Crooks Captures Large Audience At Recital Here

All the glory and beauty of a marvellously expressive voice was given by the tenor crook, Richard Crooks, famed tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, in his first Birmingham recital before a near-capacity audience in the auditorium of the Baldwin High School.

Crooks The Giant

A giant of a man, Crooks seemed to dwarf the stage of the auditorium, and when he once had opened his mouth and poured forth from his golden throat the voice for which he is so justly famous, every man, woman and child in the audience knew that they were in the presence of a musical giant.
