

Bits of Birmingham

Here is a message directed to Birmingham amateur radio operators: Please adjust your set so that it does not interfere with regular broadcasting. Last week, Dr. A. W. Ives, 1088 Southfield, came in and declared that as he was listening to a broadcast from CKLW by J. B. Priestley, coming from England, that a local operator spoiled reception by his constant calling. He did not catch the call letters.

Incidentally, did you know that next spring, the wave lengths of all radio stations will be changed?

Herbert Bentley, 7, of 981 North Woodward, was bitten on the leg by a dog the other day, police records show.

We have on our desk a letter from Oscar Olander, head of the state police, telling how utterly silly this furor has been about "snakes and daggers" being hidden in the flag stickers which have been appearing on some automobiles.

Word comes from Karl D. Bailey, county agricultural agent, that Doris Short, of route 2, Birmingham, received a silver medal for being a member of a winning team which placed second in a state contest held by the 4-H Club. Incidentally, you gardeners ought to call at Bailey's office in Pontiac and see what a wide variety of leaflets he has on every farm and garden problem imaginable. The leaflets are free.

Police are watching for boys who broke windows in a new home at Harmon and Lakeview. A boy, 10 years old, was apprehended in the Kresge store the other day, and his pilfering was taken up with his parents.

Capt. Don Leonard, of Michigan State Police, blew a tire the other night when his car struck a hole in the street at Arlington and Pleasant. Very pleasant!

How he finds time, we don't know, but Fenton R. Mathews, our versatile critic friend, tells us he's again planning to teach violin and piano to a limited number of pupils this fall. Col. Mathews is one of those old-fashioned fellows who rises early—that must be the way he gets everything done.

John E. Fox, arrested last week on a charge of non-support, was placed on probation when arraigned before Justice Milton Conroy in Pontiac. When arraigned, he gave his address as 985 E. Maple. "Mr. Fox doesn't live at Try an Eccentric Classified Ad for quick results" my gas station," Tom Meraw pointed out this week.

City Treasurer Harold H. Corson is vacationing in the Canadian Northwest, hunting mountain peaks and another rest states it is bear. The situation bears watching.

The Board of Education room, after 15 hundred dealers crowded there Tuesday night, looked like an outright police session had been going on—cigar stubs were that numerous on the floor. The boys must have been nervous.

Mrs. George McCann, charity chairman of Psi chapter of Sigma Beta, reports that three layettes have been completed and boxed and that they have been distributed to needy mothers through a physician in Birmingham and one in Pontiac.

Broken traffic rules are booming. They will average themselves.

James H. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Bennett, 119 Adams road, Birmingham, is one of 240 new students enrolling this year at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. Antioch, founded in 1853 by Horace Mann, is one of the most widely-known experimental colleges in the country. One of its features is the co-operative plan of work and study, whereby students alternate academic work with experience on an actual job.

At present, there are four other residents of Birmingham enrolled at Antioch. They are Percy Bailey, 427 Hamilton avenue; John S. Black, Jr., 69 Oak street; Robert B. Luce, 221 Waddington road; and Helen L. Shaver, Warren Court.
