Tenth Birthday of Garden Group Draws 200 to Luncheon Meeting

Tenth anniversary of the founding of the Birmingham branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association was observed Monday afternoon at a luncheon and special meeting—the first gathering of the group this year.

Well over 200 persons, many from out-of-town garden associations and state officers of the group, crowded into the Community House to help the Birmingham club observe its birthday.

Starting in a severe black-crepe frock with only a brilliant corsage to set off the dress, was Mrs. Lawrence C. Howe, who as president of the Birmingham club, held the place of honor at the guest table and presided at the exceedingly brief meeting following the luncheon.

Among the distinguished out-town guests for this affair were Mrs. Claude Rosseggie, of Saginaw, state president; Mrs. Erick Schuman, of Detroit, who is first state vice president of garden clubs; Mrs. Walter Fenton, of Mt. Clemens, state extension chairman; Mrs. George Cook, of Plymouth; Mrs. Graham Gray of Roseville; Mrs. John T. Edgerley of Wilmington Del., first president of the Birmingham club; and Mrs. Charles J. Sparks, of Jackson.

Included among the luncheon guests were a large delegation from Jackson, a group from Detroit, one from Pontiac, St. Clair Shores, Rosedale, Bloomfield Hills and a large group from Roseville. Speaking following the luncheon, on "Garden Glorias" was Mrs. T. Melbourne Roberts who illustrated her talk with colored slides taken of gardens from Michigan to Mobile, Ala., and Mexico.

Several moments of her talk were devoted to garden centers near Birmingham and included in the slides were several shots of Mrs. Adelle Sly's iris gardens and the tulips at White Chapel.

Mrs. Frederick E. Booth was general chairman of the affair, and had assisting her Mrs. Brooks Marshall and Mrs. Clyde L. Hagerman. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Cassius L. Miller, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. J. S. O'Gorman, Jr., Mrs. Donald G. Eade, Mrs. Harry M. Doyne, Mrs. Harrison E. Dunton, Mrs. William McAlum, Mrs. Herbert A. Cartwright, Mrs. E. M. Velmeyer, Mrs. Douglas H.
