hunter which can be controlled by pedestrians. He has found that there are 787 school children crossing daily at that point, compared at four crossings per child. Police Chief John P. Hackett said state agents are to study crossing traffic at Oakland.

McClellan, 53, of 863 E. Woodrow, and James Brook, Jr., of Detroit, collided as McClellan essayed to cross Hunter at Oakland. Brook's motor car was damaged. Miss Gene Lamson, 24 years old, student at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, was driving a car Tuesday which collided with a machine driven by Obed E. Maxson, 52, of 19 1/2 Edgewood. Pontiac, according to the police report, Lamson received a cut on her hip and a bruised knee.

Swing Minstrel Showing Tonight

Thursday and Friday evenings the Swing Minstrel will be presented at Baldwin High School. Here is what a budding student press agent has to say about the show: "Who is in the Surprise Novelty? What is it? Tonight will tell. Until then, we doubt if even the Hermit knows. The dress rehearsal of the Swing Minstrel is over, and the advisers have played at last. For after weeks of planning and worrying through three rehearsals a day, six days a week, this unique show is ready for the public. Without exaggeration, we say, it's a super. It has everything there from the screwiest of jitters to the staidest and most beautiful of dances. "From the end men who keep everyone in stitches, to the staid interlocutor who says nothing in many words, everyone should do his part perfectly. "There is still the possibility of an earthquake, a plague, or a fire, but barring these, the people of Birmingham are in for a treat tonight. "Until then, your guess on the Surprise Novelty is as good as ours."

SCHOOL BOARD

 A factory rebuilt press taking a 11' by 15' form can be purchased, with accessories, for $400, Randall declared. Because of the current shortage of cash, the press will be paid for in two installments. Bill, payable at $22.50 per issue, or $157.50 for seven issues. He estimated the students would buy 500 subscribers at 25 cents each for all of the seven first issues. This leaves a deficit of $29.50 to be met by advertising for the seven-week period. "I don't think there will be any difficulty in securing Mr. Keese, Crull reported. "One merchant told he wanted a full page in our first issue for $500. "At the last meeting of the board, the understanding was reached that merchants are not to be actively solicited for their support, but that advertising is to be received on somewhat of a voluntary basis. Whether this content policy is to be adopted was not made clear Tuesday night. Supt. Crull was entrusted with supervising the formation of policy for the new paper.

Start Play School For Young Children

A supervised play school has been started by a group of young women, to be held mornings for children three to five years old at the R. K. White home, 444 Lake Park drive. Those conducting the school are Miss Ann Smith, Miss Mildred White, Miss Patricia Floyd, Miss Mary Quinn and Miss Mary Tippet.

SHERWOOD

 "The time has now come when society must cultivate that greatest of its assets—the child of special promise." It is the purpose of the Sherwood School to offer to promising children a process of schooling in leadership, cast in the child's own life pattern, learning him through experience, in association with his fellows, under highly trained leadership. The physical aspects of the estate lend themselves perfectly to a living program which embraces the out-of-doors during the year. The enclosed swimming pool, tennis courts, miniature golf course, natural amphitheater, and croquet grounds, etc., afford every facility for the summer months, while the sloping hillsides offer opportunity for skiing, tobogganing, and other outdoor sports during the winter months. The residence of 25 rooms, spacious and beautifully designed, is used as the main building for the school. There are the usual reading rooms, library, administrative office, dining hall, kitchen, auditorium, gymnasium and other joining buildings used for the nursery and kindergarten projects. The nearby farmhouses, which faces Hickory Grove, is the faculty residence. The Sherwood School offers a year program, with 10 months of academic training, and supervised activities during the summer months, and day students. It is now in the midst of its academic program with some of the summer months having already reached maximum enrollment. The board of trustees of the Sherwood School, composed of outstanding persons in the educational, professional, and business world are: Chairman, Dr. W. H. Keese, president; Claire M. Sanders, first vice-president; Edgar C. Hornik, second vice-president; William E. Eason, treasurer and trustee; Evelyn S. Brennan, managing director; Mrs. Howard J. Gingham; Mrs. Margaret S. Ferguson; Mrs. Perry; Dr. Katherine Genge; Mrs. Walter M. Ostrander; Mrs. John H. H. Clay; Mrs. B. J. James; Mrs. Webber, Jr.; and Dr. Gertha Williams.

Plans About Complete For 5th Ferndale Philatelic Meeting

Plans are nearing completion for the Fifth Annual Banquet, Exhibition and Bourse of the Ferndale Stamp Club which is to be held at the Lincoln High School in Ferndale on Saturday, Dec. 2, from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. The Maurice F. Cole Club will again be offered to the club members having the most outstanding exhibit. Last year this was won by John Jackson, a well-known philatelist, for his exhibition of Malta stamps, while the grand prize was awarded to Leo Moses of Pontiac, for his excellent exhibit of plated early stamps of Great Britain. Both of these exhibitions are again to be shown, together with many others from southwestern Michigan. Exhibits may be submitted by anyone, whether a member of the club or not, although the Cole Cup is awarded annually to a member of the club having the outstanding exhibit.

Plans About Complete For 5th Ferndale Philatelic Meeting

There will be exhibitions of first day covers, air-mail stamps, as well as a special display of every nature. A treat is in store for all stamp collectors. The dinner at seven o'clock is open to all interested persons. The newly organized Oakland County Philatelic Society, of which Dr. James Howell of Birmingham is president, is urging county-wide support of this annual exhibition.

Will Sell Programs For R. O. Game

Three prizes will be presented in connection with the Royal Oak-Birmingham football program for the Thanksgiving game to be played this year at Royal Oak Nov. 23. The programs will go on sale at Baldwin High School Wednesday, Nov. 22, where the campaign will be under the direction of Clifford Harvey, circulation manager of Baldwin Publications, and his assistants, Michael Carney and Bill Roberts (Room 110). Their staff will be composed of the following: Elizabeth Cooper, Cecelia Boyd, Martha Phelps, Helen Rounds, Barbara Sauer, Frank Armstrong, Phil Brynner, Bruce Gray, Louis Coors, Paul Dunn, Bob Eade, and Ted Snyder.

Fenders Suffer

Maxine L. Libby, 25 years old, struck by another machine on Maple avenue near Woodward Tuesday. She reported to police that her path was obstructed by two cars in front. She pulled another machine across here and knocked it into one of the standing vehicles. Here was the only report taken.
