Another group assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon B. Myers on Wing Lake road and included Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Micox, Mr. and Mrs. Jones B. Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Rawson Yaito, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. La Belle, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. McGregor and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gillette, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pease, Jr., of Buckingham road were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson J. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Grindley also entertained before the dance, as did Mr. and Mrs. Myron E. Snyder.

Memorial Day, as usual, will be a big day at the club, with family celebrations in predominance and a varied list of sports on the program. There will be a luncheon for junior girls Saturday at Orchard Lake, under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. Theron Van Dusen.

Rev. George L. Cadigan and Mrs. Cadigan of Brunswick, Me., arrived on Tuesday for a few days' visit with the former's brother and sister-in-law, Rev. Charles H. Cadigan, at their home on Lone Pine road. Honoring the visitors, Mrs. Charles Cadigan's father, Claude M. Harmon, of Detroit, will entertain at dinner Friday evening, at the Detroit Golf club, additional guests to be Mr. and Mrs. Austin Harmon of Birmingham.

Many Entries Are Attracted By Pet Parade

The warm spring sunshine together with a child's inherent love of parades was responsible for the success of the pet parade Saturday afternoon. A crowd estimated at several hundred gathered to witness this annual event, a feature of St. Elizabeth's Guild Fair held at St. James Episcopal Church.

The parade, led by the high school band, began on Chester street and passed by the judges' stand in front of the church where at several hundred gathered to witness this annual event, a feature of St. Elizabeth's Guild Fair held at St. James Episcopal Church.

Twelve prizes were awarded and among those receiving them were Forbes Stewart and his white collie dog, Margaret Dalton with a chicken, Duane Brown and his blue Dane, Joan Wagner and Sally Kreidler for their goat, Robert Brown with his dyed blue dog, Horace Potter and his rabbits and Prizes for the best snapshots taken of this parade are to be given and members of the guild announced this week that all pictures should be turned in to St. James Parish House by Saturday, June 8. Only the pictures, and not the negatives, are to be turned in.

Graduation Day Is Almost Here---

--But, Graduates, Here's Sound Advice for You and Your Parents! COMMENCEMENT WEEK means much to Birmingham! ... not alone the pride and joy of seeing our young people arrive triumphantly at an important milestone, but it means new life for the community ... new ideas ... new enthusiasm ... new spirit to perpetuate the progress that has made Birmingham a modern city outstanding in the service it offers not only its citizens, but neighboring communities.

"YOUTH WILL BE SERVED" in Birmingham. Birmingham is proud of its graduates, proud of its schools. With eagerness each season we await the opportunity to serve you as you would be served. Birmingham merchants spend much time in selecting the smartest merchandise from the best markets ... fashions with that nonchalant, youthful air and serve you want ... entertainment in the tempo of the day ... all priced so that even the flattest purse can "take it."

When time takes some of you into larger fields, it is our sincere wish that where'er you roam there will always be a warm place in your heart for Birmingham, your first alma mater. If fate is so kind as to keep you with us, we urge you to put your young shoulders to the wheel of progress, and make this community "one in a million," known far and wide for its youthful, progressive, modern atmosphere, its wide-awake loyal citizens, wise men and women who believe in Building by Buying where dollars will do double duty.

ON YOUR GRADUATION DAY, remember among your prized possessions, Birmingham IS YOUR TOWN, your trading center. Its future lies in your hands, and your future lies in the prosperity of the community in which you live. Birmingham WILL BE WHAT YOU MAKE IT. We throw the torch to you!
