Like Bride from Pages of Story Book Is Kay Motherwell, Wed on Saturday

Looking for all the world like a story book bride, Kay Motherwell, of Lansing, and formerly of Bloomfield, Mich., became the bride of Edward Everett Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, of "Longmeadow" on West Long Lake road in the Hills at an impressive candlelight service performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in Christ church by the Rev. W. Hamilton Aulbach, of Germantown, Pa., who came back to his former parish here to officiate at the rites.

The Rev. Charles H. Cadigan, rector of the church, assisted.

For this latest of the season's weddings in the Hills, the chancel was banked with woodwinds, ferns and shaggy white mums with myriads of cathedral candles flickering in the semi-darkness to lend their glow to the romantic scene.

The bride's exquisite gown was of heavy ivory satin buttoned down to the waist in front from a tiny turnover collar. The shoulder line was extremely wide and edged with plaited satin from which extended an oversleeve also edged with plaiting of finely-patterned Chantilly lace. Another row of the plaiting edged the tight cuffs.

A tremendous skirt, stiffened by crinoline at the hipline, was attached to the low midriff and extended into a very long train. A tiny row of orange blossoms held the long illusion veil and she carried pure white orchids tied with streamers to which were caught flies of the valley and butterfly orchids.

Nancy Motherwell was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids included Mr. Wilson's sisters, Rosemary, Jean, McCombe, Lila Landis, of Deland; Dorothy Dean, of Midland; Beatrice Beil, of Chicago; Jo-Janna Sufferlin, of Allenton, Pa.; Ormond Hays of Long Island, and Harold Cupitt, of Steelton, Pa.

Mrs. Motherwell chose an ice blue dinner dress beaded with silver and crystal and with it she carried a bouquet of white and pink gardenias.

Each wore carmes, a gift of the bride.

Mr. Wilson was his son's best man and the ushers were Thomas Edwin Wilson, Edward Leitch, Robert Craig, William Lewis, Marcus Day, Arthur DuBois, of Haledale, Pa.; Ormond Hays of Long Island, and Harold Cupitt, of Steelton, Pa.

Musicle Sunday As Chas. O'Connors Attracts Crowd

The Christmas muscicles which the League of Catholic Women have been holding at the home of Mrs. Charles J. O'Connor on Avon lane for the past few years have gained quite a reputation and the affair Sunday attracted a large number from Birmingham and the Hills.

For the occasion an Irish linen cloth was used on the table that was centered with Christmas greens. Burning red tapers lighted the room and Mrs. W. B. Hans and Mrs. Martin J. Wendell poured.

The musical program was presented by Marcus Kellerman who brought with him Gertrude Bahbitt, 13-year old lyric soprano, student at Cooley High School in Detroit and Renaldo Vira, dramatic tenor.

Miss Bahbitt's portion of the program included "Caro Nome" from Rigoletto, "Il Barbiere" by Alf. G. C. and "Hallelujah" by Mozart and the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria."

Mr. Vira and Mr. Kellerman sang informally these numbers requested by the audience.
