Woman's Group Meets Friday At Community House

Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its monthly meeting Friday, in the Birmingham Community House. The meeting will open at 10 o'clock in the morning, with a report by Mrs. Albert Bennett, who is legislative chairman for the Southeastern District of Michigan. It will be followed by a speaker who will discuss the Electoral Act Referendum, which is to be voted on at the November election.

At 10:30, Mrs. Thomas Hadley of the Pleasant Ridge Woman's club, and conservation chairman for the County Federation, will introduce Walter Hastings of the Michigan Department of Conservation. Mr. Hastings will talk on the work now under way for the preservation of the natural beauties of Michigan and will illustrate his remarks with colored slides.

A business meeting will follow immediately, at which Mrs. Warren C. Pratt, the president of the County Federation, will give her report of the Southeastern District meeting which was held Oct. 24 and 25, at Mackinac Island. Following a luncheon at 12:30, a program will be presented by three clubs in the Federation. The Berkeley Woman's club will present Mrs. Louis Fowler, who will speak on "Opportunities Open to the Blind." Mrs. Fowler has talked to many organizations, and over the radio on this subject. Her "Seeing Eye" dog, awarded her following the efforts of the Berkeley Lions club, will accompany her. In recognition of National Art Week, the Birmingham Woman's club is presenting Miss Margaret Vokes, art chairman for the Detroit and sculpture school, the potter, and is the only Michigan woman to have her work chosen for exhibition at the New York World's Fair in 1940. As she figures, Miss Vokes will sculpt a figure. The Huntington Woods club is conducting a "National Poetry Week," with a meeting by Mrs. Gordon Walper. Their School of Art, consisting of Mrs. William McClure, Miss Alma Thomas and Mrs. Robert Curcuro, will present three numbers.

Mrs. Roy M. Casper Has Altar Society

Mrs. Roy M. Casper will open her home at 966 Glenhurst drive Wednesday afternoon for a meeting of the Altar society of Holy Name Church. Mrs. Vincent J. Forde and Mrs. C. A. Pfaffenberger will preside at a tea table that will be centered with autumn flowers. Assisting the hostesses will be Mrs. John Dunn, Mrs. William DePasie, Mrs. J. W. DeBeauchamp, Mrs. John L. DeGurse, Mrs. Henry M. Foley and Mrs. Rex Foley.

Fisher-Briggs Rites Read at Fashionable Wedding

Most fashionable of the season's top-drawer weddings was the beautifully impressive ceremony at Blessed Sacrament Church in Detroit Saturday morning at 11:30 when Susan Briggs and Everett Fisher were joined at a nuptial mass read by Archbishop Edward Mooney.

Susan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter O. Briggs, of Detroit and Bloomfield, had only recently returned to the West Boston boulevard home of her parents from a summer spent at their Hills residence, Walter Hall, on East Long Lake road. She had remained out here so late in the fall season that she might indulge in her favorite sport—hunting.

Blessed Sacrament Church was magnificently decked in palest yellow chrysanthemums, the huge blooms standing in containers down the entire length of the center aisle to give the effect of a flower hedge. At the entrance of the chancel were two large vases

Social Briefs

Dr. and Mrs. Harold R. Roehm of Lone Pine road were hosts last week at their annual bird dinner, which traditionally followed a week's hunting trip at their lodge at the Shoopack club. On the hunting trip with them were Dr. Roehm's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. D. Roehm, of Akron, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Bromley.

One of the largest and most elaborate affairs of the fall in Bloomfield Hills was the dinner-dance given Saturday night at the Bloomfield Hills Country club by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson of West Long Lake road.

Mrs. Clark Bennett will entertain her bridge club at luncheon next Wednesday at her home on Yarmouth road.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon R. Noble were hosts at a cocktail party on Sunday at their country place at Deer Lake. The Nobles will return to the Hills next week and take up their residence at the Fox and Hounds Inn for the winter.

Mrs. Cassius L. Miller entertained a group of friends at luncheon Tuesday, at her home on Pilgrim road. Attending were Mrs. Genevieve A. Flores, Mrs. J. S. O'Gorman, Jr., Mrs. Harvey B. Greene, Mrs. Ralph L. Rickenbaugh, Mrs. Arthur G. Rippey, Jr., Mrs. E. Palmer Shelton and Mrs. Paul E. Minsell.

Mrs. Rudolph D. Lindquist of Academy road, left Tuesday for a short visit in Pittsburgh.

of the mums mounted on ivory pedestals and there were more arrangements on and around the altar and along the altar rail. And on this flickered the light of a hundred candles. Susan's gown—especially designed—was made with a fitted bodice almost a jacket effect. Tucked through the waistline, the basque was finished with a row of narrow fluting around the hips. The sleeves were long and tight and setting off the deep, narrow V of the neckline was a collar of exquisite lace purchased a number of years ago in Venice by Mrs. Briggs.

More of the lace fashioned the high coronet and edged the veil of illusion that fell over the full skirt and long, wide train. Her boucual was of pure white orchids. Ten bridesmaids, all gowned alike in heaven blue, walked down the aisle preceding the bride. Their dresses were made of silk faille, the skirt in three wide tiers fastened together and draped across to the left side to be caught up in a large bow of the same material.

Their small caps were made of diagonal strips of deeper velvet topped by three ostrich plumes and with short, flaring veils. They carried small muffs of the velvet, shirred and corded. White and purple orchids were pinned on the muffs of the honor attendants, Jane Briggs and Mrs. Louis Johnson, of Atlanta, Ga.

Bridesmaids, carrying clusters of purple orchids, were Pamela Turner, Buffy Derrick, Louise Bowen, Sis Higbie, Sarah Fisher, Barbara Cox of Maytown, and Phoebe Adams and Eileen Butler of New York.

Coalminers' Dance Next At Community House
The next Saturday night dance for young people at the Community House will be held Nov. 10. It is to be a Coalminers' dance, with flashlights and miners' lamps featured.

A Comparison
If the heftian along the Congo in Darkest Africa have been supplied with radios, and have even a trace of the sense of humor, they no doubt chuckle in the stores they hear of the inhuman atrocities enacted on each other by the "civilized" nations of Europe. What's the roasting and eating of an occasional missionary compared to that?—The Kansan.

A FRANK APPEAL TO BIRMINGHAM

IN DEMOCRATIC circles, Birmingham is known as "a tough nut to crack," referring, of course, to your overwhelming Republican majority. But I have an appeal, I believe, that may "crack the nut." In the first place, this year for the first time, the coroners of Oakland County must be physicians.

There are four of us running for the two coronerships. All of us, no doubt, are qualified for the position. I was, however, listed as "preferred" by the Oakland County Citizens League. Now the office of coroner is essentially non-partisan and it really should be so listed. And inasmuch as Wendell Wilkie has asked Democrats to vote for him, perhaps, I too, may ask Republicans to vote for me. And now for the main "nut cracker." I believe, and I think you believe, that ONE of the coroners should be located in Southern Oakland County. The other three candidates live in Pontiac and I am the ONLY candidate for coroner, in either party, from Southern Oakland. So, if you want a coroner in YOUR part of the county, and I believe you do, cast ONE of your votes for
