

Cranbrook Art Academy Names Patrons For Exhibition In December

Plan Reception To Open Show At Hills Pavilion

With the announcement this week of patrons and patronesses for the art exhibit to be held at Cranbrook Academy of Art during the month of December at the Pavilion on Lone Pine road, there was a general flurry among the instructors at the school to make ready their works which they plan to exhibit.

Included among the patrons and patronesses for the exhibit are Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Pope, Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Marquis, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray Muzzy, Miss Margaret Aggar, Mr. and Mrs. Warren S. Booth, Mrs. William E. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Booth, Mrs. Jessie Winter, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hatt, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lindquist and Rev. and Mrs. Charles H. Cadigan.

P-T. A. Council to Hear Royal Oak Woman Talk At Baldwin High School November 30

Mrs. Max Williams of Royal Oak, a vice president of the Michigan Parent-Teacher Congress, will be guest speaker at the Birmingham Parent-Teacher Council Nov. 30 in the Baldwin High School. Mrs. Williams, well known through the State for her discussions of parent-teacher work and present-day trends in education, has chosen as her subject, "Seems to Me." Her talk will center around influences of the radio and the "movies" in education and in the scheme of living.

The meeting is open to the public and all members of all Birmingham Parent-Teacher associations are urged to be present. The Council executive board is formed with members from the various schools, the council being a clearing house, and an advisory group inaugurated for the purpose of assisting and cooperating in the work of the Parent-Teacher work in the city as a whole. Mrs. F. H. Mullinger is president of the council.

Girls who will take part in the play are Patty Lewis, Ada Ward and Roberta Cole. The boys in the cast are Frank Rowland, Sherwood Jackson, Miller Tom, Donald F. George, Fred Stenkel, Frank Bob Welling, Robert Peck, Walker Hart, Walter Gehrlke and Dick Grossman.

Mrs. Max Gilman, of Dunstan road is expected home Wednesday from Chicago, where he accompanied her cast, preceded her home.

A. O. Alumni Hold Dance Thanksgiving

Large numbers of high school students, high school alumni and colleagues home for the Thanksgiving Day holidays will attend the Thanksgiving dance to be held Thursday evening at the Community House.

This dance is being held under the auspices of the A. O. Alumni of Baldwin High School. An orchestra from Oberlin College will provide music for dancing.

Mrs. Thomas H. Adams, of Puritan road, went to Ann Arbor Sunday to attend the Founders' Day program of Theta chapter, Alpha Chi Omega society, at which she was a speaker. Mrs. Adams' mother, Mrs. Leonard Miller, of Ann Arbor, was influential in starting the Michigan chapter in 1898.

Women's League Told 'Capital Is Unfair to Labor'

Members of the Birmingham League of Women Voters, at their regular monthly meeting in the Community House Monday afternoon, listened for more than two hours to an open forum talk by Tucker Smith, executive secretary of the Michigan branch of the CIO. Mr. Smith, former college teacher in political science and on various economic questions, was also president of the Brookwood Labor College in New York state.

Mr. Smith stressed the part that labor plays in the production of wealth, and cited figures to show that, in the automotive industry, for example, the workman receives but $15.50 for each $100 worth of automobile wealth created. He went on to say that various phases of sales promotion ate up 35 per cent of each dollar of the value produced, and that the remainder was divided between an administrative overhead and "money-hungry financiers from Wall Street."

Virginia Mae Clark Bride of Samuel Bell

Virginia Mae Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Clark and Samuel C. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Bell, were united in matrimony Saturday afternoon in the Baptist church parlor with the Rev. J. O. Nelson performing the ceremony. Both brides wore altars of yellow chrysanthemums and palms.

The bride wore an afternoon gown of gold crepe with a hat and accessories of blue. Her shoulder bouquet was of gardenias.

Mrs. Evelyn N. Clark, her sister-in-law's only attendant, wore a blue crepe gown with dunebonnet hat and accessories.

Mr. Clark attended the bride-groom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Clark chose a royal blue satin dress with hat and accessories of darker blue. Mrs. Bell wore a black and white crepe dress with a black hat.

Mrs. J. V. Giddens came from her home in Fort Meyers, Fla., to attend her sister's wedding.

Detroit League for Handicapped Benefits by Junior Leaguers Sale

Gaily trimmed booths transformed the Cranbrook Pavilion for the annual Christmas sale held by the Junior League all day Friday, opening at 10 in the morning and continuing until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The sale held in the Hills this year takes the place of the sale usually held in Detroit.

Profits from all articles sold will go, as usual, to the Detroit League for the Handicapped, and with the exception of the glass, silverware and objects of art from the gift shop, all articles were made by the handicapped workers. Mrs. James Morrison Taylor, chairman of the sale, was assisted by Romayne Thompson.

Woman Educator Talks at Barnum

Prof. Julia Hubbard, professor of comparative education at Wayne University spoke on the European tour which she conducted this summer and told members of the Barnum School P. T. A. Thursday afternoon of the education trends abroad. This was the third such tour which Prof. Hubbard had conducted for summer school teachers who attend Wayne University.

In outlining the education problems abroad, the speaker stressed that in England compulsory education stopped when a child reached the age of 14. Many children with whom she spoke were 13 years old and had already planned the type of work they would pursue when they passed their 14th birthday.

European schools are built differently from our American schools, Prof. Hubbard told the P. T. A. They encircle a court and the rose gardens that grow in these courts were breathlessly beautiful during the time she was there, she said.

Rev. and Mrs. Samuel S. Marquis will entertain their children and grandchildren at Thanksgiving dinner. Guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Jackson of Pleasant Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Car, Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Nichols, Mrs. Harry D. Hoey was chairman of publicity and was assisted by Mrs. Carl A. Underhill.

Social Briefs

Mrs. George T. Hendrick and Mrs. John K. Ormond, of Birmingham, are among the sponsors for the institute on civil rights, to be held in Detroit Dec. 1 and 2 as part of the sesquicentennial celebration of the American Bill of Rights.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Byrne, of Southfield, are planning a family dinner for Thanksgiving Day.

Large Audience Attends the First Play of Season

If you were a beautiful unattached young man who suddenly found himself stranded in the north, your most point of Labrador, 500 miles from civilization, and your host was a handsome young man who hadn't seen a good looking woman for two years what would you do?

Mr. S. J. Davis, who played the lead in "Pettit Forest" when it was presented Friday and Saturday evening in Brookside Auditorium by Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook, Mrs. Davis, however, proved herself master of the situation and before the curtain fell on the third act she had tamed the hero and led him to the altar, lock, stock and barrel.

"Pettit Forest," the first public performance of the season by the Cranbrook group attracted a large audience from Birmingham and the Hills for the two-night engagement.

In Challenged

When challenged as to his statement regarding the sales promotion cost, Mr. Smith endeavored to support his stand by admitting that advertising, as commonly understood, does not consume the entire 35 per cent; that dealer salaries do not consume 35 per cent; that drive-away charges do not consume 35 per cent; and that other miscellaneous items, such as advertising, individually, do not consume this amount; but that the sum total of all of them do.

Against Advertising

He was vigorous in denouncing the use of advertising today to promote car sales, holding that "even if we were to offer the public, there would be no appreciable reduction in the price of motor cars, much and more so, if we were to reduce the cost of modern advertising as an unfair charge against the producer and consumer of wealth and concluded this phase of his talk by saying that "I feel sorry for the man who works for advertising agencies."

Mr. Smith agreed that since the late 1920s the country has been a tremendous centralization of wealth and the tools of production in industry; he said that he favors the governmental control of both.

When asked point-blank as to whether he favored "production for profit against production for consumption," Mr. Smith failed to give a clear-cut answer.

Mr. Smith's general labor controversies in Michigan during the past four years, the speaker stated that "the capitalized press has never presented labor's side of the picture fairly." He added that not one of the three Detroit daily newspapers had been fair to labor's cause in presenting strike information.

Rebuke, Oakland County

"Oakland County, which Pontiac we have had labor trouble, is a strong Republican area, and I can say, from my own experience, that Oakland County isn't much interested in providing adequate relief for its unemployed," declared Mr. Smith.

"Personally, instead of giving a needy person the kind of dole or inadequate relief that has been given, I think it would be more humane to shoot the needy unfortunate, who, through no fault of their own, can't find work."

Not less than ten millions of people are now unemployed," stated Mr. Smith.

"I maintain that our democratic processes cannot endure until a solution to unemployment is found. The labor movement is merely an attempt by those who have only their labor to get to get as much as they can for it."

During the discussion a dozen members of the league asked questions, which Mr. Smith attempted to answer.
