Troubles Galore Worry Players In Benefit Show

Difficulties galore have been presenting themselves since casting was finished for the benefit which members of St. Dunstan's Guild will present Saturday evening, Feb. 10 at a public performance at Brookside Auditorium. Proceeds will be turned over to the Finnish Relief Fund.

The trouble began several days ago when sickness overtook several members of the cast of Drinkwater's "Lincoln." The Apptomat scene, according to original plans, was to have been produced from the famous play, as one of the three one-act plays to be given on Feb. 10.

Matters went from bad to worse and before the week was out Drinkwater had been shelved and the play was being cast, this time Sheldon R. Noble's adaptation of "The Perfect Tribute" by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews. In the cast are Templin Kieckhefer, Bill Merrill, who is also the director, Jack Saunders and Harry "Be Seated" and "The Lone Blackbird" will also be presented at this benefit performance and arrangements are pending for a short movie to be shown at the same time.

Strong Antidote Smugness Brewed in Capital Conclave

When Mrs. Agnes D. McClay of Wilmston Drive returned this week from Washington, D. C., where she attended the fourth White House Conference on Child Welfare in a Democracy she brought with her a detailed report of the meetings which were attended by social workers and a scattering of public minded citizens.

This conference expressed the conviction that if the American people, in a world showing signs of breakdown, can present a picture of a nation enjoying thought and resources to building for the distant future, we shall strengthen by these very actions our own faith in our democracy. Mrs. McClay said this week.

"In the words of one Washington columnist, 'The strongest antidote to smugness that has been brewed in Washington in some time is the set of reports submitted to the conference'."

Mary Clare Starr Wed on Saturday

Mary Clare Starr and Bernard Francis Powell were wed Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in Holy Name Church. The Rev. Fr. Lawrence Hammel read the service.

The bride chose a gown of ivory satin fashioned on empire lines with a full skirt falling from the high fitted waistline. The Bramley collar was of rose point lace which matched the lace in her cap. Her long tulle veil, which was fastened to the cap by colonial style ribbons, was trimmed with roses and the three yard train. Her bouquet was of orchids, lilies of the valley and gladioli.

Mrs. Frank Beasecker was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown fashioned with a fitted bodice made with short puffed sleeves and the full skirt fell in graceful folds. Her poke bonnet of matching tulle was trimmed with roses and she carried happy day roses and blue iris.

Japan's Phenomenal Development Described by Olive Deane Hormel

An ironical phase of the Oriental situation in its relation to the Occident is that Japan has learned so well the things which she set out to learn from the Occidental nations, Olive Deane Hormel said Monday afternoon at the Guild Hall, Christ Church Cranbrook, in her lecture, "The Oriental Meets," fifth in the series on contemporary literature and drama, offered by the University of Michigan Extension Service.

Since Japan opened her doors to the Occident, the lecturer continued, her development has been phenomenal in rapidity. The business sought to emulate what seemed to them the most profitable and desirable things of Occidental civilization offered: The organization of the Prussian political system and the Prussian army; German scientific development; the imperialism of Britain; the industrial efficiency and capitalistic concentration, Japan has outstripped her models, nor is she restrained by Christian ethics and humanitarian scruples in utilizing these means to her utmost advantage.

Interest in Orient With the expiration of the Japanese trade treaty with the United States last week, Miss Hormel said, there is imminent necessity for a termination of future policy in our relations with Japan, and interest turns again to the Orient after a period of stunned and complete absorption with the European situation.

Of great importance for the future welfare of all the world that we endeavor to understand as completely as possible conditions in both Japan and China, she stated. Our sympathies being with the China, shocked at as we are by Japanese aggression, we tend to condemn Japan wholly and to dismiss her case without a hearing.

For an understanding and unbiased approach to the situation we are fortunate indeed, Miss Hormel said, to have so masterly a work as John Gunther's "Inside Asia." If the reader has time for only one book on the Orient, this one meets the need admirably. It covers Asia from Japan to Arabia, and from Korea to Siam and India, with so sure an eye for salient matter and so telling a mode of presentation that he who runs may read. There is history in epitome, and there are personality portraits that are penetrating, memorable and captivating.

Japan is given first consideration in Mr. Gunther's book, because Japan represents the aggressive element in the situation and quite frankly regards all Asia as her legitimate preserve. Successive chapters set forth the unique importance of Emperor worship in Japanese national psychology, the remarkable strength and efficiency of the army organization, the amazing economy of the factory system, the appalling concentration of her national wealth—62 per cent of it in the possession of five great families, and there are personality portraits, most notably of Helen Carson of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tallman and T. F. Burns of Jackson.
