Spring Was in the Air! SHE GOT BOTH those new hats that had tempted her for a fortnight. And she also determined to have all three of those dresses, to put her wardrobe entirely in order for the new season. HE TRADED IN the old bus, and beamingly drove "round and surprised the family. Then he ordered those three blue spinners for the unshrubbed corner of the lawn, and put up that good-looking new birdhouse. THEN, TO COMPLETE their freshening-up acts for the new season—they both came into our shop—knowing that in Spring the inside of their house needed some new things, too! Here's What They Bought: Some New Glassware! He couldn't resist the new Orrefors Glassware, the famed Swedish glass with its altogether massive weight and beauty. She selected three pieces from our large collection of the new Dorothy Thorpe Glass. Toby Jugs: Given to the unusual, wanting definitely to be different this Spring, he took some of these most appealing of Jugs, with their quiet English characters. Playing Cards: Some especially designed for Spring... double decks, colorful, beautiful, and some that are humorous (we have them at 79c, 89c and $1.00). Pictures: He's a sailor, so a picture named "The Winning Tack" by Dawson immediately caught his fancy; while she simply loves horses and so selected an artist's proof of a limited edition of "The Sacred Horse," done by Fuchman. A New Square Metal Tray: Predominantly white, with a plain pastel border trim and a floral decorated center (it cost $2.25). A Blanket for the baby—from the Churchill Weavers of Kentucky, a hand-loomed diagonal weave with a delicate flower treatment ($3 to $6). and Herend Pottery in an old style, with somewhat the appearance of old Meissen.
