

Baldwin Library Has 2 Exhibits

BY LINDO MOORE
Those open-house shows of last summer had one virtue; they were great pebble catchers. So the next year you find a young rock in your shoe, don't throw it away; it may have the making of a colorful pin of flashing ring beneath its drab exterior.

From the Women's Angle

By Nellie Hurley Minnie

By Katherine W. George
Telephone voices are so deceiving. Have you ever talked over the wire to someone with a gentle, soft voice and a shy manner and someone soliciting funds for this or that or some other relatively unimportant reason; but, nevertheless, it takes no more time to refuse courteously than to be short and impatient. Good manners are important, over the telephone as elsewhere and the lack of them leaves a lasting bad impression.
