

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

Hurray for Finland! If this keeps up, Birmingham's police soon will pay no attention to reports of "men slumped over the wheels of cars. This time the slumped over occurred at Woodward and Hunter boulevard, and the police again found that the driver slumped over the wheel was merely waiting for his wife.

In "Drums Along the Mohawk," Henry Fonda talks of bringing in the hay. Actually, he's missing around in straw. That's Hollywood for you. And the Indians chasing Henry for a couple of days there—why didn't they shoot arrows at him? If not, why lug the paraphernalia along?

Betty Thoson of South Bates street, is assisting in the office of Assessor Elmer Haack.

Went over to the High School Monday afternoon for an hour to hear Sam Marshall tell the teachers what about this war. It was the first time in years that we had sat in the old-fashioned school desk. Sam gave an interesting talk, too, having knowledge of military science, gained in the last war through the privilege of porcupine around with the generals as an aide, and through considerable study. A fellow professing to be a military expert, and having three initials before his name ought, somehow, to be about 6'4" in height, possess a lofty brow and a stentorian voice; instead Sam is an unimpressive-looking, at the average newspaper man. But he has plenty to say.

Last week, G. R. A. wrote an editorial in which he mentioned how the modern long-distance telephone has eliminated the meaning of Birmingham, in the State of Michigan, at the close of business on December 31, 1939.

Says World War Did Make World Safe for Democracy

America's participation in the World War was not in vain. The cause of democracy was furthered by the conflict of 1914-1918 and no World War veteran need be ashamed of the part he played in "making the world safe for democracy."

These are among the statements made by Albert N. Leman, author of "Saps or Saviors?" in the January issue of Foreign Service, official publication of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. Leman, feature editor of the Boston Sunday Post, in charge of foreign news, is himself a veteran of the World War in which he served with G-2 Section of the General Staff, A. E. F.

The old Hill building has a quiet dignity about it that sets the high ceilings, fine-styled woodwork and a feeling of substantiality. These modern buildings of brick, steel and fireproof materials aren't the same.

Mrs. K. B. Olson, 540 Hawthorne, called us to make sure that we did not attribute a fire call to her home to a forgotten roaster in the oven. It was merely a pan of fat which caught fire, and caused the fire department carried it out to the back yard.

Earl Parks, the mail carrier, is persona non grata to a dog owned by H. F. Boyd, 1423 Buckingham. According to the constabulary, Mr. Royal will pay for Mrs. Parks' torn trousers.

Winnie Watkins, 952 Ridgedale, lost her parka last Friday and that a green Parka driven by Frank Armstrong, a high school student, collided with hers and slightly, but he charged that the youth possessed no operator's license. Mr. Watkins declined to sign a complaint, however, and there the matter rests, according to the police.

Two new members were added to the Rotary Club Monday noon, bringing the membership up to 48. They are: Mr. W. Berghagen, registrar of the local First Presbyterian church, and Paul Friedrich, registrar, publicity director, and general manager of Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills.

Congratulations to Rie A. Howell! He has been reappointed post governor of the Exchange Club.
