Courses Offered M Correspondence

New and revised courses for the University of Michigan correspondence studies are available to students this fall, it was announced by Mrs. Margaret Stringham, Birmingham supervisor. The Extension division of the University has been so satisfied with the records of students entering the university with advanced standing through correspondence that it has assumed complete direction of the correspondence study department. As many as 85 at one time have been following courses in Birmingham. New teachers have been added at Ann Arbor to care for correspondence work; and new courses covering a great many fields of interest in high school and college level have been provided. Many Information on these courses is available through Mrs. Stringham, whose office is in the Baldwin Library, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. The cost of the supervision is borne by the Adult Education Division of the Work Projects Administration. Eccentric classifieds pay!

ECONOMY FLAVORED WITH QUALITY
