Princess Style Ivory Faille Chosen by Ruth Neal Asper

White chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the altar of St. James Episcopal Church Saturday evening when Ruth Neal Asper, niece of Mrs. Charles Eastin Asper, of Ravine road, became the bride of Guy S. Warren, Jr., of Detroit and Grand Haven, son of Mrs. Guy S. Warren, of Grand Haven, and the late Mr. Warren.

The altar was banked with palms and lighted by ivory tapers in cathedral candelabra. Baskets of white gladioli were placed at the chancel steps.

The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory faille fashioned on princess lines. The fitted bodice had a heart-shaped neckline and short sleeves made of narrow fabric ruffles and the extremely full skirt and long square train were bordered with rows of ruffles.

Her ivory veil of bridal illusion was draped from a small tulle cap trimmed with a coronet of braided satin and tulle and a satin bonnet which fell over her face. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Hilda Brown, who attended as maid of honor, wore antique rose taffeta with a full skirt. The fitted jacket had puffed sleeves and the high neckline was finished with a velvet collar and a wide bow. She wore a matching velvet bow in her hair and carried a bouquet of baby chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Diana Welch of Grand Rapids and Anne Cortis of Shaker Heights, O. Dressed identically they wore chattering taffeta made with fitted, shirred bodices having sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves. The full skirts were shirred in the back to form a slight bustle effect. They wore crownless taffeta hats and carried bouquets of rust colored chrysanthemums.

Walter Lillie, of Grand Haven, assisted Mr. Warren as best man. Ushers were Robert Holt, of Jacksonville, Fla., Richard Robinson, of Wheeling, W. Va., Kent Cooper, of Maplewood, N. J., and Lillio Crane, of Houston, Tex.

Mrs. Asper's new frock was fashioned with a square neckline and side drapes. She wore a brown velvet hat and a corsage of bronze orchids. Mrs. Warren wore a black crepe gown with a jet veil. A black velvet hat and a corsage of
