

From the Women's Angle

By NELLIE HURLEY MINIFIE
This week another crushing blow was leveled at England and France, a blow the whole civilized world has been anticipating for weeks...

With bulletins pouring in from every capital in the world it is difficult to write of Europe's war on Monday afternoon realizing that this won't be read until Thursday...

And so I'm writing, not of Europe's blood-stained fields but of our place in Europe's war...

Miss Minifie
Help the Red Cross and the French Refugee Committee but keep one brain cell and collected in order that France's battle fields won't smell of American blood...

And so when Flax Day descends on Friday let's remember that today we are at peace.

By KATHERINE W. GEORGE
John Barrymore's death in the height of the Barrymore, both in and in acting ability, he receives more publicity than Filled and Lined put together and most of it is bad.

So a reviewer must be appointed, at a salary of $1,000 a week, to pick the best of Barrymore's work, apparently, cannot himself be both critic and actor.

Mr. Barrymore, 47 years old, John Barrymore, more beloved like a golden boy of 19. He is a man who has refused to grow up.

He falls in love, he falls out of love, he falls in love, he falls out of love, he falls in love, he falls out of love...

According to the latest stories, his salary from the motion picture industry is $5,000 a week, but still he cannot, or will not, keep ahead of his obligations. It is hard to imagine why he should be paid that sum by any studio today...
