Tickets For Sale

Tickets for the luncheon to be held Wednesday at the Community House in connection with Birmingham's first Community Institute are available at the Community House or may be procured from Miss Adeline Cooke at the library, from committee members or from Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall, according to an announcement made this week by Mrs. Cleveland Walcutt, chairman of the institute.

In order that the Community House may know how many to prepare luncheon for, no tickets will be sold after Monday.

Birmingham Club Will Participate In Safety Drive

Because more than 31,000 persons were killed in home accidents last year, the Detroit chapter, Red Cross, will launch a home safety campaign in metropolitan Detroit this week in an effort to reduce the toll of death from negligence in the home.

More than 200,000 school children, the Federation of Women's Clubs, Parent Teachers Associations, Community Fund agencies and other groups will participate in the drive which begins Monday and will continue throughout November.

Through its president, Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall, members of the Birmingham Women's club have announced their intentions to distribute home safety inspection blanks during the annual Red Cross home safety campaign.

Check lists for accident hazards will be distributed to public and parochial school children in Detroit, Hamtramck, Dearborn, Highland Park, and rural centers in Wayne County. Students will be asked to check the lists with conditions in the home and return the report with the parent's signature to the teacher.

The Home Safety campaign is part of a National American Red Cross program in which more than 4,000 chapters throughout the country are participating.

Art Display Being Held in Pontiac

An art display of representative works of Oakland County artists as well as several canvases by internationally famous men will be on display from Nov. 1 to the 15th at the Sponsor's League of America on North Perry street, Pontiac.

George Hodges, graduate of the Paris Academie, will have several of his works included in this exhibit as will Inaure Restler, also of the old world school in Paris.

Included are portraits of well-known Detroiters as you see them—not reduced to blacks and grays, nor in old fashioned "tinted" pictures, but in the full beauty of true color.

As the culmination of eleven years of research in this exclusive process, portraits by color photography are now made available to the public for the first time.

This will be a showing of interest to all who enjoy beautiful things.

Be sure to see it.

Impressive List Of Speakers Set For Institute Here

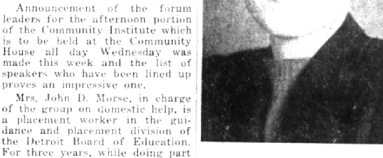

Announcement of the forum leaders for the afternoon portion of the Community Institute which is to be held at the Community House all day Wednesday was made this week and the list of speakers who have been lined up proves an impressive one.

Mrs. John D. Morse, in charge of the group on domestic help, is a placement worker in the guidance and placement division of the Detroit Board of Education. For three years, while doing part-time graduate work at the University of Illinois, Mrs. Morse did personal interviewing for the College of Liberal Arts. At present she is cooperating with the N. Y. A. practice house of Detroit.

Ralph I. Coryell, who will lead the discussion on vocational problems, was at one time chairman of the Rotary club's vocational service committee. This committee has been studying problems of vocational guidance for five or six years.

Mrs. John K. Ormond, the leader for the group on organization of clubs, is one of Birmingham's busiest club women and is an untiring worker on many community projects that have helped to make Birmingham a progressive city. This discussion group is primarily for presidents and group leaders who are interested in the coordinating of club activities to eliminate duplication of efforts.

H. H. Corson, city treasurer, will take charge of the discussion on tax collection. For a number of years Mr. Corson was an auditor at the Detroit Trust company and it is felt that he is well qualified to talk to all clubs and figures on tax collection.
