

Schedules Out for Annual Flower Show Sept. 14, 15

Community House Chosen By Clubs As Scene for This

Schedules are out this week for the annual flower, fruit and vegetable show which is to be held Saturday and Sunday of next week at the Community House under the joint auspices of the Bloomfield Hills and Birmingham branches of the Women's National Farm and Garden association and the Bloomfield Hills and district horticultural society.

From the Hills Mrs. William M. Paves, Mrs. W. G. Harry, Mrs. Donald D. James and Mrs. Edith M. Forbush are actively interested in the project.

Planning to exhibit are Mrs. Donald Sanderson, Mrs. Marc T. Patton, Mrs. Ferd M. Brook, Mrs. W. J. Hill, Mrs. Forbush, Mrs. James, Mrs. Louis Kahn and Mrs. Richard G. English.

Walter Killine is chairman of the show committee and has working with him Walter Thorndyke, Ben Carpenter and Simon Dowell.

Most of the classes in this show are open to members of the three societies. The classes that are open include collections of cut flowers, vases of perennials, vases of annuals, roses, dahlias, gladioli, artistic arrangements, meritorious and vegetable.

One class for "most meritorious exhibit" is for members of the Bloomfield Hills and District Horticultural Society alone.

There are some classes open to the general public and entries are to be registered by Sept. 12 with Harry Van Zelden—Phone 3436.

From the Women's Angle

By NELLIE HURLEY MINIFIE
Compilation by the Associated Press. A week of all nations' admitted losses confirmed from independent sources places the estimated war casualties at 236,000 wounded and unaccounted for in the year since Adolf Hitler invaded Poland and let loose the series of blitzkriegs that have swept Europe.

Startling and terrifying as it is, this figure seems low and here is the reason: This figure includes no official Polish, Neoswain, Netherlands, Belgian, French or British killed. It does not include 92,000 British killed, missing and wounded as announced the middle of August by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as Britain's loss in nearly a year of war.

It also includes a relief organization's estimate of 50,000 persons killed in Warsaw alone, the lower Red Cross figure of 10,000 Frenchmen killed and the German High Command admissions.

Present-day figures, the report points out, range from the 3,552,000 persons officially admitted or reliably estimated killed, missing and captured to the 3,562,000 claimed in belittled estimates of enemy losses and in unofficial estimates.

There are but bare statistics and fall short of giving the real extent of bloodshed and suffering. They in no measure paint a graphic picture of the mael that is a seething mass of humanity bombing, shooting and tearing itself asunder.

As Sherman said:

By KATHERINE W. GEORGE
Labor Day always seems to mark the end of summer, though actually it does not. But it does for most mark the end of vacation time.

Children must return to their studies, and we mothers wake up to the realization of important tasks awaiting us too. Even if the day seldom enjoy it in the same carefree way as we gather our forces with which to face the winter just ahead.

As a gesture and according to long-standing custom, we lay aside our light summer clothes after Labor Day in favor of more sombre attire. We begin to think in terms of winter coats and sweaters and stout shoes to be bought and make out long shopping lists with which to assault the stores. We have the furnace cleaned and the order wood for the winter season of oil, and if we are ambitious, we start canning bushels of this and that which will aid us in the guise of jams, jellies and pickles to come.

Peaches and pears, watermelon rind, cucumbers and tomatoes—energy from the kettle, which give off such spicy, tempting aromas in the guise of jams, jellies and pickles to come.

There is one more autumn job, too, that faces all good housewives and that is that old weather-beaten, house-hungry house must be rooted from its accustomed place and swept and garnished according to the best tradition. Windows must be washed, curtains and rugs cleaned, blankets aired, cupboards washed and things generally turned topsy-turvy. Everyone in the family suffers at house-cleaning time and husbands are apt to resent it particularly when they are to be repatriated and their dinner one of those three-course affairs which sometimes become necessary when the mistress of the house has too many ironing days.

All things come to an end, however, and after all the turmoil and hard work, peace may be restored and the winter awaited with an easy confidence.

Happenings of Long Ago

Better advert your bananas in the paper than by throwing skins and stumps out the front door.

Just think of it, $9,500 worth of real estate changed hands in our village last week. Not a bad record, is it? It is known that the buyers all purchased because they know there is money in it.

First of the month, look out for the Village Improvement girl. Mrs. Clyde McCarroll, of Southfield, daughter of Rev. Joseph McCracken, is making ample preparations for the Village Improvement girl. Among the heathen she will pass her life devoted to christian toil.

If you don't want someone to hitch to those nice young mules in front of your place, put out some hitching posts. They don't cost as much as your trees.

The Russian cabinet is to be increased by 10 members with the purpose of making the government more representative.

The liner Baltic arrived safely at Liverpool, says a dispatch received at New York, carrying a 10,000 ton cargo much of which consisted of war munitions and automobile trucks.

Cornelia Smith, who is 92 years of age, and the oldest resident of Birmingham, attended the pioneer picnic at Orchard Lake Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luscombe are away from a motor trip to Boston. Good time, no mishaps.

The same firm has secured the contract for putting in the new bridge over the River Rouge on Woodward avenue that built the other bridge nine years ago. The cost of the new bridge will be showing when it is known that it

Protheroe Family Back from East; Is in Canada Now

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Protheroe and daughters, Doris and Joan have just returned from an extensive motor trip through Canada and the eastern states.

Going by way of Toronto and Montreal they toured through the Lake Champlain country and the Green Mountains of Vermont, visiting at the summer colony of Oscar Seagle on Seberson Lake, with whom Mr. Protheroe studied in Paris.

After attending a wedding of the daughter of an old friend in Providence, R. I., they left for New York where Mr. Protheroe did some work with his former teacher, William Earl Brown, while in New York Mr. and Mrs. Protheroe and daughters had the unexpected pleasure of officiating at the wedding of a pupil of Mr. Protheroe's, Eleanor Douglas, of Detroit, and Frederick Ohay, a member of Fred Warnick's Pennsylvania class, at the Little Church Around the Corner. They then returned home after visiting friends in Harrisburg, Pa., and Mr. Protheroe's people in Cleveland.

The Protheroe family leave today for Toronto where they are to meet Mrs. Protheroe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Pollard, of Wynipie, Mass., returning Saturday. While there they will be the guests of Mrs. Robert Scarborough.

Let's Stay Calm About The Whole Thing

With every conceivable means the gal who is going to buy a new hat, fur, cardigan or what have you, is told via radio, newspaper, and circular all about the latest fad and must-have. There's a lot of excitement and a lot of unnecessary fuss and feathers about the whole thing.

Here is our attitude: If fine tailoring, simple styles, good lines and large assortments mean something to you, then we think we have something here.

We tell you frankly what is a Harris tweed and what is a Harris-type tweed (there's a big difference, you know), what styles are apt to stay in, and exactly what may be expected of each item.

We're extremely pleased with what we have, and assure you will be. Everything is guaranteed and pittance-priced. May we have the pleasure of showing you soon?

Do You Need A Lift?

Donna Lo Preparations will give you that and more.

Mr. Caroll C. Best of the Donna Lo Company, who is an eminent authority on skin care and make up will be here in person Saturday, September 7th, to demonstrate to you the almost unbelievable qualities (features not available in any other preparations) of Donna Lo.

Sh! Don't tell a soul. There is a free facial awaiting you.
