

Bits of Birmingham

Dr. N. T. Shaw, retired physician known to all old timers in the village, has just returned with Mrs. Shaw from a long stay in California, driving here in five days. We heard that he "just got home" for the old stamping ground and decided to make tracks for it. We are told that they will return to California soon. Incidentally, Dr. Shaw was one of the first Beehives to own an automobile.

Policeman Robert Appell found a black leather suitcase Monday night on Brown street, near Woodward. It is still unclaimed at the police station.

Mrs. Alvin E. Downer, of Wellington road, Franklin, presented this office with a beautiful bouquet of roses, Tuesday, picked from her garden. They are of many varieties, but this Wander-

"White Magic" for Business:

HOW TO MAKE DOLLARS WITH LIGHT!

IN YOUR STORE: Selling merchandise with LIGHT is like pulling dollars out of a hat... it doesn't seem possible. But many alert, progressive business men are using this powerful selling tool every day to ring up extra cash sales and boost profits. These two facts have been definitely proved: (1) Good lighting in show windows will often DOUBLE their stopping power and attract more customers. (2) Clever "spot lighting" and featured displays inside the store will frequently TRIPLE sales on specific items.

IN YOUR FACTORY: Increases in production of 10% to 35% have been achieved through improved lighting in industrial plants. Good lighting cuts down spoilage, makes accurate inspection possible, and is an important factor in promoting safety. Figure its cost—approximately three-tenths of one per cent of production cost—against a possible 10% or more INCREASE in production, plus 5% or more savings from fewer accidents and fewer errors and rejects... there is only one conclusion: Good lighting pays dividends.

We will be glad to send one of our Lighting Staff to study your lighting problems and offer recommendations without charge. Phone your Detroit Edison office, The Detroit Edison Company.

identy, not a rosarian, is unable to identify them. The last roses of summer! No one has yet presented us with any wild duck or pheasant, however.

There are plenty of pheasants in Birmingham. It would not be surprising if a group of hunters banded together in some of the outlying uncut pastures and put on a drive, shooting them just as the beautiful ring-necked pheasant crossed the city line. We are glad some of the lives in those frontier stopes, which are a legacy from the land speculation of another day.

No arms may be discharged within the city limits, not even BB guns. Police sent one Saturday from a youth firing the gun in the alley at the rear of the telephone office.

A contributed piece came to our office using the phrase, "horses huffs." Maybe the animal had the huffs, or perhaps the writer didn't know how to spell huffs. Still, lots of people couldn't spell "huffhuff" 26 years ago.

Fred Blinath reported the loss of a school bag, taken from his car early Sunday while it was parked outside the Blinath blacksmith shop on Hunter boulevard.

Workmen are repairing the coping on the front of the old Odd-fellows building on Pierce street. The top of the tile wall was leaning over the street, it was recently reported to the City Commission.

The grey, gaunt, grim spectre of war is laying its chill hands on Southern cities in Birmingham. When last seen, it was about to deprive local Scouting of two of its most prominent Scoutmasters and only Scoutmaster. You see, as things are today, both Scoutmasters George Scott and Jerry Truitt are members of the Naval Reserve, which, as you know has received its "Stand By" orders, meaning that in theory all of its members are 24 hours on notice. Also Scoutmaster Dave Wiggant is expected to receive his commission in that same body soon and that means another prominent absentee among us who only stand and wait for our numbers to be called.

Junior, however, both of that have means to resign anyway and that the successor is being a hard hand to take over. To date we know nothing about that gentleman, except that Dave considers him able and competent to take over, and that is a good omen for me.

IT HAS NOT CHANGED

Some years ago there was widespread prosperity in the world—but also widespread hatred and national hatreds. There were those who warned that abundance could not continue unless the world making a business of hatred, and that the only basis for international trade was international goodwill. But such words were called too idealistic, too soft. Yet today we face the awful fact that the world has been swept from the sea by hatred; normal industrial activity is rapidly being turned into the production of real property wealth to the building of destructive weapons with no other possible value attached to them and built on borrowed money. Those who have eyes to see realize that the dream of this future age is yet before us. Some day in a vector of wasted lives, unpayable debts and widespread destruction, we will be compelled to face the unalterable fact that civilization begins with "Love Thy Neighbor." —By Charles A. Wells.

Mrs. Taylor was the protegee of a well-known concert pianist of New York City and has played on the concert platform of many of the leading cities throughout the country. She is an accomplished artist.
