

Orchard Lake Women Sailors Close Busy Year

Mrs. B. H. Micou Champion Sailor For This Season

To Mrs. Benjamin H. Micou, Orchard Lake women sailors have awarded the highest honor which they may give to a fellow sailor. She has been named women's champion sailor by virtue of the races won this year at the club.

Mrs. Frederick H. Strong, Jr., who lives right out at the lake, is runner up and another Birmingham woman, Mrs. Edward S. Reid, Jr., won third place.

Although no prize is connected with the third place position, Mrs. Reid made an excellent showing for having raced only a half dozen years or so. Mrs. Strong has been manning a boat for something like 40 years and Mrs. Micou is not exactly an amateur either, having raced for about 15 years.

Mrs. C. E. Ustick came out with the prize for having crewed the most races and Mrs. W. J. Lambert is recognized as the new skipper having made the most progress.

Mrs. Atwood, B. Oatman is the skipper with the most races. Judges for the finals that have been run off during the last week were William W. Williams, Harold Ward, of Pontiac, Arthur Underwood, Jr., Commodore C. A. Newcomb, Jr., and F. H. Strong, Jr.

The races have been in progress since the middle of May. The men's finals will not be completed until Saturday of this week. The dinner which will climax the men's and women's activities for the year is to be held Saturday evening, Sept. 28, at the club. At that time prizes will be given out.

Mrs. Aaron H. Webster will serve as chairman of the women's racing for next year and Mrs. C. Theron Van Dusen will again be chairman of the junior girls' sailing.

White, Pink Fall Flowers Used at Evening Ceremony

White and pink fall flowers were placed on the altar of St. James Episcopal Church Saturday evening and were lighted by white tapers in cathedral candelabra for the wedding of Jape Barbara McCutcheon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bates McCutcheon, and Paul Henry Gleye.

The Rev. Warner L. Forsyth officiated. Mr. Gleye's parents are Mrs. Robert G. Bradley, of Birmingham, and Walter Gleye, of Detroit.

The bride's gown was of brocaded satin fashioned with a basque bodice having a high neckline and long sleeves. The circular skirt ended in a short train. She wore a long veil which was draped from a Juliet cap of Chantilly lace from her mother's trousseau. Her bouquet was of gardenias.

Mrs. Mary Ellen McCutcheon was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Robert G. Bradley, of Birmingham, was the junior bridesmaid.

They were guests of different shades of blue fashioned with basque bodices of velvet and circular tulle skirts. They should have been pink roses and baby christomemours.

Helien Bradley, who is a flower girl, wore a crepe dress of pale blue with pink roses, and wore flowers in her hair.

Lieut. W. Gibson Gleye, of Fort Sheridan, was his brother's best man. Flowers were George and Roy McCutcheon, brothers of Detroit, Frank Beasaker, of Detroit, and John Connors, of Lake Forest, Ill.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCutcheon chose a gown of duobinet crepe and velvet with a small matching hat. Mrs. Bradley wore white and gold jersey with a small white hat. Their corsages were orchids.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Gleye left by motor for San Francisco where they will live. For traveling the bride wore a brown suit and hat with beige accessories.

Howells Fedged on Eve Of Departure For East

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Howell, of East Maple road, who will move Tuesday to Summit, N. J., were honored at a large breakfast supper party Saturday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hooper, Jr., on Linden road, Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Norman James will have a small dinner for the Howells at their home on Wimbledon road. Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Hooper and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Thompson.

George Thompson Tells of Wedding Over the Week-end

Mrs. Paul H. Gleye

Important things are going on almost every day now, especially at the Harold J. Thompsons on Abbey road.

First of all there is the news that son George was married over the week-end to Helen Smith, of Ferndale. The ceremony was performed Saturday in Toledo, the couple later driving down to Columbus.

To all their friends they will be at home at the Wexford Apartments on Alexandrine avenue in Detroit.

And then, of course, there are all the showers that are in the process of being evolved for Virginia Thompson, whose marriage to Tom Reaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reaney, of Lincoln road, will be performed Saturday evening Oct. 12.

Wednesday Edith Culver and her mother, Mrs. Paul Culver, both of Detroit, entertained at Devon Gables in honor of Virginia. Guests were Mrs. Walter Loe and her daughter, Betty, of Pleasant Ridge; Mrs. Ida B. Smith, of Ferndale, mother of the new Mrs. Thompson; Mrs. Warren Herah, Phyllis Reaney June Poirer; Peggy Frank, Mary Beth Kiefer, Mrs. Donald Miller and then, of course, Virginia's brand new sister-in-law, Mrs. Thompson.

Miss Jane Reitter Entertains Friday For Bride-Elect

Jane Reitter will entertain Friday evening at her home on Hawthorne road in honor of Betty Hill who will marry Henry Houston, III, of Pontiac, at a ceremony Oct. 26, at Christ Church Cranbrook.

Guests at this party will include Mrs. L. Clayton Hill, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Robert J. Vinton, Mrs. J. Reed Alexander, Marguerite Ustick, Robert Chisus, Nancy Murray, Mary Jane McCarry, Betty Sale, Jane Lord, Margaret Scriven, Mrs. Henry A. Houston, Jr., Mrs. Charles Ramm, of Windsor, Mrs. John Martin and Mrs. John McAlpine, of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. St. Clair, of Fairfax road, left Wednesday on a trip to New York.

Olive Hormel Returning Here For Third Season

"Contemporary Literature and Drama," a series of eight monthly lectures, which will be given for the third season at Christ Church Cranbrook by Olive Deane Hormel, of the University of Michigan Extension Service, might be substituted "World Trends as Reflected in the Season's Books and Plays."

The series, which is being sponsored here by a committee working for an Oakland County library, is keyed to the most vital trends of the time, both national and international.

The opening lecture in this season's series will be given at two o'clock, Monday evening, Oct. 7, is "Modern Makers of Books." It is a "Modern Makers of Books," a series of outstanding publishers and how they find their authors will be given and in each case Miss Hormel will cite the one or two books which are each publisher's most noteworthy contribution.

Since the United States is now the only nation in the world whose press is uncensored, the subject of the first lecture and that of the second, "Censors of Our Magazines," are both extremely pertinent. In preparation for this lecture, which will be given Nov. 11, Miss Hormel visited the editorial offices of the Atlantic Monthly, Harper's Life, Time, The New Yorker, Readers' Digest and other well known publications.

Other dates and lectures in the series are: Dec. 9, "Books to Share," a discussion of the best of the new books from a holiday angle; Jan. 13, "Highlights of the Early Theatrical Season," reports after two weeks on Broadway; Feb. 10, "The Pan-American Prospect—Our Neighbors to the North and South," a talk on books that look toward solidarity and understanding in the Western Hemisphere; Mar. 10, "The Language View—Literature of World Affairs," which will take up "books that range wide and cut deep, looking toward a vital peace"; April 7, "The New Americana," books that offer a fresh and vigorous appraisal of our American heritage as well as books that tell a good American story; May 5, "The Ten Best Plays of 1940-41," further direct reports and a summing up of the season.

The lecturer is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Illinois, where she studied and taught under the late Stuart Sherman. She is the author of a successful novel published by Scribner's and of a number of magazine articles. For the past five years, she has devoted all her time to lecture work in Michigan and neighboring states. Her background of sound scholarship, her wide acquaintance in the publishing and theatre world, and her frequent trips to New York and other important centers of international culture, give her unusually fresh and illuminating interpretation of the works she discusses.

Charles C. Spreens Honored at Party

Their 25th wedding anniversary was observed Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Spreens, of Tilbury place, who were honored at a Sunday evening supper at Devon Gables.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Korstaenge, Mrs. Minnetta Hauraham, Mrs. Katie Bascombe, Mrs. Mary Lee, Mrs. Dollie Bender, Mrs. William Tarsney, Mrs. Van C. Worden, Mrs. William Muretton, D. P. Wilksh and Mr. and Mrs. Hoover Halton.

Conservation School To Meet Next Week

The Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and the Michigan Department of Conservation are sponsoring the seventh annual conservation school for Michigan women to be held at Petoskey on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The purpose of this school is to give women first hand knowledge of conservation practices in this state and to help them to understand the value of natural wealth and its importance to every man, woman and child.

Arrival of Guest To Give Impetus To Bridal Parties

The gay round of pre-nuptial parties that are being given for Roberta Chisus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Chisus, of Cedar Grove, prior to her marriage Nov. 2, to John E. Parker, of Milwaukee, son of the Guy E. Parker, of Oakland avenue, are to be given considerable impetus by the arrival today of Jane Lord, of Hinsdale, Ill., who is to be the maid of honor at this wedding that is to be solemnized at 8:30 on a Saturday evening in the First Presbyterian Church.

Most exciting—by the sound of the name, anyway—is the shower which Barbara Talcott will give Monday at her home on Wildemere avenue in Detroit. The party is to be called a "glamor shower"—no leas. Each guest, they have told us, is requested to bring a gift suitable for a glamorous woman. Exotic perfume, scented bath powder and soft, bubbly bath salts, soap, they caution.

Guests at this shower will include, with only one exception, Roberta's Gamma Phi Beta sorority sisters. From Birmingham come Peggy Allen, Barbara Backus, Mrs. Robert Caldwell, Jane Reitter is the exception. Not a Gamma Phi Beta, she has been invited to the party anyway.

Another tricky shower is the one which Mrs. Robert S. Porritt and her daughter, Dorothy, will give Tuesday at their home on Adams street. This one is to be a vice shower and to this party will be brought the accessories that go to make up the modern generation's minor vices. For instance, cigarettes, ash trays and some glassware.

The guest list for this shower includes Mrs. Joseph Brooks, Roberta's grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Cooper, her aunt, Mrs. Guy W. Jensen, Mrs. Parker, Miss Allen, Elizabeth White, Miss Campbell, Mrs. J. C. Lawson and her daughter, Mrs. Donald Robert, Mrs. Melvin C. Hart and Mrs. Chisus.

The bride-elect's aunt, Mrs. Ralph Kreger will entertain Saturday at her home on Franklin road in Pontiac. Her guests will include Mrs. William Bell, Mrs. John Ferguson, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Rose Mrs. Thomas L. Thurber, Rose Thurber, Mrs. D. L. Tate, Miss Tate, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Mrs. Charles H. Groves, Mrs. George Randall, Mrs. Charles B. Randall, Mr. Richard Harrack and Betty Harrack.

Youngsters, too, Try Flower Show

It's not just the grown ups that have flower shows these days for this week comes news of the flower and vegetable exhibit which youngsters in grades three to six at Bloomfield Hills School will hold Friday afternoon.

Quite a grown up show it will be, too, for Mrs. Louis Kahn and "The Lavender View"—Literature of World Affairs, which will take up "books that range wide and cut deep, looking toward a vital peace"; April 7, "The New Americana," books that offer a fresh and vigorous appraisal of our American heritage as well as books that tell a good American story; May 5, "The Ten Best Plays of 1940-41," further direct reports and a summing up of the season.

The lecturer is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Illinois, where she studied and taught under the late Stuart Sherman. She is the author of a successful novel published by Scribner's and of a number of magazine articles. For the past five years, she has devoted all her time to lecture work in Michigan and neighboring states. Her background of sound scholarship, her wide acquaintance in the publishing and theatre world, and her frequent trips to New York and other important centers of international culture, give her unusually fresh and illuminating interpretation of the works she discusses.

No Street Dance; School Party Instead

Although the street dance is being abandoned this week for the first time since summer began, it will be held next week when the Budee dance club are going to give for Baldwin High School as the last in the series of summer dances.

For this dance a small admission charge is to be made, distinguishing this party from any that have been held to date.
