Sparking Monday evening at a dinner meeting at the Community House of the Quarten Parent-Teacher association, on the subject "Closing an Occupation."

I would overcome the fear of being left in the work I do and to endeavor job and trust my education and determination to succeed to show up in the work I do.

I would try to do each job assigned me just a little bit better than necessary.

I would avoid as though they were poison, strong likes and dislikes, disputes, accusations and quarrels with my associates.

I would form the habit of looking upon my work as not only a means of earning a living, but a reason for living.
